RAIL, AIR LINE TO SPAN U. S. IN 48 HOURS

Organize $5,000,000 Company.

New York, May 14.—[Special.]—A transcontinental air and rail system has been formed, it was learned here today, in which the Pennsylvania railroad, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fé, the National Air Transport company, and the Curtiss and Wright corporations have joined forces whereby passengers leaving New York will be in Los Angeles on the evening of the second day.

From Los Angeles the service is to be extended to San Francisco and Seattle. The tentative schedule which has been worked out calls for the passenger to go aboard a limited train at the Pennsylvania station in New York at [illegible] p. m.

Changes at Columbus.

The next morning about 8 he will step from the train at Columbus, O., and be driven to the airport, where he will go aboard a multimotored fourteen passenger airplane, built for a cruising speed of more than 100 miles an hour, equipped with restaurant service. At Wichita, Kas., he will leave the plane and go aboard a westbound limited of the Santa Fé, and through the night he will travel on the train, to change once more to air transportation in New Mexico in the morning. At 5 o'clock in the afternoon the big air transport will land him on the Los Angeles airport.

A west to east schedule equally fast has been worked out, although details of it were not available for publication today.

Lindy Declines Position.

C. M. Keys, president of the Curtiss corporation, will be president of the new company. Col. Charles A. Lindbergh has been offered a position as an official, but has not accepted. He said he had no intention of joining in any commercial aviation enterprise either now or for some time to come. He added that, in his self-appointed task of helping aviation in every way possible, he is willing to aid the new enterprise in any way he can unofficially. He believes the future of air transportation in this country is closely linked with the present rail systems. The new company is capitalized at $5,000,000.

It is known that other railroads besides the Pennsylvania and the Santa Fé have been gathering statistics on air transportation.

PLANE HAS 10 PASSENGERS.

Carrying ten passengers, one of the three airplanes being flown from New York to California landed at the municipal airport, 63d street and Cicero avenue, yesterday. These planes will be used between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

Piloted by Silas Morehouse, the plane arriving yesterday left Detroit at 2:05 p. m., stopped at Kalamazoo, and landed at the city airport here at 5:12 p. m.

Taken as Good Will Tour.

The flight from New York to California has been turned into a good will tour to demonstrate the high development of commercial aircraft in America.

Starting simultaneously at New York last Saturday, the three planes are following separate routes, one the northern, one the central, and the third the southern. The other two planes last night were in Kansas City and New Orleans.

Construction of the planes has been financed by the Daniel Guggenheim fund for the promotion of aeronautics and will be used by their owner, the Western Air Express company, to establish a 3 hour passenger service over the 400 miles between Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Test for Passenger Line.

This line is being established as an experiment to prove it is economically feasible for a passenger service to be operated profitably. There are places for twelve passengers in the cabins, which are equipped with sliding glass windows, racks for light baggage, and arrangements for serving hot food. In the event that one of the motors fails to operate, these Fokker planes can be sustained in flight by the other two motors.

The planes were designed by Antony Fokker and built under his supervision at Hasbrouck Heights, New Jersey.

HOME RULE PLEA COMES UP TODAY IN LEGISLATURE

20 Aldermen Leave to Urge Passage.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Twenty aldermen with three lawyers left for Springfield late last night carrying three bills to present to the special session of the legislature, which assembles at 11 o'clock this morning. These bills were drafted to give Chicago home rule over public utilities and to remove the twenty year limitation on street railway franchises.

Officially the city council, by a vote of 41 to 1, asked the legislature yesterday to confer upon Chicago the right to grant a street railway franchise for a fixed term of unlimited years. Under the bill, formally approved by the city council, the city could grant a street railway franchise for 30 years, 40 years, 99 years, or 999 years, so long as there is a referendum on the ordinance and the number of years specified in it. Those, it was agreed, are the only limitations on the power sought to grant a fixed term franchise.

Call Proposals Ill Advised.

Many of the aldermen look upon this proposed legislation as extremely ill advised, but point out that it is in conformity with Gov. Small's call for the special session, according to its interpretation by the attorneys for the local transportation committee—William H. Sexton, W. R. Matheny, and James S. Skinner.

That, it was explained yesterday, is the chief reason why the city council gave its approval of the bill.

Before the aldermen took action a weak effort was made on the floor of the council to limit the city's power, so far as the wording of the franchise bill is concerned, to 40 years. Ald. W. W. Mills [37th] moved to ask power to grant not more than a 30 year franchise. His motion was amended by Ald. E. I. Frankhauser [49th], to read 40 years. On the roll call to adopt the Frankhauser amendment the yeas were 15 and the nays 27.

Ald. Mills insisted that his colleagues had misinterpreted Gov. Small's call.

"Opposed to Long Term Grant."

"The governor in his call," he said, "irrespective of his failure to place a limit on the length of a fixed term franchise, makes it perfectly plain that he is opposed to a long term grant. His call says that he will not stand for an inderminate franchise or terminable permit nor for an indefinite or perpetual grant. You can frame a fixed term franchise with such a long period of duration that it is in effect, although lacking the name of, a perpetual franchise. In my opinion the governor is against a terminable permit or an indeterminate franchise because he knows they can be in effect perpetual franchises. It is foolish to ask the legislature for such a grant of power.

"Not all the wisdom is lodged in this generation. The next will be wiser than we are. They should be permitted to have something to say about the franchises under which they must live. Under this bill the city could grant a franchise for 100 years or 1,000 years."

Even Ald. John J. Coughlin [1st] balked for a moment against what he classed "a perpetual franchise"; but he and all other aldermen got in line later on the final formal roll call for the bill—except Mills.

Debate on Home Rule Bill.

The proposed home rule bill caused much more discussion than the unlimited fixed term franchise.

"The governor has called a special session to give us home rule," said Ald. John Toman [23d]. "This bill provides for a local commission to take over the powers and duties of the state commerce commission in Chicago; but in a very large percentage of the cases which will arise the local commission and the state commission must hold joint hearings. We are to dovetail in with the state commission. If we can't get home rule we might just as well stay where we are. To the people of Chicago this bill doesn't mean anything. All it means is more jobs—and taxes are high enough. It doesn't mean home rule."

Ald. D. S. McKinlay [19th] referred to the joint hearing provision as "a dangerous section." He added: "It opens the door to abuse of home rule

4 of Murder Gang Free; 5th Calls It Unfair

Fourteen years ago Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan, then sitting in the Criminal court, sentenced five men to the penitentiary for murder. He imposed sentences of forty years each on four of the older men and sentenced Jim Paletta, 19 years old, the "baby" of the gang, to serve thirty-five years.

A letter to the judge yesterday revealed that Paletta is still serving his time with the prospect of remaining in Joliet for the full thirty-five year term. But his four companions, it was learned, including the one who actually committed the murder, have long since been released on parole.

Letter from Convict.

Statements in the letter written by Palato to Judge Sullivan were corroborated by an examination of state records. It follows:

"Dear sir, Judge your honor:

"I am writting to you this few lines in regard to my case. Dear sir, Judge honor, I wish you would write a letter to the parole board for me. All the four others in the case, they were set free. Three have got out in 1922, Frank Sicoli, who did the Kill, he got out in 8 years and 3 months, John Giordani, Jim Morilli and George Lombardi, they got out about four months ago.

"I can't understand why the gentlemen of the pardons and parole board are holding me in and let the others four go. I didn't even have a gun in my hands. We all pleaded guilty and we all got sentenced down here. You give them 40 years each and you give me 35 years. Now they have been free for 6 years and I am still do time and God knows when I will get out yet. You no I was only kid when you send me down here, and my first time in trouble.

Eligible for Parole.

"I do not think that is right to keep one man in and let the others four go. I was up befor the board in 1926 and my case was taking on consideration, but I never hear anything yet. I have been eligible for parole since 1926. I have good record in here and good record outside. I believed I have served enough time, 14 years. I will remain yours, Respectable, JIM PALETTA, No. 3684."

"I have no sympathy with any one who wants to let a criminal out of jail short of the time he was sentenced to serve," remarked Judge Sullivan. "But I see no reason why this man should be forced to serve while his companions, who were guiltier than he, are set free. He was only a kid, then, as he says, and his only fault was that he was along with the gang when the murder was committed."

Grounds for Complaint.

"Nevertheless, I sentenced him to serve 35 years. But he seemingly has some ground for complaint when all the others have been paroled and he alone remains."

The murder for which the men were sentenced occurred Feb. 19, 1914, on the North Western railroad near Glencoe. The five men attempted to hold up workers on a hand car, and when they met resistance two of the holdup men fired revolvers, killing Salverno Scailato.

STRESEMANN ILL; FEAR HE MAY NOT LIVE OVER NIGHT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 15 [Tuesday.]—Gustav Stresemann, foreign minister of Germany, who has been ill since Thursday, his 50th birthday, was reported worse at midnight. Official bulletins deny there is any acute danger, but three doctors are at his bedside constantly in an effort to help him through the night's crisis. His heart has improved slightly, but his kidnels so far have failed to respond to treatment.

Dr. Stresemann at noon yesterday hovered between life and death, but passed the crisis and grew better during the afternoon. In the evening he passed a second crisis and a bulletin at 11 p. m., said there was no immediate danger, although the patient was feverish.

Dr. Stresemann was taken ill with stomach poisoning, due to unsound meat. The ailment extended into the intestines and was diagnosed as intestinal catarrh, aggravated by an old kidney complaint, with irregular heart action and respiratory trouble.

Taxi Driver Prince Seeks Serb Throne

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.

[Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune].

BERLIN, May 14.—Backed by the promise of a squadron of airplanes and supposed British and Italian backing, Prince Alexander Dabischa-Kotromanich, 33 years old, is preparing an attempt to oust King Alexander from the Jugo-Slav throne. The prince proposes to assert the rights of the Kotromanich family, which reigned in what is now Jugo-Slavia from 1163 to 1443, and of which he is the sole direct heir.

Taxi Driver in Berlin.

Until two weeks ago the prince earned his living as a taxi driver in Berlin. His wife, Princess Ariadne, of the well known Roumanian family of Cantacuzene, shared the meager living.

The prince makes no secret of the source of the sudden financial support, which his aide-de-camp, Capt. Grischka, said emanates from Rome and London. Marchese Antionori, an attaché of the Italian embassy in Berlin, is said to have had an active share in the negotiations for financing the prince, in view of the present Jugo-Slavian king's uncompromising refusal to deal with Premier Mussolini. The British government has not compromised itself directly, but private British capital has been invested in the venture, it is claimed.

Belongs to Ancient Dynasty.

The Kotromanich dynasty is older than either the Karageorge or Obrenovich dynasties, which have been alternating in Serbia lately, marking each change with murder. When the Turks overran Jugo-Slavia, the family left and settled first in Austria, then in Russia, where many members rose to high positions in the Russian army. Prince Alexander was thrown into jail by the bolsheviks, which prevented him from stating his claim at the Versailles peace congress.

UNCLE SAM BARS PICTURES OF HIS DRY SHOOTERS

New York, May 15.—[Special.]—An effort to obtain in Buffalo the pictures of the two coast guardsmen on dry duty, held for the shooting of Hanson, the Niagara Falls citizen, was unsuccessful today. A news photographer, ordered by Pacific and Atlantic Photos, Inc., to get photographs of the two shooters—Glenn Jennings and Christ Dew—was met with refusal by the U. S. authorities, which will not even allow the men to be interviewed.

Hanson, the innocent victim of the dry agents, is in a hospital in a critical condition. The shooters are in the federal authorities' hands. No newspaper men can even see them.

Promise Facts as 3 Judges Go on 'Trial'

An audience of leading lawyers, business men, and educators was present yesterday in the county building when three judges of the Criminal court were figuratively on trial. As ex-Senator James Hamilton Lewis, their legal representative, phrased it, they were charged with "having surrendered their judicial honor to the command of the criminal element."

Six judges sat in judgment upon their colleagues. Frank J. Loesch, president of the Chicago crime commission, stood before the court and reiterated his vigorous demand that Judges Emanuel Eller, Otto Kerner, and Stanley Klarkowski retire from the Criminal court "in the name of common decency." Such retirement would mean that they go back to the trial of civil cases.

Loesch Outlines Hise Case.

The proceedings lasted two hours while Mr. Loesch outlined his position. The burden of his plea was that the three accused judges have forfeited their right to a place on the Criminal court bench by imposing light sentences upon criminals who should have been punished severely. He was asked to prepare a bill of particulars giving the specific charges against each judge and the hearing was then continued until Tuesday, May 22.

"There has never been anything like this inquiry in legal history," asserted one of the presiding judges, after the hearing. "Every step taken will set a precedent."

Judges in a Half Circle.

Court was held in the assembly room of the board of county commissioners on the fifth floor of the county building. The six judges were grouped in a half circle on the dais at one end of the room. Before them sat the lawyers and principals at the desks ordinarily reserved for the commissioners. The crowd which packed every bit of space stood in the rear.

Attention was focused upon the judicial sextet. At one end sat Judge Harry M. Fisher, small, dark, and alert, toying with a pencil. Next to him, Judge Denis E. Sullivan, authority on chancery law. White-haired Judge Thomas Taylor of the Appellate court, interrupting the proceedings now and then with a quick, incisive word or two, was next. Judge Hugo Pam, Judge Kickham Scanlan, and Judge Joseph Sabath completed the six.

Rosenwald in Audience.

In the audience were Julius Rosenwald, millionaire philanthropist, who said he came because he regarded the proceeding as "the most important thing that has happened in Chicago in many years"; Alfred Decker, Joseph R. Noel, banker; Charles F. Axelson, trustee of the University of Chicago; William F. Jergens, Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. Clair More, Mrs. Loesch, wife of the crime commission leader; Mrs. Sterling Morton, Mrs. Heaton Owsley, and many others known to the public.

Judge Taylor immediately called Mr. Loesch before him and stated:

"As a result of your charges that Judges Eller, Kerner and Klarkowski have paltered with crime conditions while sitting as judges of the Criminal court, we are convened here. Such matters necessarily being of great moment to the people and to the courts, the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts have concluded it would be advisable to go thoroughly into the matters involved. We would like some sort of a preliminary statement from you."

Loesch Makes Reply.

Mr. Loesch raised his voice in answer so that all in the crowded chamber might hear.

"Leading business and professional men in the city of Chicago, members of the Chicago crime commission, are back of this petition," he said. "They are not disrespectful of the law or of the courts. The interests of themselves, their families, their wives, their

CARLSTROM PUT IN CHARGE OF BALLOT INQUIRY

Attorney General Oscar Carlstrom will arrive in Chicago Thursday to take charge of the special grand jury inquiry aimed at destroying the entente between politics and crime in this city and at exposing and punishing election terrorists and ballot thieves.

This was announced last night after Chief Justice William V. Brothers of the Criminal court notified Mr. Carlstrom by telephone of his appointment to the task of housecleaning Chicago. The attorney general also consulted by telephone with Carl R. Latham, president of the Chicago Bar association, who presented the plea for the special inquiry.

Judge Brothers told Mr. Carlstrom, it was learned, that the entire investigation will be in his hands. The broadest powers will be given the grand jury, the judge said.

Impanel Jury on June 4.

The jury will be impaneled, according to the court's order, on June 4. By that time, it is believed, Attorney General Carlstrom will have selected outstanding members of the Chicago bar to conduct the inquiry, and evidence will have been marshalled for presentation to the jury.

"I will grant the jury and Mr. Carlstrom the full power sought by the bar association's petition," Judge Brothers said. "They may go into the charges of terrorism and fraud in the 1926 elections, and into all the incidents surrounding the recent primary. The people are entitled to know what the situation is and this inquiry should clear the atmosphere."

The attorney general, who was at his home in Aledo during the day, told the officials that it was necessary for him to attend the opening session of the legislature today, and that he proposed to leave Aledo for Springfield last night.

When Mr. Carlstrom asked Judge Brothers when he wished him to take hold of the investigation, the judge replied that he would be guided by the attorney general's wishes, since it was to be his inquiry. Then Mr. Carlstrom said he would appear in Judge Brothers' courtroom on Thursday.

Chief Justice Takes Charge.

The impaneling of the special grand jury was ordered by the chief justice with dramatic abruptness and after he had peremptorily removed the matter from the jurisdiction of his court colleague, Judge Harry B. Miller.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, who had presented an answer charged with bitter denunciations of the bar association and its leaders, and who has openly fought against the appointment of a special prosecutor and a special grand jury, withdrew all his objections suddenly. He made several suggestions for the appointment of a prosecutor, once asking Judge Brothers to make the appointment a dual one, naming the two rival candidates for state's attorney, Judge John A. Swanson, Republican, and Judge William J. Lindsay, Democrat, to the task.

Crowe Accepts Carlstrom.

At the termination of the hearing, Mr. Crowe urbanely agreed to the nomination of Attorney General Carlstrom, and there were many in the courtroom who were puzzled at the altered attitude of the state's attorney.

Judge Brothers several times during the hearing referred to his friendship for Mr. Crowe, and once remarked that since he had known the state's attorney he had not seen or heard of a single act that would cast discredit upon his character."

Then at 2 o'clock, when the matter came up before Judge Miller according to the original program, Mr. Latham said he would ask that Judge Miller reserve whatever jurisdiction he might still hold over the petition until tomorrow.

"I would like to think over this situation a little longer," Mr. Latham said, after he had informed Judge Miller of Judge Brothers' action.

"Irregular," Miller Says.

"To say the least," replied Judge Miller, who indicated his ire at Judge Brothers' intervention, "this is rather irregular.

"The matter was pending before me according to the law and the constitution, and it was not ethical or right to take it before another judge.

"Nevertheless, I agree that it does not serve the interest of the public welfare, nor of public justice, to have unseemly conflict between the courts. I concur in Mr. Latham's request for delay to consider his further action.

and I wish time for considering what the court's course shall be. I shall continue the case until Wednesday."

At the opening of the morning session of court, State's Attorney Crowe appeared before Judge Brothers and presented a petition requesting that the chief justice take over the petition filed before Judge Miller. Mr. Latham had been notified and appeared to resist the move.

Mr. Crowe argued that according to the rules of the Criminal court only the chief justice has the power to impanel a grand jury. Were it otherwise, many judges might appoint grand juries and bring about indescribable confusion, he said.

Latham Cites Statute.

"How can a rule of court be more binding than the statutes?" asked Mr. Latham. "The statute provides that any court can impanel a grand jury. A rule of court cannot unfrock a judge of his powers."

Judge Brothers then stated he was put in an embarrassing position, but that he felt it his duty as chief justice to order the petition redocketed before himself. Then Mr. Latham asked that the case be assigned to another judge.

"It is time," replied Mr. Crowe, "that the gentlemen of the bar association stopped shopping around for a judge who will do their bidding. I think these matters should be decided according to law.

"Evidently these legal lights have discarded their law books for the Bible, and in going before Judge Miller, who is in the last branch of the court, they are proceeding according to the biblical rule: 'The first shall be last and the last shall be first.'"

Judge Brothers then announced his ruling, holding that he would hear the matter himself.

"I have made up my mind what I shall do," he said. "Mr. Latham, you may not be as disappointed with my action as you now seem to think."

Mr. Crowe, after Judge Brothers' remark, immediately suggested the appointment of Judges Lindsay and Swanson as special prosecutors, but the court said he had no power to appoint them.

Attacks Crowe's Fitness.

Arguing the unfitness of the state's attorney to investigate the election crimes, Latham said that if conditions in Chicago were to be improved, the influence of Crowe must be removed from the inquiry.

"It is, indeed, unfortunate for Cook county that we have a man in the state's attorney's office who is only trying to advance himself politically," said Latham. "I believe the petition filed by the Chicago Bar association should be granted and that the attorney general should be called in to conduct the investigation.

"There should be a fearless, honest and just investigation into the matters set forth in the petition."

State's Attorney Crowe came back with a hot reply.

"Members of the Chicago Bar association who are bringing these charges against me are business agents for the Deneen organization," he said. "It should be called the Deneen Bar association. They carry a Bible in one hand and a bucket of mud in the other.

"An officer put into office by the people should not be removed except in extreme cases. I don't see where there is a scintilla of truth in the petition filed by the association."

"I am just as vitally interested as any one," ruled Judge Brothers, "in having the facts set forth in the petition filed by the bar association investigated. And I will add that since my relation with the state's attorney I have not seen or heard of a single act that would cast discredit upon his character.

"I am going to enter an order that a special grand jury be impaneled and I am going to ask the attorney general to assist. I will set June 4 as the day for the special grand jury to be impaneled. The public has been aroused by the present state of affairs and I am sure that at the conclusion of the present investigation they will be more at ease."

After hearing of Judge Miller's criticism of his action, Judge Brothers issued the following statement:

"In ordering the petition of the Chicago Bar association redocketed before me I had only in mind complying with the law and the rules of the Criminal court as I understand them and in nowise as a reflection on the integrity or sincerity of Judge Miller, whom I regard highly as friend and associate on this bench who has done all in his power to advance and dispose of the court's business."

Joseph H. Barnett, president of the jury commissioners, after being informed of Judge Brothers' order for a special grand jury venire of 100 men, announced that he would invite members of the bar association, representatives of the state's attorney and the attorney general, and the press to witness the drawing of the venire.

The legal procedure followed is to place 1,000 or more names in a rotating barrel in which the cards are mixed thoroughly. Then a blindfolded clerk takes 100 cards from the barrel on which are printed the names of the men who will constitute the venire.

Other members of the jury commission are Logan D. Wallace and James J. McVicker. They are appointed by the judges of the Circuit and Superior courts.

JUDGE ASSAILS STATE ATTORNEY FOR WAY OF HANDLING CAFFEY CASE

Methods of the state's attorney's office in dealing with Prohibition Agent Myron Caffey, who is charged with shooting and wounding William Beatty, a Municipal court bailiff, were sharply criticized yesterday by Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson.

His remarks were made during a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus brought in behalf of Caffey and seeking to transfer the charge against him to the federal court.

"Hasn't Caffey been indicted?" inquired the jurist. "Has the grand jury of Cook county ceased to function?"

Assistant State's Attorney Clarence E. Nelson informed the court that the case was an ordinary one and that State's Attorney Crowe preferred to have a hearing on the charge in the Municipal court before proceeding to indict.

"This is not an ordinary case," said Judge Wilkerson. "An accusation has been made against an officer of the United States. I believe the present hearing could have been terminated long ago if the state's attorney had indicted Caffey, as he had a right to do."

The matter was taken under advisement. Caffey is alleged in the state charge to have shot Beatty in the back during a raid by special dry agents in a saloon.

WOMAN IS SLAIN; ALCOHOL DEALER SHOT TO DEATH

Two Murders Added to City's Crime Record.

Added to Chicago's crime record last night were two murders. A man identified through letters in his pockets as Joseph Cavarith or Cammarata, 45, of 733 North La Salle street, an alcohol peddler, was shot and killed in the shadow of the Church of God at 818 Milton avenue. Mrs. La Rue Wergen Leonardi, 23, of 1362 South Avers avenue, was hacked to death with an ax in a basement flat at 4300 West 14th street.

The killer escaped in each instance. Witnesses told the police that they had seen three men walking north from Chicago avenue shortly before 9 o'clock. The one in the center was Cavarith. The others, presumably, were the killers. Five shots were heard as the trio stepped into the alley beside the church.

Cavarith was dead and the others had fled when a few of the curious residents of the neighborhood went to the scene.

Find Record of Dealings.

In the victim's room Lieut. George De Mar of the Chicago avenue station found a book with notations of alcohol sales and orders. It was discovered that the automobile he drove had a license number issued to Emanuel Cammarata, 470 West Chicago ovenue. There were also letters written to Cavarith from Utica, N. Y.

The police had no definite theory to offer as an explanation of the killing. They believe, however, that some trouble connected with the alcohol racket furnished the motive. The killers left behind them the pistol with which Cavarith was killed. This is characteristic of shootings committed by Italians and Sicilians. The first suspect taken into custody was Frank Morretti, 2015 Fremont street.

Blame Love Affair.

A love affair is believed to have caused the death of Mrs. Leonardi, a divorceé. The room in which her body was found was rented by Morris Zinn, 42, a vegetable peddler.

Yesterday morning, the police were told by the girl's grandfather, Frederick Von Gunden, with whom she lived, Zinn called her and asked her to come to his room, as he was ill. The pair had been sweethearts for seven months. Mrs. Charles Dichter, who rented the room to Zinn, said that they were together when she went out in the afternoon.

Zinn is being sought as the killer. The ax with which Mrs. Leonardi was killed was found in a closet. A brother of Zinn told Capt. Charles McGurn of the Filmore street station that Morris had been mentally unbalanced for months.

The radicals bolted the vote came on making the retroactive on earnings of on which taxes are paid in 1928.

Revenue Loss $25,000,000.

As approved, the reductions will benefit 125,000 taxpayers with incomes above $20,000 and will be effective on earnings of 1928 on which returns are filed in March, 1929. The annual loss revenue will be $25,000,000.

The reduction followed the general of the recommendation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, who has taken the position that taxpayers subject to the middle surtax brackets are not benefited in previous revenue revisions to the same extent as those with smaller or larger incomes. The bill as passed by the house made changes in surtax rates.

Defeat Democratic Schedule.

There were two roll calls during the consideration of surtax rates. The senate, by a vote of 39 to 43, rejected Simmons amendment embodying Democratic surtax schedule, which commenced reductions at $10,000 and them at $70,000. On this vote Democrats, with the single exception of Senator Bruce [Md.], voted in affirmative, while the Republicans, regulars and radicals, and Senator Shipstead [Farm-Labor, Minn.] recorded in the negative. The then approved the finance com- surtax rates without a roll call. second roll call came on the amendment making the retroactive and providing for a from the amounts paid and as taxes for the present year This amendment was beat- to 54. The Democrats voted against the amendment and joined by Senator Shipstead and Republicans.

Incomes from $10,000 to $14,000.

Under the surtax schedule as approved, present rates of one per cent incomes between $10,000 and $14,- two per cent between $14,000 and 000, three per cent between $16,000 $18,000 and 4 per cent between 000 and $20,000 will continue to ply. The 4 per cent rate is extended $21,000 which under the present is in the 5 per cent bracket applying between $20,000 and $22,000.

The proposed new rates from that are five per cent between $21,000 $24,000, 6 per cent between $24,000 $28,000, 7 per cent between $28,000 $32,000, 8 per cent between $32,000 $36,000, 9 per cent between $36,000 $40,000, 10 per cent between $40,- and $46,000, 11 per cent between 000 and $52,000, 12 per cent between $52,000 and $58,000, 14 per cent between $58,000 and $64,000, 16 per cent between $64,000 and $70,000, 18 per cent between $70,000 and $8,000, and 20 per cent above $8,000.

How England Views Chicago Primary Election

THIS NEWSBOY WAS A RUNAWAY GIRL FROM OAK PARK

What that still, small voice called conscience attacked her yesterday because she had lied to her mother, Grace Morse, 12 year old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Charles L. Morse of 1022 South Scoville avenue, Oak Park, decided to become a boy and leave home for life.

Martin Dwyer, division superintendent for the circulation department of THE TRIBUNE, was standing at Dearborn and Madison streets last night when a freckled faced urchin approached. "He" wanted a job selling newspapers, said "he'd" sold 'em for two years all over the country. Something about the shrill voice aroused Dwyer's suspicions.

"All right, my boy," Dwyer said, "get in the car." And he drove to the detective bureau.

In fifteen minutes the "boy" confessed.

DETECTIVES FIND M'GURN'S HOME IS HIS FORTRESS

Two police squads under Lieut. Charles Welling of the detective bureau last night invaded the four room suite of Jack McGurn, gambler and gangster, recently the target of enemies' bullets, in the Guyon hotel, at 4000 Washington boulevard, and there found one of the fifty machine guns sold in Chicago since last September. In the living room they also found an automatic pistol and an automatic rifle loaded with dumdum bullets.

The detective seized McGurn, who was in golfing togs, and William Burke, 33, who said he was a licensed prize fight referee, as the two were about to sit down to a dinner Mrs. McGurn had prepared. McGurn told the detectives that he felt the need of an arsenal in his rooms to protect himself.

MANIAC KNOCKS OUT PILOT; PLANE DIVES 2,000 FT.

Pontiac, Mich., May 14.—[Special.]—Harry Anderson, 28, aviator, and Clarence Frechette, 24, Detroit, narrowly escaped death today when Anderson's plane dropped into a 2,000 foot nose dive. Both are in a hospital here recovering from injuries.

Anderson said Frechette hired him to fly from Roseville to Pontiac. As they were flying over the grounds of the state hospital for the insane at Pontiac, Anderson said, Frechette, apparently crazed, picked up a hammer and struck him over the head.

"I must have been unconscious for some time, and when I came to we were headed in a nose dive," Anderson said. "I jerked the controls and tried to right the plane and managed to slow its speed before it struck the ground."

On Frechette's person was found a letter to his mother, Mrs. J. C. Frechette of Pontiac, and another to Miss Georgia Pardo, also of Pontiac. The letter to the girl was in an air mail envelope upon which was inscribed: "Death is my postage, sweetheart."

Frechette will be given a mental examination. He refused to tell why he attacked Anderson.

Saturday night gallons of red paint were poured on the grass in front of the Chamberlain home and Sunday night kerosene and lard were poured on the shrubbery, apparently with the intention of burning the plants. Mr. Chamberlain asserted that he knew of no reason for the vandalism.

CHIEF IS OUSTED IN VICE DRIVE AT MICHIGAN CITY

Chief Richard J. Kruse of the Michigan City, Ind., police force, and Wade Swasick, the city engineer of the town, were forced to resign last night at a meeting of the city commissioners, as the result of charges growing out of a recent exposé that the town was wide open.

At the same time the mayor, William F. C. Dall, resigned because he is moving out of the city, and the commissioners appointed Capt. Wesley R. Kibby of the police force, acting chief, and Christopher G. Wilbur, mayor.

On May 11, the Rev. Donald C. Ford of Michigan City, made charges that the city officials were tolerating open vice.

FOLLOWERS BALK AS CULT LEADER TOURS WITH GIRLS

Dr. Louis Conde, who styles himself "Lahissa, the New Teacher," was able to make his followers believe he was the reincarnation of Christ until he took his new secretary and his stenographer on a tour to Miami, Fla., after receiving a particularly large donation, according to the evidence given yesterday by many women to Assistant State's Attorney Joseph Nicolai.

The women told the prosecutor that to add to the insult of their teacher taking their money for a trip with his becoming young secretary, and her younger sister, who was the stenographer, he started to drink hard liquor and appeared several times in an intoxicated condition.

Tell of Baths and Sex Talks.

Before the hearing of the complaints had subsided for the day, the prosecutor had listened to tales about Dr. Conde being bathed by both his secretary and stenographer and of his talks on sex matters to some of his followers.

Dr. Conde was ordered to desist from his "teachings of universal peace and understanding" and to keep his women employés away from his rooms in the Morrison hotel pending completion of the inquiry against him.

Miss Barbara J. Gode, 836 Winona avenue, told the prosecutor that she was the original secretary of Dr. Conde. He put her to work, she said, rounding up new customers after he employed Miss Ethel Decker, 26, of 318 South Ashland avenue, as secretary, and her sister, Grace, 17, as stenographer. She did not mind the change, although working for almost nothing, until she saw Conde "terribly intoxicated" and found the new help bathing him when he was ill. Finally, the trip to Florida shook her faith.

Failed to Cure Ills.

"He made no advances himself, but did talk of sex matters to me," said Miss Gode. "He did not cure my ills as he said he would."

After the $6,500 donation came in from a mysterious Mrs. Smith—none would tell her address—Conde again became ill and left for Florida on Feb. 8. When he returned on March 20 it was necessary for him to go to a Winnetka sanitarium to recover, he admitted. The secretary went with him.

Miss Mickie Kuenze, 303 Wisconsin street, paid $165 "to become smart," she said.

"I am as dumb as I ever was," she complained yesterday.

Bertha Kallerud, 2436 Berteau avenue, a spinster telegraph operator, let go of $1,500 to be cured from her illness, she said, but is no better than when she started to attend the lectures of Lahissa.

A. Barta, 1574 Milwaukee avenue, said he paid $200 to find out how to better himself in business. Most of Conde's sessions, he said, had to do with his relations with his wife, and he decided that the cult leader was a "humbug" and obtained a $70 refund.

Conde scoffed at the complaints as they were made. He mumbled continuously that he is the victim of persecution as of old. He declared his love for his new secretary as did she, but they both said it was an admiration for each other's work and not a worldly love. Miss Decker admitted authorship of a letter in part as follows:

"Dear Lahissa, First last and in between I love you. . . . Just got up, took a cold shower and feel like a million dollars. All I need to feel like two million is you. As you say the spirit does not satisfy like the body."

Dr. Conde says he has been in America for 53 years, but that he does not know his age. He came from India.

If They Make Their Own Music—

CHILDHOOD days are "make-believe" days; imagination days. The creative instinct is strongest then—the impulse to do things—to find out why and how.

Can there be a better time for them to learn to make music for themselves? However great their natural love for it, it will mean little to them if they only hear it from others—and never make it a medium of self-expression.

Through the glorious, singing tones of the many thousands of children have gained even more than an insight into the full meaning of music. By interpreting their thoughts on its keys they have gained a more alert initiative, a more positive turn of character, that has carried them farther in different phases of after-life.

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Spe ial]—Frank O. Lowden of Illinoi and Senator James E. Watson of In a, "favorite son" candidates fo the Republican presidential nomin ion, testifying before the senate' campaign expenses committee today denied that they are "stalkin horses" for Charles G. Dawes.

Neither has any agreement with th President to switch delega strength to him on an early ballot the Kansas City convention and, bot asserted, there is no alliance of "favo sons," as far as they are concerne least, to block the nomination ecretary of Commerce Hoover.

What little time was devoted by th committee to campaign expenditure developed the fact that the Lowde national preconvention campaign thu far has cost slightly less than $60,00 total of $64,700, contributed princ ally by Omer N. Custer, forme Illinois state treasurer; Robert Clark of Los Angeles, and Lowde himself was raised to finance the figh for delegates.

Watson Spends $2,680.

Senator Watson reported that h had spent $2,680 out of his own pock during the recent bitter fight wi Hoover for the Indiana delegation. H had no idea of how much his man ger, Bert Thurman of Indianapoli and the treasurer of his campaig committee, Archie Bobbitt, also of I dianapolis, collected and spent. Th are to appear before the committ later in the week as will Lowden campaign manager, Clarence Buck.

Lowden asserted that early in h campaign it was decided that h name would not be entered in a state where a "favorite son" mov ment in favor of another candida was launched. Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Frank O. Lowden of Illinois and Senator James E. Watson of Indiana, "favorite son" candidates for the Republican presidential nomination, testifying before the senate's campaign expenses committee today, denied that they are "stalking horses" for Charles G. Dawes.

Neither has any agreement with the Vice President to switch delegate strength to him on an early ballot in the Kansas City convention and, both said, there is no alliance of "favorite sons," as far as they are concerned, to block the nomination of Secretary of Commerce Hoover.

But little time was devoted by the committee to campaign expenditures beyond the fact that the Lowden national preconvention campaign thus far has cost slightly less than $60,000. A total of $64,700, contributed principally by Omer N. Custer, former Illinois state treasurer; Robert D. Black of Los Angeles, and Lowden himself was raised to finance the fight for delegates.

Watson Spends $2,600.

Senator Watson reported that he had spent $2,680 out of his own pocket during the recent bitter fight with Hoover for the Indiana delegation. He had no idea of how much his manager, Bert Thurman of Indianapolis, and the treasurer of his campaign committee, Archie Bobbitt, also of Indianapolis, collected and spent. They are to appear before the committee later in the week as will Lowden's campaign manager, Clarence Buck.

Lowden asserted that early in his campaign it was decided that his name would not be entered in any state where a "favorite son" movement in favor of another candidate was launched. Independent organizations were not set up in any state, he said, "because I know before we got through with it that organization would cost a lot more money than you have any idea of and you can hardly conduct an aggressive campaign of that kind without leaving a good many sore spots."

Seeks to Avoid Sore Spots.

"If I am not nominated," he said, "my troubles are over. If I am nominated, they have just commenced. I am not going to add to the troubles, in the event I am nominated, by anything I do during the primary campaign, if I know how to avoid it."

The former governor declared that the only state organization outside of Illinois working in his behalf is a volunteer committee in New York, which was organized without his consent.

Senator Barkley [Dem., Ky.] gave Lowden his first opportunity to deny the reports of a pre-convention agreement with Vice President Dawes when he quoted from an article appearing in THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE last Thursday. The article discussed the probability that the Vice President is "the real candidate behind the scenes" in Indiana, and the gossip that both Watson's delegates and those of Lowden were to be thrown to Dawes in the convention.

Denies Dawes' Deal.

"Have you any understanding, written or verbal, tacit or otherwise, definite or approximate, with Vice President Dawes relative to your strength and your delegates in the event you are unable to be nominated yourself?" asked Senator Barkley.

"No, sir," answered the former governor, "it has not even been discussed between us. Of course, every one knows that the Vice President and I are old friends, but there has never been any discussion direct or indirect which would hint at such a thing. I have gotten into this picture not because I was keen for it but got into the picture because I came to represent a cause. I believe, as I think most of you gentlemen know, that the great problem before this country is the agricultural problem. "I believe that the next five or ten years are going to determine whether we shall have the old fashioned, independent American yeoman farmer who has been the backbone of our civilization. I believe that unless we restore the proper balance between industry and agriculture that agriculture is doomed, and I cannot see any very bright future for the American republic with a decayed agriculture.

Calls It Main Issue.

"Therefore, I believe this is the greatest question before the American people. I have come to be the representative of that idea in certain parts of the country and so long as that cause exists I shall stand for it. I would not have any right to barter away or make a deal with anybody with reference to delegates for me, because they think I represent this cause."

Lowden declared "the future of the Republican party depends upon maintaining the old alliance between industry and agriculture." Senator Barkley asked Lowden if he meant to imply that to judge from the present condition of agriculture "the industrial end of the alliance has gotten away with the biggest end of the economic favoritism which has been at the expense of agriculture."

Agrees With Dawes' Views.

"Do you honestly think you ought to ask me that question?" asked Lowden. "If you say you do, I will answer it."

"If you say I ought not to ask it, I will withdraw it," Senator Barkley said.

"Is it not fair for the committee to assume," asked Senator Dale [Rep., Vt.], "that this talk of a trade between you and the Vice President comes about naturally because of the fact that the Vice President holds similar views?"

"O, I have no doubt that plays an important part, senator," answered Lowden. "We are very well agreed as to our general views and besides we have been life long friends. That is one reason."

Watson Explains Activities.

Senator Watson, when he appeared before the committee after the luncheon recess, explained that he paid no attention to the financial details of a campaign and took no part in the collection or disbursement of funds.

"All I do is speak and organize and mix up with the folks," he declared.

"No, I didn't spend anything outside of Indiana," he answered another query. "Matter of fact, we didn't have enough to go around in Indiana."

Senator Watson asserted he had heard of no overtures from the Hoover camp toward an agreement that the commerce secretary would be the second choice of Indiana delegates. He added that until Hoover entered his name in the Ohio race it had been understood that Hoover would not contest for the Indiana delegation.

"I saw Clarence Buck, Lowden's manager, about his coming into my state, and he said that Lowden did not want to contest with me. Lowden and I are old friends," the witness continued.

Senator Watson said he had "no strings" on the Indiana delegates, but predicted that when he releases them at the convention they will "go to a Mississippi valley candidate."

"That is not a matter of personal hostility to Mr. Hoover, but a question of what we believe best for our party in this campaign," he declared. "From Lincoln down to Coolidge all of the successful candidates of the Republican party have come from the Mississippi valley. I think if Coolidge had remained silent he would have been renominated without opposition. But we have had 52 years of success with Mississippi valley candidates against eight years of defeat with candidates [Blaine and Hughes] who did not have the confidence of the west."

MELLON ELABORATES PRAISE OF HOOVER AS GOOD G.O.P. CANDIDATE

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon elaborated today on his statement of Saturday that Herbert Hoover seemed to him to most closely fit the Republican party's requirements for the presidency by saying:

"I think Hoover can win if nominated. I think he would make a good President."

Informed that many interpretations had been given his statement to the Pennsylvania Republican delegation to the Kansas City convention, the treasury head said:

"I don't see why my statement should be misinterpreted. It is pretty plain English."

One other comment was "Anything can happen."

Mr. Mellon all along has favored renomination of President Coolidge, and the secretary's associates do not believe that his endorsement of Hoover will necessarily mean that Pennsylvania's delegation will support Hoover.

WYOMING'S SIX DELEGATES TO VOTE FOR SMITH

Casper, Wyo., May 14.—(AP)—Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York was endorsed for the presidency and Wyoming's delegation was instructed to cast its six votes for him by the Wyoming state Democratic convention late today.

Nellie Tayloe Ross, first woman governor of Wyoming, was endorsed for vice president on a complimentary vote and the convention endorsed her past administration.

Abandonment of the two-thirds rule at the national convention was recommended.

Only a few dissenting votes were heard when the resolution was introduced instructing the state's delegation for Gov. Smith. Former Gov. Ross was present and received tremendous applause as did mention of the name of Senator Kendrick.

YOUR COLD! SHOULD YOU NEGLECT IT!

This is an era of "preventive medicine" and "An ounce of prevention is most times worth a pound of cure."

Be warned by the following quoted statement from a recently published book:

"It is estimated that at least one-half of the 3,000,000 or more sick beds constantly filled in the United States would be unnecessary, and over 600,000 yearly deaths might be prevented, if such preventive measures as are entirely practicable were promptly undertaken."

Colds are mainly due to congestion, and nearly all disease is traceable to some derangement of the digestive organs.

As a matter of prevention—a good inside cleaning with the candy-like "LAXA-LINKS" should always be "first-aid."

5 AUTO VICTIMS DIE DURING DAY; TWO AT CROSSING

Child Killed as Car Runs Over Curb.

Two children and three men, victims of automobile accidents in the Chicago metropolitan area, died yesterday. Two of the deaths were from mishaps in Cook county, raising the county's toll since Jan. 1 to 342.

Jefferson Hancock and Claude Langdon, both of Schottsburg, Ind., were killed when their truck was struck by a Chicago & North Western train on the Camp Logan crossing north of Zion, Ill.

Boy Killed on Sidewalk.

In Gary, Ind., an automobile plunged over the curbing onto the sidewalk and fatally injured Robert Arnold, 13 years old, who was on his way to visit his widowed mother. Two men in the car were arrested on charges of manslaughter and of being drunk.

Injuries received May 12 proved fatal to Jane McDonough, 8 months old, 5000 West 16th street, Berwyn. She was hurt in a collision while riding with her father, Roy McDonough.

Fred Peetz, 55, of 10337 South Throop street, died from a fractured skull received Sunday night. He was knocked down at West 22d street and Princeton avenue by an automobile driven by Clarence Schultz, 617 North Homan avenue.

Two Boys Injured.

Two small boys were injured, possibly fatally, when they were struck by an automobile last night as they ran across the street in front of 1833 Fullerton avenue. The driver of the car sped away. Nick Oleszkiewicz, 7 years old, 1833 Fullerton avenue, and his playmate, Louis Pranske, 5, of 1885 Fullerton avenue, the victims, were taken to the Alexian Brothers' hospital, where it was determined that both had fractures of their skulls.

Fractures of the right leg and pelvis were suffered by John Riley, 47 years old, 7741 Cornell avenue, when he was struck by a car at West Grand avenue and North Clark street. The driver, Theodore Mace, 2140 Cortland street, took him to the Henrotin hospital.

HOLD SUNDAY SCHOOL LEADER FOR MURDER IN CHURCH SHOOTING

Pittsburgh, Pa., May 14.—(AP)—Fayette J. Tyrrell, 53, attorney and Sunday school superintendent, was formally charged with murder today, an outgrowth of the fatal shooting yesterday of Phillip Clark, 36, in the First Christian church at Munhall, a suburb. Tyrrell, held in jail, has persistently declined to discuss the affair. Witnesses said he fired three shots at Clark, two of which took effect.

Tyrrell was counsel for Mrs. Clark in a divorce action. In making answer to his wife's suit last September, Clark said his wife had "another sweetheart," but no name was disclosed.

COUNCIL PASSES MAYOR'S WATER METERORDINANCE

Votes $758,900 for New Leak Control Bureau.

Mayor Thompson's war on water meters, started during his campaign more than a year ago, came to an end yesterday with the passage of his new substitute meter ordinance by the city council. The vote was 31 to 8.

The new ordinance provides for 90 per cent metering of the city's water supply before Sept. 1, 1935, as required by the war department in its permit allowing Chicago to divert 8,500 cubic feet of water a second from the lake. Residences and two flat buildings are exempt. In the 1925 universal meter ordinance, replaced by the new one, 100 per cent metering was stipulated, with no exemptions.

The council also approved a $758,900 appropriation for a new bureau of water leak control, overriding the recommendation of Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe that the work be under supervision of the water pipe extension bureau. There were persistent reports that the mayor will send back a veto on this proposition.

My Pledges Redeemed—Mayor.

"This means that I have redeemed my campaign pledge," the mayor said after the council meeting. "I promised to keep meters out of little homes and this ordinance does it."

Ald. Donald S. McKinlay [19th] and several others, however, charged that the ordinance contradicts itself and is "only a camouflage to let the administration out from under."

"Nobody yet has explained or tried to explain how you can meter 90 per cent of the water supply and not meter homes and small flats which use anywhere from 20 to 50 per cent," Ald. McKinlay declared. "Meter the big fellows first, that's all right, but in the long run you'll have to meter most of the little fellows, too."

Attorney Harry O. Biossat, author of the ordinance, said "that bridge will be crossed when we get to it." Another official, close to the mayor, commented that Mr. Thompson's term ends in 1930 and, further, that before 1935 there may be a United States Supreme court decision knocking out the war department's regulation.

McKinlay Votes Yes.

Aside from the criticism of Ald. McKinlay, who voted for the ordinance, there was little debate on the meter ordinance. Voting no were Ald. Cepak [22d], Toman [24th], Sloan [26th], Adamkewicz [31st], Petlak [33d], Self [35th], Adamowski [38th], and T. J. Bowler [41st].

The leak control bureau appropriation, despite the fact that it upset the plan of Commissioner Wolfe, met with practically no opposition on the floor of the council, and Ald. Wiley Mills [37th] cast the only vote against it.

In effect, the appropriation as adopted is a victory for the plumbers' union over the engineers' union, as the former will be in charge. Under the Wolfe plan, the engineers would have controlled the bureau. Ald. Oscar F. Nelson [46th], the mayor's floor leader and vice president of the Chicago Federation of Labor, stood with the plumbers and other administration aldermen followed his lead.

WESTINGHOUSE SERVES EVERYWHERE

Electrical building is . . . silent building

Some day, on the street where you live or work, a big building will be started. And you'll expect to hear, for days and days, the head-splitting rattle of the riveter's hammer, joining the steel together. But instead, the building will go up in almost ghostly silence. Men with masks will clamber along the beams; strange purple and violet lights will flash where they are working. The steel of that building will be welded together with electricity.

The development of silent electric arc welding for structural steel erection is a Westinghouse contribution to the building industry. Already, buildings have been successfully erected by arc welding. Comparative plans show that 12 per cent less steel is required than for a riveted structure. The principle has proved successful. Progressive modern builders are studying it and turning to it.

WEATHER TESTS CONTROL BLAST FURNACE FUEL

Daily Air Moisture Is Steelmaking Factor.

BY JAMES O'DONNELL BENNETT.

[Chapter II.]

You would hardly think that a change from moist to moister weather would make much difference in a process so volcanic as is the process of converting iron ore into the pig iron from which steel is made.

But so it is, and in Chicago's steel empire they measure the humidity from day to day with scrupulous apparatus.

To operate a modern blast furnace requires an inrush of about sixty thousand cubic feet of air per minute, that air heated to a temperature of a thousand degrees Fahrenheit. In the heart of Chicagoland's steel empire they make their calculations on the basis that the moisture in the atmosphere will vary from three to ten grains per cubic foot. If there are four grains per cubic foot of moisture in the atmosphere one day and eight grains the next, then, on the second day, you have four grains more moisture to contend with per cubic foot.

More Water to Burn.

Now, if you are pumping sixty thousand cubic feet of air per minute into a blast furnace, you have a change of two hundred and forty thousand grains a minute to allow for on your second day. Reduce that to gallons of water and you will see that you have a huge amount of water to burn up. Hence the varying fuel demands and the finely shaded exigencies of the steel business in the matter of humidity alone.

It is a weirdly exacting business; now manifesting itself to you in a cataract of molten metal and now exhibiting a phase that is—relatively—almost as delicate as watchmaking. Everything must be scrupulously timed. When a steel ingot weighing tons gets down to a temperature of thirteen hundred and twenty-five degrees Fahrenheit it is pretty cold to work. You will recall that the boiling point of water is two hundred and twelve degrees Fahrenheit.

Enormous ingots that I saw were being worked at a temperature of eighteen hundred degrees Fahrenheit, and they had left the open hearth furnaces at a temperature of two thousand two hundred and fifty degrees. They were being worked by five young men who sat in a "pulpit," as it is called, twenty-five or thirty feet above the rollers, between which the ingots were passing.

Young Priests of Vulcan.

The young men looked sort of pious—or certainly serious—as befitted their pulpit, and they seemed all eyes. At just the right instant they pulled levers and, when they pulled, solid pillars and blocks of fire became as wax under their touch and turned into car wheels, or rails, or into broad ribbons of fire that ran like serpents and produced seventeen hundred feet per minute of bar and band steel.

Inspection of the finished product—especialy of the steel rails—was very interesting to watch; it looked so easy but was so alert and meticulous. In an aisle of loading platforms and railroad tracks that is a third of a mile long and one hundred and ten feet wide, thousands of tons of finished steel rails lay end to end. In that aisle of the two square miles of the Illinois Steel company's plant at Gary they can handle four thousand tons of rails a day and yet you see not fifty people in the aisle. Why? Magnets, reader, magnets! Silent, mysterious, all-embracing arms that steal out and gather up tons upon tons of steel rails with the speed and abstraction of the hired girl picking up kindling in a farmhouse woodshed.

Watch as Magnets Work.

Amid that lifting, inspectors moved over the cooled rails. They walked in pairs, heads bowed, eyes downcast. You would have thought they were walking for some foolish wager. Suddenly they pause. One of them bends over a rail. He has detected a blemish not as big as a large scale on a whitefish. On it goes a yellow chalk mark, and that means a second class rail. But a second class rail today would have been a fine rail ten years ago, so emphatic an advance in processes has a decade brought.

The manufacture of pressed steel car wheels was fascinating to watch. They turn out five hundred a day at Gary. A wheel weighs from eight hundred pounds to half a ton, and a pressure of ten thousand tons is applied to it twice. And yet that wheel goes through—on a big scale—about the same processes that certain wheels of a watch go through; and once it goes through a process that griddle cakes go through, for I saw a man swab with grease a huge, crater-like pan before a half ton wheel flopped into it. That was so no particle of scale from the pan should stick to the wheel, and so that it could more easily leave the pan.

From Coal to Colds.

By-products derived from what once was the waste of our steel empire would make a chapter—many chapters—in themselves. A certain by-product starts as coal wastage and ends as aspirin.* That process, however, is not completed at Gary, the Duponts carrying on the refinements on the Atlantic seaboard. There are between seven hundred and fifty and eight hundred by-products of our steel empire's steel making, and among them are cement, attar of roses, rubber, paints, dyes, resin, toluol, which is the main ingredient of T. N. T., domestic gas, which is used in Gary, and ammonia sulphate, which is used throughout the civilized world as a fertilizer. The "By-Products Tree," a vivid chart used in the heart of Chicagoland's steel empire, will absorb you for an hour.

We talked of nationalities and home owners, for always you come to the essentially human element behind these vast mechanical propositions. Every civilized country on the globe, and some not so civilized, was represented by the workmen we passed. Forty to forty-five per cent of them are American born white men; twelve to fifteen per cent are American born colored men. Five to six per cent of the foreigners come from the British isles, Germany, and other parts of northern Europe. There are many from the Danubian kingdoms and republics. Greece, Persia, and Japan are represented.

About 60 Per Cent Married.

About sixty per cent of these thirteen thousand five hundred I. S. C. operatives are married. About fifty per cent of them are home owners. As a whole they are self-respecting people. As time goes on they are paid better, housed better, and are enabled to enjoy more of the things you like. You call them your comforts in the same breath that you call them their luxuries. It is all in the point of view.

BOARD TO PROBE CHARGE CONVICTS WORK ON GARAGE

Inquiry into charges that inmates of the House of Correction were employed Saturday in the construction of a private garage at the home of William F. Stuart, 3726 West 64th street, keeper of the dog pound, will be begun at the next meeting of the Bridewell supervisors next week, it was declared last night by Otto M Rice, one of the supervisors.

Informed through an anonymous telephone call that the prisoners were working upon Stuart's garage, THE TRIBUNE dispatched a reporter and a photographer to the scene. They arrived in time to see a truck, bearing the inscription "House of Correction," and loaded with six Bridewell prisoners pulling out of the alley next to Stuart's home. A load of crushed stone, and a garage excavation freshly made were found in Stuart's back yard.

Supt. James Curran of the House of Correction denied last night that the institution truck or any of the prisoners had ever been to the Stuart home. When told the truck and the prisoners were seen there, he persisted. "Well, it wasn't true."

"TRIAL" OF THREE JUDGES STARTS; DELAY FOR WEEK

Colorful Setting as Loesch Repeats Charges.

children, and their business are all bound up with maintaining the respect for the courts and for the law.

"I can assume, I believe, your honors, without impuning the intelligence of the six men who sit before me, that the absorption of yourselves in the duties of judges has so taken you out of the common affairs of life that you have not realized to the fullest extent what is going on in the community."

Challenge from Judge.

Judge Taylor interrupted the speaker, curtly. "I should be inclined to challenge that statement as an individual," he declared.

"I would accept the challenge," retorted Mr. Loesch. "I repeat that your honor does not know to the full extent what has been going on in the community in the way of crime."

"We are here," he continued, "because we criticize the gross perversion of the letter and spirit of the criminal law and the subversion of the Criminal court by individual judges and the state's attorney in their leniency toward murderers, gunmen, and other vicious criminals guilty of serious crimes."

Mr. Loesch compared politics to the monster Frankenstein and said he sounded a cry to the people to destroy this creation before it destroys them. He referred to the series of bombings which stirred Chicago and pointed to various murders as showing that this city is in the grip of criminals.

Rap at Judge Eller.

"What happened on primary day?" he demanded. "What was Judge Eller doing that day? Circulating through the ward with his father, Morris Eller, and pretending to hold court on the open sidewalk.

"Now, whether he held court or not, I do not know. My own idea is that he did not hold court but pretended to and discharged certain men whom the election commissioners wished to be brought to the city hall.

"Think of that," exclaimed Mr. Loesch, shaking his finger at the six judges. "Judge Eller was seen with gunmen. There is plenty of proof of that. Plenty of people knew him. More people would have testified if they had not been under the terror of the gunmen in that district. A judge of the Superior court, your colleague, out in the midst of gunmen and pretending to hold court on the sidewalk.

"Your honors, these charges were not got up in haste and without grave consideration. The letter sent to you was debated on by about twenty of as eminent business men and professional men as there are in Chicago before it was issued."

Takes Up Felony Waivers.

Then Mr. Loesch referred to the practice of waiving felonies in the Criminal court. He repeated figures made public previously which showed that the three accused judges had allowed hundreds of defendants to plead guilty to minor counts and then imposed light sentences.

"The head of the pardon board says there are more than 1,400 men in the penitentiary who are there under gun count waivers," he asserted. "They all will be discharged in a matter of three years, when they ought to stay there for not less than one to ten years. For a man with a gun is nothing but a potential murderer.

"I insist, your honors, that the judge does not do this of his own accord, but does it because he is asked to do it by some political friend.

"That is proved by this fact: This letter from the crime commission was published on the 27th of April. The average number of crime waivers up to that time was 48 per week of all the judges. In other words, in two weeks, the average number would be 96. In the last two weeks there have been just six.

Letter Stops Practice.

"Therefore, it is obvious that the publication of this letter alone stopped for practical purposes the practice of waiving crime charges."

Judge Taylor remarked at the conclusion of Mr. Loesch's statement that specific charges in writing were needed. "Of course, generalizations are very good and oftentimes right and sometimes wrong," he remarked.

Ex-Senator Lewis was then given the floor and also stressed the need for a written statement of the charges preferred against the three judges.

Asks Specific Charges.

"These judges are put in the humiliating position before the public of being defendants," he declared. "They should at least have the opportunity afforded the humblest criminal cringing at the bar, that of being acquainted with the specific charges made against them.

"We respectfully urge upon this honorable tribunal that these specifications must contain matter that give date, time, name, instance of the things charged against these men which impeach their integrity, dishonor their names, destroy their reputations and forever blast their generation."

Horace Kent Tenney, who acted in the capacity of adviser of the court, also added a plea for the presentation of the charges in proper written form.

Statement Ready Friday.

"I will have such a statement ready by Friday morning and will send a copy to each judge and a copy to Senator Lewis," said Mr. Loesch, adding, "Is one copy enough for you, Senator?"

"I take it that the question was not meant as a humorous thrust," said Mr. Lewis, frowning.

"No," replied Mr. Loesch, and Judge Taylor ended the proceedings with another of his curt remarks: "I hope not. This is no occasion for humor and I don't want it."

MINISTERS TO BACK BAR JUDICIAL LIST; CONDEMN BOSSES

Chicago's Mehtodist ministers indorsed the Bar association non partisan judicial ticket at their meeting yesterday in resolutions condemning "the political bosses." They said:

"We condemn the efforts of the same political bosses that were repudiated in the primaries of April 10 to usurp the authority to appoint judges who should be elected June 4. The plan of these bosses to put only one ticket in the field is their purpose to appoint the judges themeselves.

"This action on the part of the political bosses raises again the same moral issues which were met in the recent primary election and we call upon all honest citizens to enlist for this fight."

Judge Daniel P. Trude of the Municipal court addressed the Methodist body and later the Congregational ministers. "Divorce by your votes the alliance of crime and politics," was his theme. The Congregational ministers adopted resolutions introduced by Rev. Philip Yarrow dealing with the subject.

NICARAGUA REBEL BAND MISTREATS AMERICAN'S WIFE

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, May 14.—(AP)—A rebel band mistreated the wife of an American named Miller at his plantation on the River Coco, near the east coast, in revenge for information he had given the United States marine forces, it was learned from belated dispatches reaching here today.

Mr. Miller was away from home when the rebels came to seek him. They assaulted Mrs. Miller, carried off everything of value and then generally wrecked the plantation. So atrocious were the acts committed against the wife and property of Mrs. Miller that the entire lower river district was incensed at the savagery of the rebels. It is not known whether Mrs. Miller is also an American.

2 MILLION ADDED BY ROSENWALD; FOR QUICK ACTION

Wants Fund Spent by 25 Years After Death.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

Future generations, in the opinion of Julius Rosenwald, can be trusted to provide for their own financial needs without recourse to large endowments set up by philanthropists of today. He therefore directs, in presenting an additional gift of $2,000,000 to the Julius Rosenwald Fund, announced yesterday, that the entire fund, now amounting to $20,000,000, be expended within twenty-five years of his death.

Edwin R. Embree, president of the Julius Rosenwald Fund, made the announcement of the donation and of Mr. Rosenwald's declaration of policy. The gift is in the form of a certificate for 20,000 shares of Sears, Roebuck & Co. stock.

Opposes Long Conservation.

"When the Julius Rosenwald Fund was created," Mr. Rosenwald wrote to the trustees, "and sums of money turned over, it was provided that the principal as well as the interest might be spent from time to time at the discretion of the trustees, and it was my expectation from the beginning that the entire principal should be spent within a reasonable period of time.

"My experience is that trustees controlling large funds are not only desirous of conserving principal but often favor adding to it from surplus income. I am not in sympathy with this policy of perpetuating endowments, and believe that more good can be accomplished by expending funds as trustees find opportunity for constructive work than by storing up large sums of money for long periods of time.

"By adopting a policy of using the fund within this generation, we may avoid those tendencies toward bureaucracy and a formal or perfunctory attitude toward the work, which almost inevitably develop in organizations which prolong their existence indefinitely. Coming generations can be relied on to provide for their own needs as they arise.

Sets Time for Spending.

"In accepting the shares of stock now offered, I ask that the trustees do so with the understanding that the entire fund in the hands of the board, both income and principal, be expended within twenty-five years of my death."

The trustees, beside Mr. Embree and Mr. Rosenwald, who serves as chairman of the board, are: Alfred K. Stern, Lessing J. Rosenwald, Mrs. David M. Levy of New York, daughter of Julius Rosenwald· Harold H. Swift, Frank L. Sulzberger, a director of the Jewish charities; Harry W. Chase, president of the University of North Carolina, and Edgar B. Stern, president of the New Orleans cotton exchange, and chairman of the New Orleans Community chest.

SOLDIER FOUND DEAD IN PARK.

The body of a man, believed from a note found in one of his pockets to be that of John A. Holder, 30 years old, a member of Company A, Sixth Infantry, Jefferson Barracks, Mo., was found in Grant park yesterday. The note asking that his father, R. L. Holder of Greenfield, Tenn., be notified, indicated Holder had taken poison.

CHICAGO CALLED NATION'S FINEST TOWN FOR BOYS

No other large city in this country measures up to Chicago in provisions for the recreation and development of its boys, E. Urner Goodman, chief executive of the Boy Scouts, said yesterday at a luncheon at the Hotel La Salle to the Junior Association of Commerce. His talk was a part of the program of Boys' week.

"The city boy," he said, "needs only leadership and ideals. Seventy boys out of each 1,000 fall into the hands of the police. Of that number not more than two or three will be found to belong to properly supervised boys' organizations."

Yesterday was citizenship day on the Boys' week program and was under the auspices of the Executives' club. Today will be Boys' day in schools.

LOST HAMMOND GIRL FOUND AT WORK IN STORE

While police all over the middle west were seeking her, Natalie Forsyth, 14 year old Hammond, Ind., high school girl, was found yesterday working as a cashier in a South Bend five and ten cent store.

The girl had been missing from her home since last Wednesday and her father, the Rev. N. F. Forsyth, had believed her kidnaped. She was found by her father, director of religious education for the Methodist church, who went to South Bend on a clew given him by a bus driver. Natalie said she left home because she had been reprimanded by her parents for being behind in her school work.

BODY FOUND IN CANAL.

The body of an unidentified white man, taken from the drainage canal at 37th street yesterday, was taken to the county morgue.

In the children's room adequate wiring is most essential

Plan your wiring when you plan your house

Wire your rooms so that you can use electricity to the limit of its helpfulness. Take the children's room, for example. Have plenty of outlets. One for an electric heater, when the frosty days come; one near the bed for a heating pad; one for a vacuum cleaner ... or an electric train.

These are the details that make for real comfort. They are yours if you order a General Electric Wiring System.

It provides an outlet for every fifty square feet of floor space—and a switch accessible to every doorway. All materials, inside your walls and out, are made by General Electric. And so, when installed by a reliable contractor, it can be counted on for permanent service.

The G-E Merchandise Distributor is a vital factor in General Electric service to the public. His complete stocks are always available for the contractor who serves you.

THE CERTAIN FRUIT OF INTOLERANCE.

The atrocious assault upon Jacob Hanson, secretary of the Niagara Falls lodge of Elks, by which a highly respected citizen, while he seems to have escaped death, will probably be left sightless, ought to bring about something more general and fundamental than the punishment of the men immediately guilty. Perhaps even they will escape adequate punishment, but if not, still the thread of responsibility should be followed as high as it goes. It is not only in this district but elsewhere the agents of dry law enforcement are ruthless. In many notorious and in many more obscure instances they have shown a readiness to use violence, to maim or to kill with small excuse. Shooting on suspicion seems to be a pretty general rule.

Whence arrives this new code for agents of the law? What influence have instructions from Rear Admiral Billard or Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman upon their subordinates? What are these instructions? Are they phrased so as to encourage ruthless action? Are they ambiguous? It is difficult to believe that subordinates in the prohibition enforcement forces, district agents and the rank and file, would dare to adopt the methods they seem to follow everywhere unless they believed themselves to be carrying out the intentions of their highest superiors. We say, therefore, that there should be a thoroughgoing clarification of the whole official rule and regulation and a prompt correction from the ground up to the top.

Meanwhile, the American public would do well to ponder the fact that this ruthlessness is a novelty in the enforcement of federal law. The national government has always had enforcement agents, officials who have had to deal with serious crimes, but they have never shown the recklessness, the disregard for life, the outrageous lack of any respect for possible innocence and of any proper sense of proportion in the use of means to end. The reason innocent citizens like Mr. Hanson suffer is that mere suspicion is held by dry agents to justify any violence and the American people should realize that this is setting precedents which will imperil the innocent as well as the guilty.

The immediate causes of this intolerable situation are faulty regulation of subordinates and perverted zeal on the higher levels of responsibility, but this does not go to the bottom of the subject. The situation at bottom is the natural and inevitable result of the intolerance which is in the heart of the prohibitory experiment. It is this intolerance, which has no respect for freedom of private conscience or for any civil rights, this intolerance which is the child of self-righteousness and shallow thinking as to the nature not only of government but of private morals, that inevitably justifies to itself and inevitably produces the violence which disfigures dry law enforcement throughout the country. We must expect these outrages so long as intolerance, organized and concentrated, is able to dominate legislation and administration and overawe our politics in the name of religion, morality and the public welfare. Enforcement violence is only the sensational dramatization of a profound evil which has obscured the real principles of Americanism and infected great numbers of our people with false ideas of social welfare. Until the American conscience and intelligence rise up to rebuke organized intolerance and we regain respect for the freedom of the private conscience and the sacredness of civil rights, we shall have violence in the name of justice and oppression in the name of the law.

PRIVATE VS. PUBLIC BENEFIT.

The owners of property near the intersection of Dempster street and Milwaukee avenue oppose the intention of the county board to separate the grades at the junction point. They claim that such a grade separation would damage their real estate and have given notice that they will ask for $300,000 should the project be carried out.

Their reasoning is based, it seems, on the argument that the slower and more congested the traffic past their doors, the more their property is worth for business purposes. The safety and convenience of the many who pay for roads in order to drive on them is to be taxed for the profit of a few land owners.

In the present state of the development at the intersection it would be difficult to prove any immediate damage. A filling station, two sheds, a wooden dwelling, and a real estate office now constitute the improvements. It is not as if a street change were being made in a settled neighborhood. The future development of the property will merely have to accord with the separated intersection.

In reality, instead of injuring the adjoining property, a grade separation should enhance its value by bringing more traffic through the highways' increased practicability and safety. As for [illegible], such present separated grades as those in the Lincoln park system are handsome structures.

The property owners may have a case for special damage and if they have should be recompensed. But they will first have to prove their claim and also dispel the impression that here are a few real estate owners, already particularly fortunate in having two such highways serving them, who place their own benefit above the public interest.

TAXES AND FEDERAL GIFTS OF CASH.

The congressional inclination not to meet the President's idea of what is sound tax reduction still endangers the bill. It causes a suspicion that the persons working to get appropriations for such projects as Boulder dam are willing to draw a veto for the tax bill and thus retain the money in the treasury.

Mr. Coolidge is interested in distributing a surplus to the taxpayers. He is interested in keeping this distribution from creating a deficit. He is opposed to the sectional projects which, if appropriated for to the extent asked, would require additional taxation.

Boulder dam influences remain as active as if they never had been checked. This enterprise will return to the consideration of the senate as soon as the tax bill is out of the way, and if the President should be forced to veto tax reductions because it cuts too deep there will be $200,000,000 of surplus to be fed out to the pork projects.

Radical Republicans are opposed to tax reduction. Their theory of taxation is a punitive one. It is not related to the needs of government but to the conscription of wealth. The Democrats play for excessive tax reduction, hoping for a veto which would prevent it, with the Democratic record standing for one more generous than a Republican administration would accept.

These are some of the troubles in which the national finances are involved. The question of estate taxes involves an issue of tax policy but for the most part the reduction is determinable by justice and prudence, justice in relieving the people taxed and prudence in not bringing the revenue down below the margin of safety.

A DUTY LONG OVERDUE.

It is to be hoped congress will not adjourn without passing an act for the reapportionment of representation in the national legislature. Failure to obey the strict mandate of the constitution upon a subject which is fundamental to representative government is scandalous. It is a species of tyranny which cannot be justified to the honest mind and yet it exists in the national representation and in that of many states, including our own. It may be advisable to provide for reapportionment upon the next census which is only two years off rather than upon that of 1920, but certainly a difference upon this question should not postpone the enactment of a reapportionment measure at this session.

THE PRIMARY DECLARES A DIVIDEND.

The school board three weeks ago rejected a bid of $1,633,000 for the construction of the new Austin High school because Virgil Coath, son of the president of the school board, was vice president of the company which made the bid. New bids were called for with the result that Coath's company has now offered to undertake the job for about $100,000 less than it originally asked and there are now two lower bids.

The fact that young Coath was connected with a construction company which was seeking school jobs was known from the first but it did not prevent the award of contracts to him until after the recent primary. A few of the holdover members of the school board protested against the earlier awards as they had protested at the ousting of McAndrew, but their fellow members paid no attention.

Then the primary. Eyes which hitherto had been unable to distinguish moral values suddenly were opened to them. Radical surgery can claim few such achievements in restoring enfeebled organs. The credit goes to the voters who, in defeating Small, Crowe, Thompson, and the rest, have saved themselves this $100,000 and no doubt a great deal more.

THE RESERVE OFFICERS.

There was a story in the paper the other day mentioning the 200,000 reserve officers who served in the world war. These were the notable volunteers of the war. They joined solely to serve in battle and most of them did. They had no idea of joining up for a livelihood or for a pleasant club life in time of peace. With very little training, given by instructors not overly well educated; laughed at by the public; not entirely trusted by their men; with mediocre senior officers; furnished with clumsy plans, the reserve officers carried the army through to success and contributed far more than their share of casualties on the battlefields.

The reserve officers have been neglected since the war. They do not belong to the permanently organized forces of the regular army or National Guard; they are not organized to enlist political support, and have seriously failed of recognition. They will never receive the credit due them in military history, nor any monuments of bronze. Their reward must be in the consciousness of duty done.

Editorial of the Day

POLITICAL FARM RELIEF.

[Philadelphia Public Ledger.]

It has long been obvious, of course, that the McNary-Haugen brand of farm relief is chiefly political. Some of the proponents of governmental price fixing and the equalization fee sincerely believe in these quack remedies, but their original purpose has been obscured by their plain political implications. The insurgents of the middle west have been playing the game of the Democrats, which is to divide the Republican party on this issue. The latest strategy of the political farm bloc has now been disclosed.

It is to retain the feature so objectionable to the President, including the equalization fee, which is a direct bid for a veto, and pass the bill. Then when it is returned to congress with the President's disapproval, no effort will be made to repass it over his veto. Instead, the political farmers will endeavor to make an issue out of the failure of all farm legislation proposals. At the Republican national convention they will try to have the equalization fee put in the platform as a party doctrine.

Such a course is based on the assumption that the farmers wouldn't be able to perceive who is to blame for sidetracking legislation in their behalf. President Coolidge has outlined a program for benefiting agriculture involving generous aid from the government. Congress has junked it for political reasons. If it wanted to help the farmer, it would do it now.

BREAST FEEDING WILL SAVE MORE BABIES.

DR. W. A. PLECKER says that if the physician, nurses, and health officials would persuade all mothers to breast feed their babies they would save more lives than could be saved in any other way. This is true, of course. The writer of this column would like to be declared in on this project. What Dr. Plecker says is true of Virginia, is true everywhere else, as has been found in Minneapolis, Brooklyn, Chicago, New Zealand, and in various other regions of the world.

Dr. Plecker found that of the babies weaned too early 93 per cent should not have been weaned, which is true elsewhere as well as in Virginia. Dr. Plecker does not limit what he has to say to complaining. He tells of some of the difficulties in breast feeding, and gives his method for overcoming each.

One of these difficulties is the objection of the mother to staying at home all day. This is overcome by adopting the four hour feeding plan and then giving one bottle in lieu of a breast feeding at noon.

If the supply of breast milk is insufficient it can be increased by changing the diet of the mother, by having her get plenty of sleep and refraining from worry. To increase her supply of breast milk the mother should drink some milk and eat cereals and vegetables. As a rule increasing her intake of food does more harm than good. Freedom from worry, mental calm, and plenty of sleep are more important than diet. More important still is absolute regularity in putting the baby to the breast and complete emptying of the breast.

If, in spite of all that is done, the supply of breast milk is insufficient or of poor quality he advises that some diluted cow's milk be used to piece out the supply. Weaning, under these circumstances, is not justified.

Sore nipples is one reason given for weaning. Dr. Plecker advises women with small nipples to begin developing the nipples before the baby comes. This can be done by filling a bottle with hot water, emptying it, and immediately placing the nipple in the mouth of the bottle. As the bottle cools the nipple is drawn out.

He advises mothers, nurses, and doctors to guard zealously against sore and cracked nipples. Every soreness of the nipple, every crack or fissure should be cared for at once.

He recommends that nursing women wear brassieres into which nipple aerators have been sewed. A nipple aerator is a small, screened nipple window.

HOW SHE CURED ECZEMA.

Mrs. A. C. M. writes: This is written for that ill-fated legion, eczema sufferers. I was, so they tell me, born with it. At least I know that ever since I can remember I have suffered from it. By accident I found that a glass of buttermilk a day warded off any severe attacks. I began to drink the buttermilk for another reason and found that it prevented my having severe attacks of eczema. I drink it first thing in the morning.

REPLY.

Scores of different disorders go by the name eczema. If buttermilk cured you it does not follow that it will cure the next person who tries it.

Many of the troubles called eczema are caused by exposure of the skin to something which poisons it. Some of them are caused by the diet. You may belong in the last group.

RADIO DEATH TO ROACHES.

A Reader writes: I was bothered with roaches for many years. One evening, while listening to the radio, I heard some one say that sodium fluoride would kill roaches. I bought some at the drug store and used about half a package and I got rid of them.

REPLY.

They do everything by radio now. Sodium fluoride is a roach killer of established reputation.

Unless premises are kept clean and the neighbors do their duty, roaches have a way of reappearing.

PARTITION PROCEEDINGS CALLED FOR.

Chicago, May 6.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A man separated from his wife for years purchased a lot after the separation. When he died he left the deed to the lot to his brother, but the deed was not changed from his to his brother's name. The former wife is still living. Now his brother has paid taxes and assessments since 1921, and the property is clear. How can the brother come into legal possession of lot?

P. J. W.

For legal possession all that would be necessary for him to do would be to put a fence around the lot.

In general adverse possession does not run against a holder of an undivided interest, so that it would be difficult to make a clear title otherwise than by partition proceedings.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INDIRECT BENEFIT.

Chicago, May 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother owns a house at Marshfield avenue and Altgeld street, on which she received a bill for $140 for the widening of North Ashland avenue. She asked the clerk if this had to be paid, and he said it did. Can you tell me why this is necessary, as Ashland avenue is not widened at that point and the recent bond issue for widening it was defeated at the last election?

J. J. T.

Presumably the property is benefited by the widening at other points.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

EVERYTHING'S ALL RIGHT NOW.

Chicago, May 5.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—There is a vacant lot in the 6700 block on South Lincoln street, people having thrown refuse into it for so long that it is coming into my yard. I am compelled to sleep on the porch on account of my health, and the sight certainly is not conducive to rest or health.

ILLUSION.

A lovely brilliant butterfly with well-poised noiseless wings
Flew in the garden carelessly among the fragrant things.
I caught the happy butterfly his beauty to caress,
But in my hands I held crushed wings and fallen powdery dress.

'Twas thus a fair illusion came into the realm of truth:
It flitted in as carelessly and free as happy youth;
With eagerness I reached to hold the fair diaphanous thing,
But in my hand it lost its form. A butterfly's crushed wing!

"FEED BOX" DOPE (?)

IT HAD BEEN OUR CUSTOM, as we several times have told you, to go to Louisville each spring about ten days in advance of the Derby, there to interview the leading candidates. Our reiteration, which possibly bored you, was in the hope that it might suggest something to SOME ONE. Since no voice sounded out of the darkness (ours), we wrote to Reigh Count's secretary for an interview. It has arrived. It reminds us a bit of the literary effusions of Babe Ruth and Jack Dempsey, but judge for yourself:

"I esteem it an honor, comparable to none, to be asked to unfold for the intelligent readers of that great newspaper, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, my opinion of this year's Kentucky Derby, a race rich in turf tradition which first was won by Aristides, the 'Little Red Horse,' more than 50 years ago, or to be exact, in 1875.

"The press of this country, or the press of such caliber as THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, is a great power for good in any community, and when a paper of THE TRIBUNE'S prestige takes such poignant interest in this turf classic, it bespeaks an interest in the improvement of the breed of thoroughbred horses which is most gratifying to those of us considered contenders for this great stake, carrying its full meed of aggrandizement and financial honorarium.

"No emolument, however, could surpass the satisfaction that would come from glorious triumph in honorable competition against my thoroughbred peers, for which I have the highest personal regard, and against which I will put forth my best efforts for the glory of Chicago and the prestige of our fair city. If fate decrees that my colors shall be borne first past the official pagoda, I shall rejoice. If the gods will otherwise, I will accept their decree in a spirit of good sportsmanship. You may rest assured I'll do my best not to dishonor Chicago on May 19."

Now, NO HORSE ever said that. It doesn't sound even like one of those "dictated but not read" letters one occasionally receives. Our personal opinion is that Reigh Count's secretary just dashed it off and did not consult the Derby favorite. Well, we have done the best we can for you on this score. We have not the heart to attempt to secure other interviews. We give it up as a long distance proposition.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 15, 1863.

CAIRO.—Troops all the way down from Memphis to Young's Point are moving to reinforce Grant before Vicksburg. The Hon. E. B. Washburne, who left the extreme front last Friday, reports that at that time Grant's advance was within fifteen miles of Edward's station, which is 18 miles east of Vicksburg.

WASHINGTON.—Richmond papers are full of eulogies of Gen. Thomas (Stonewall) Jackson and accounts of his imposing funeral ceremonies. The Richmond Whig says Virginia has suffered no such loss since the death of Washington. Gen. Jackson was shot by a sharpshooter at Chancellorsville while riding along making a reconnaissance with his full staff. He was about 39 years old and a graduate of West Point. He married a northern woman, and at the outbreak of the rebellion was torn as to the true line of duty. With his father-in-law he is said to have spent several hours in prayer, but finally decided he must go with Virginia. As a rebel officer he was energetic, lucky, and skillful. He won the cognomen "Stonewall" by promising Beauregard that his brigade would stand like a stone wall before the enemy.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Lee has established his headquarters at Fredericksburg.

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Curtis has been relieved of his command in Missouri and Gen. Schofield takes his place. A Missouri party, headed by Senator Henderson, is said to have secured this result.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 15, 1898.

CAPE HAYTIEN, Haiti.—Admiral Sampson's North Atlantic fleet arrived at Puerto Plata, Haiti, this afternoon on the way to Cuba. The admiral received orders from Washington to proceed northward. The fleet is due off Havana on May 16.

CURACAO, Dutch West Indies.—Four Spanish cruisers were off this harbor this morning. The Maria Theresa and the Vizcaya were admitted to the harbor, the others remaining outside.

KEY WEST. — The Marblehead, Nashville, and Windom shelled the batteries at Cienfuegos on May 11, while a landing party under heavy fire from shore cut two cables. The American loss was one killed and six wounded. It is believed the Spanish loss ran into the hundreds.

BUENOS AIRES.—Rio de Janeiro advices confirm reports that the United States warship Oregon on its trip from the Pacific coast has arrived at Bahia, Brazil.

CHICAGO.—Charles Warren Spalding, the banker, was taken to Joliet prison to serve an indeterminate sentence. He has been behind the bars for over a year, having been placed in jail a fortnight after the Globe Savings bank failed on April 24, 1897. He was convicted of having embezzled bonds which, as treasurer, he held for the state university.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

May 15, 1918.

CHICAGO.—Federal officials for the first time invoked the provisions of the new sabotage law to end a strike, and 8,000 Chicago teamsters and truck drivers who walked out without notice will return to work today. Attorney General Gregory personally ordered intervention, and A. Bruce Bielaski conveyed the "must" message to the strikers who agreed to go back to their jobs after a stormy meeting. The federal action was taken when it learned the striking teamsters were holding up transportation of war supplies. The new sabotage law went into effect April 20.

HOOVER'S CHANCES.

Decatur, Ill., May 12.—If the Republican party nominates Secretary Hoover or any other eastern man for President they cannot hope to carry the central west. Without the support of the central west the Republican party will have about as much chance of winning in November as the proverbial snowball.

During the last eight weeks I have driven over 7,000 miles through the corn belt investigating crop conditions and the agricultural situation in general. I have talked to a large number of farmers, country bankers, and grain dealers and have found that a large number of regular Republicans are determined to vote the Democratic ticket unless they are given the opportunity of voting for a western Republican.

F. A. WAND.

THE POISONED KISS.

Newton, Ill., May 13.—Some people profess to believe that because Andy Mellon slobbered over Hoover a little before the Pennsylvania delegates it almost assures Hoover of the Republican nomination for President. As I look at it, if anything more was needed after the Indiana primary to put a quietus on Hoover this Mellon "stamp" furnishes it. The only chance Al Smith could have of being elected President would be for the Republicans to nominate Hoover.

GEORGE W. MCCOLLEY.

THE PET NAME.

Maywood, Ill., May 11.—I think the proper designation for these prohibition murderers would be "Lowman's Life Takers."

HERE COME THE NORSEMEN.

Evanston, Ill., May 4.—Alas for your correspondent who signs himself MacCartie, he's wrong again! When Commander Byrd chose Brent Balchen to pilot him on his last trans-Atlantic flight, MacCartie emphatically announced through your columns that Balchen was a Swede, which, of course, was all wrong, Balchen having been born in Norway of pure Norwegian blood.

Now comes MacCartie's second triumphant blast, that Pilot Carl Eielson, who carried Capt. Wilkins from Alaska to Spitzenberg, is a Swede. Pilot Eielson, as a matter of fact, was born in Minnesota of parents of strictly Norwegian blood.

OLD NORSE.

RAVENSWOOD SERVICE.

Chicago, May 9.—On the Ravenswood branch of the "L," they have a one car train leaving the loop at 2:40 a. m. and when you try and get on it at Wabash avenue you must stand up. What is the matter with the great aldermen? Why is it that they can't put on the extra car? They use as much juice to haul one as two. "Take it or leave it," I suppose, is the slogan and then they want to raise the fares.

J. A. D.

LOAFING ON THE JOB.

Chicago, May 11.—It is indeed a crime the way the taxpayers and auto owners are being cheated out of their money by the lax methods of the street repair department. The auto owners pay millions of dollars in vehicle taxes each year, and this money is supposed to be spent in keeping the streets in repair, yet day by day they are getting into worse condition. Here is a concrete example of why this is so:

The street repair gang working on West Madison street this morning consisted of thirteen laborers, with one gang boss. Out of those thirteen, four did practically all the work and the other nine simply loafed along, making great effort out of carrying their shovels and picks from place to place. The gang boss made no effort whatsoever to keep his whole crew working.

This, then, means that nine-thirteenths of the wages paid that one gang was practically wasted. In other words, we get less than one-third what we pay for.

Is it any wonder that the city is always broke, and that the streets are a disgrace to even a small town, let alone a city the size of Chicago that pays millions annually to keep its streets in condition?

B. F. MARKS.

ON THE FIRING LINE.

Chicago, May 5.—In reply to James Dallas, "Another Scot," would like to state that after three and one-half years in France and Flanders, up on the firing line, I never saw an Englishman run. But I remember going in to the line on the night of the third battle of Ypres and seeing a big Scotch soldier from the 43d Scotch Highland regiment, who was scared stiff and crying like a baby and an English soldier, a cockney at that, trying to drag this Scotchman on into the line.

All one has to do is to look up the war office records and they will find that about 90 per cent of all Scotch, Irish, and Welsh regiments are composed of Englishmen. These Scots look all right back of the line, on dress parade, with their abominable bagpipes, but up in the line they merely shirk and hide behind the work and valor of real soldiers, like the English, Canadians, Australians, and New Zealanders. Most of the Scotch I ever saw in France were either in some soft job in a canteen or on police duty back of the line. Skirts they have always worn, and skirts they should always wear.

PICNIC BY MAYOR CLOSES 18 CITY SCHOOLS A DAY

Starts Series; Children View Freaks.

Eighteen Chicago public schools were closed yesterday by order of J. Lewis Coath, president of the board of education, so the pupils might attend the first of Mayor Thompson's 1928 Riverview Park excursions.

About 10,000 children swarmed into the park. They peeped at the pictures in the busy penny arcade. They viewed in amazement the tatooed man who swallowed a small saw. They paid their nickels to see Jean Libbera, the double bodied man; Wild Rose, the snake charmer, and Amozonia, the huge woman from South America.

"Educational, Patriotic Program."

"A highly educational and patriotic program, arranged through the courtesy of Hon. William Hale Thompson, Chicago's greatest mayor," was promised the children in a letter sent to the schools last week by President Coath. The picnics at Riverview Park were the mayor's idea of providing "wholesome recreation," that message stated.

Every school day for a month, a group of 15 to 20 schools will be closed for the mayor's outings, the order issued from the office of the school board president states. By June 15 every school in Chicago will have been closed for a day.

Free coupons to four of the park's 20 or more concessions were presented to the children at the entrance yesterday in exchange for the mayor's invitation. The penny arcade, heavily patronized throughout the afternoon and evening, was not a free attraction.

Some Educational Views.

Boys and girls between the ages of six and fourteen, too small to reach the glass slots through which the pictures appeared, climbed onto stools provided by the management and gazed at "The Cave Woman," "Why Girls Leave Home," "He Didn't Know She Was Married." "When Wild Women Go Swimming, "The Chorus Girl's Revenge," "French Follies Girls," and "How a Pretty Girl Walked Downstairs Backward to Meet Her Lover."

They crowded around the main side show ,where the barker told of the marvels to be revealed inside. "Twenty cents is our regular price," he said, "but today the management of this park offers this great show to you for five cents, one nickel. For half a dime you can see the man that has startled the world and amazed scientists, the most curious creation of nature: Jean Libbera, the double bodied man."

Free tickets were pocketed and the children lined up to pay their nickels to the woman at the gate. More nickels were spent inside where a hawker in a green plaid vest introduced the children to a lottery game. "The lucky card wins—a nickel a chance!" he shouted.

"The Penitentiary Portrayal," advertised as "educational, clean, and moral," was another attraction well patronized by the children. It exhibited "the thumb pull" and "death by electrocution and the gallows."

The last event of the day was the presentation at the gate of a gift from Mayor Thompson. Each school child was given a reproduction of the Declaration of Independence and a portrait of George Washington under this inscription: "The First Man to Advocate 'America First.'"

Hard Luck Still Pursues Bremen Rescue Planes

PICTOU, N. S., May 14.—(AP)—The United States army amphibian plane which was caught fast in the mud when it landed at low tide on the Shubenacadie river near Maitland today was floated by the rising tide this afternoon and arrived here at 5:45 p. m., Atlantic standard time. The plane, carrying Maj. Gen. Fechet, chief of the United States army air corps and piloted by Lieut. Elwood Quesada, is en route to the Straits of Belle Isle to aid in bringing out the German trans-Atlantic plane Bremen.

Followed by Hard Luck.

HALIFAX, N. S., May 14.—(AP)—Misfortune continued today to delay the progress of two United States army amphibian planes flying to the assistance of the German monoplane Bremen in Labrador.

Leaving St. John, N. B., this morning, the planes were separated tonight, one having been caught fast in river mud near Maitland, N. S., and the other having landed fuelless in a pasture outside of Tatamagouche, N. S.

Misfortune first came to the expedition soon after it reached Canada, when Lieut. Muir H. Fairchild suffered an attack of appendicitis Saturday after piloting one of the planes to St. John. Another pilot was sent by plane from the United States to replace him and he was reported feeling better at a hotel today, with an army plane waiting to carry him home as soon as his condition warranted removal.

The two relief planes left St. John for Pictou this morning, piloted by Lieut. Quesada, Lieut. Fairchild's substitute, and Capt. Ira Eaker, carrying Fred Melchoir, Junkers expert.

Both planes landed at the mouth of the Shubenacadie river, in Cobequid bay, near Maitland. Capt. Eaker's ship was able to take to the air again. The plane carrying Brig. Gen. Fechet, however, stuck in the mud at Black Rock so firmly that there was no hope of getting free until the tide should float the plane.

After leaving its sister ship behind, Capt. Eaker's plane ran out of gasoline over Tatamagouche, thirty miles from Pictou, and landed in a Middleton pasture.

U. S. Air Tourist in Rome.

VENICE, Italy, May 14.—(AP).—Van Lear Black, Baltimore publisher and aviation enthusiast, who left England this morning on the first leg of a 40,000 mile world air tour, arrived at San Nicols di Lido airdrome here at 4:20 p. m.

Mr. Black and his crew were in the air thirteen hours. The distance was about 700 miles. The flight from Croydon was broken by a brief halt at Geneva nine hours after the departure. The party will take off tomorrow for Athens.

Flyers Honor Lincoln on Way to St. Louis.

St. Louis, Mo., May 14.—(AP)—Thousands of St. Louisans at Lambert-St. Louis field and Forest Park cheered the arrival late today of the trans-Atlantic Bremen flyers—Baron Ehrenfried Guenther von Huenefeld, Capt. Hermann Koehl, and Maj. James Fitzmaurice. They will be the city's guests two days.

In the Junkers monoplane F-13, sister ship of the Bremen, the two German flyers and their Irish companion, covered the 350 miles from Milwaukee in 3:31:00, arriving at Lambert field at 4:33 p. m.

Approximately 2,000 persons were at Lambert field, where a group representing German organizations extended the first welcome to their countrymen.

After a few minutes the flyers were invited into biplanes and taken separately to Forest Park.

A crow of nearly 10,000 was at the park, where the flyers were extended an official welcome by Dr. George Ahrens, German consul; Mayor Victor Miller, and other city officials.

Dip Wings to Lincoln.

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—(AP)—Flying slightly off their course to pay an air tribute to Abraham Lincoln, the Bremen flyers appeared over Springfield at 3:35 p. m. today on their Milwaukee-St. Louis flight.

The flyers circled low enough over the city so that the numerals "N-C-87" could be seen.

After circling over the statehouse several times and dipping the plane in honor of Lincoln, the flyers took off on the Lindbergh air mail trail toward St. Louis.

Chicago Called Center of Bird and Animal Study

Chicago was visualized yesterday as the center of study of bird, animal, and plant life in the annual report of Alfred M. Bailey, director of the Chicago Academy of Sciences, located in Lincoln park. He pointed out that in 1927 a total of 293,273 persons visited the free museum maintained by the academy. This number exceeds the 1926 visitors by more than 60,000. Director Bailey outlined a plan of nature study for school children.

CLEARS ROCKIES AS PASSENGER IN AIR MAIL PLANE

Cheyenne-Salt Lake Hop Is Scheduled Daily.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Salt Lake City, Utah., May 14.—[Special.]—In the air transport field office at Salt Lake City a report on the wall states that the Boeing Air Transport and the Pacific Air Transport system, covering 3,017 miles, flew 179,187 miles during March, carrying 61,000 pounds of mail, 1,500 pounds of express, and 122 passengers. Commercial transportation by the air routes has come to stay. There is no record of an accident for many months.

They do not look on air travel these days as having any more risk than railroad or auto travel, perhaps not as much. They furnish no parachutes for passengers on the line west from Chicago to the Pacific coast, and the pilots do not wear theirs.

A journey over this line as far as Cheyenne has been described in these dispatches. The writer traveled as a regular passenger, making two stopovers and riding in three different ships under three pilots.

Day Ride Over Mountains.

The trip from Cheyenne to Salt Lake is reported here. Most of the trip out of Chicago so far has been by night, but this lap was taken in the full glory of morning in the mountains.

It was 9:30 o'clock when Pilot Henry Boorstra, a tall young king of the air, strolled into the Cheyenne hangar, buttoning his leather jacket and headdress.

The mail was loaded, and two weary passengers from Chicago, who had been stretching their legs, clambered back into the little place reserved for them, a coop back of the motor, inclosed to be warm, giving a view from small side windows only. The Denver plane was pulled out for the flight south, and the pilot of the west bound ship took his seat and tried out the engine for the last time. The helpers pulled the blocks away from the wheels, and the plane taxied down the long field to circle and take off in the face of the wind.

Safely on the Way.

Faster and faster it goes until at about ninety miles an hour the wheels are lifted and the big mass of metal and cargo begins to skim, then rises swiftly, and is off.

When the day comes that a plane can start from anywhere by direct lift and land anywhere, the chief element of danger in this transportation will be gone; by the same faith that moves you to trust your life to these mysterious levers and buttons, this motor and the cool, efficient man in the pilot's seat, it cannot be doubted that this day will come.

In the meantime, just as he has done day after day, hundreds of times, the pilot is taking this ship over places where it cannot land—the mighty Wasatch range over which the Mormons toiled to find their promised land.

There are emergency landing fields every twenty miles on the way to the final leap, but there is no landing amid those sharp peaks that must be crossed. In winter sometimes the pilot is forced to wait at one of the emergency fields until the air reports are good. They take no unnecessary chances in this service.

The way to Rock Springs, a coal town in a desert, was fairly easy, although the wind buffeted the ship quite hard. This was a faster engine, and the pilot flew high so that the names of towns could not be read on railroad stations along the Union Pacific. In one wild stretch two deer could be seen bounding away to hide from this new enemy.

Rock Springs was reached at 10:40—a hop of 227 miles. It was hot and quiet there on the edge of town, where a supply of gas was taken on for the final jump. The stop here is ten minutes.

Rides Over Table Land.

There are mountains now to left and right, heavy with snow, so the ship rides high over the table land, leading toward Salt Lake City, 158 miles away.

This is a high bleak country, with patches of snow dotting the landscape in all directions. Irrigation ditches look like tiny rivulets, the fields like a child's checkerboard or play garden. We sail over oil towns, coal mines, patches in the valleys, over fantastic wild stretches where a few cattle roam.

Ever the ship is mounting and the wind becomes stronger. To the left from the divide a black storm cloud reaches out gray arms over green valleys where farm houses nestle. The pilot circles around the edge of the cloud and a cold rain laden wind blows in the windows and arouses the sleepy passengers to alertness and admiration of the gorgeous panorama that is enfolding.

Through Rain and Snow.

The rain hits the wings that reach out so steadily and comfortably for thirty feet on each side below as the plane rises nearer the clouds. It is snowing to the right, another storm appears, but the pilot drives steadily on straight into the face of the mountain, heading for an opening between the storms. Lightning flashes to the right and a sound like thunder above the roar of the engine.

Some of the ridges and hogbacks are crossed by only a few hundred feet, while the valleys are thousands of feet below. There are places in the valleys where a landing could be made, but evidently this is nothing to the pilot. He goes on. Now he has passed the only valley and resting place in sight, and according to the schedule should be in Salt Lake in half an hour.

There is no city in sight, nothing but peaks and more peaks. Some hidden in cloud, some shining far away on a brighter horizon. The earth below them is almost hidden. The ship is flying above timber line and mountain experience teaches that this must be above 10,000 feet. It is headed toward the formidable Sherman hill, 11,000 feet, the highest point of the transcontinental trip.

It is comfortable in the cabin, but the ship does a lot of lurching. Gusts of wind from interlocking storms catch it on one side, then another. But it always rights quickly, and soon one forgets to grasp for the tasseled rope end in front of the seat.

Once in a while it sinks sharply a few feet, and the sensation of going down in a fast elevator is felt. Persons inclined to sea sickness or train sickness would find no joy here.

Salt Lake Valley Appears.

Ten more minutes riding in to the clouds, mounting 11,000 feet, and the barrier is taken. Suddenly, as one looks over a wall, the valley of the great Salt lake is seen dimly below. There is a dust storm down there which blurs the city. The lake stretches out as far as one can see, the water running from miles of stagnant marshes into deep blue bays dotted with islands.

Almost at once the ship begins to sink, with a jerky, lurching motion, sudden sharp falls of a few feet, then a more steady glide down. The city becomes more distinct, and its wide avenues, stately buildings and parks appear. The ship turns away to the edge of town and the airport looms up as a welcome place. The wind is blowing hard from the west, but it is no trick to land on the long field, and at 12:40—only ten minutes behind flying time from Rock Springs—the hangar is reached.

Just a Daily Occurrence.

The pilot grins and remarks "it was a little rough up there between the two storms," but it was all in the day's work and hardly worth mentioning.

It will be done every day all summer, he says, probably without delay, but in the winter, in bad storms, they are likely to be late. Just as easy as that, is this air travel. This pilot says he has never crossed the Sierra Nevada mountains, but he guesses it is about the same, fifty miles or so of "bad going." But this is done every day, too, and this is our goal for tomorrow.

MAKES SPEECH WITH ARTIFICIAL LUNG AND VOICE

Talking with the aid of an artificial lung and an artificial larynx, S. P. Grace of the Bell Telephone company laboratories last night transmitted part of his speech through a telephone and loud speaker to an audience of 400 members of the Western Society of Engineers in the Masonic Temple building.

This was one of Mr. Grace's demonstrations of the inventions which have been perfected by the company's research men. Hundreds of persons who have had their larynx removed are today able to communicate through this device, Mr. Grace said.

The sound emitted by use of the artificial larynx is monotonous, but the words are distinct. The mechanism of the larynx is an almost exact copy of the human vocal chords, according to the demonstrator, who connected the device with an artificial breathing apparatus.

Scolded by Mate, She Shot Herself, She Insists

Mrs. Mary Davis of 914 Sunnyside avenue was in a serious condition last night from a bullet wound in the left side, inflicted in the early morning hours during a quarrel with her husband. She, who is 28, told the police that she shot herself because her husband, Jack Davis, owner of a soft drink parlor at 201 West North avenue, had upbraided her for drinking and keeping late hours. Davis was held at the Town Hall station and Mrs. Davis was taken to the Lake View hospital.

CALLS BOULDER DAM SCHEME TO BOOST LAND PRICE

Arizona Governor Links Hearst in Deal.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Increased land values by which the Hearst, Chandler and other interests supporting Boulder dam legislation will profit in the event of its passage were suggested by Gov. W. P. Hunt of Arizona today as a proper field for investigation.

The Arizona governor made public a letter to the federal trade commission replying to its communication declining to extend its public utility inquiry to the activities of the Boulder dam lobby.

Property Values Increase.

"Surely it would be interesting to learn," said Gov. Hunt in his letter, "the amount of the increase in the value of property owned in California by the Hearst interests, the Chandler interests, and other interests which compose a part of the Boulder canyon dam lobby that would accrue to them by authorizing the construction of the Boulder canyon dam."

"It occurs to me," continued Gov. Hunt, "that from such an investigation we might learn why the secretary of the interior should sign and promulgate a report made by the geological survey, after the expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars and years of study and then force the engineer who made it, after 20 years of study, out of the service; why he should sign a report as a member of the federal power conmmission; should go on record as being doubtful of the soundness of the Boulder canyon proposal, and then, suddenly, without any new information of a material nature being made available, announce his conversion to and support of the bill.

What Pledges of Political Aid.

"I thought we might learn from the investigation what interest the secretary of commerce might have in this legislation as a candidate for President and what combination of circumstances induced him and the senior senator of California to join their political fortunes.

"I thought we might learn what pledges of political support, if any, have been given or offered to candidates for President, United States senators and representatives, and candidates for other offices by William Randolph Hearst and his chain of newspapers, by the Scripps-Howard newspapers, the moving picture producers, and the municipal corporations and agencies in California and other states because of the support offered to the Boulder canyon bill."

ASSEMBLY GETS HOME RULE AND CAR BILLS TODAY

20 Aldermen Sent to Urge Passage.

by giving the utilities a method by which they can thwart us."

"Equal Power with the State."

Ald. John A. Massen [48th] questioned the workability of the plan. Ald. Coughlin made a speech against it. Ald. Jacob M. Arvey [24th] and Oscar F. Nelson [46th] and Attorney Sexton defended it as the best workable plan yet devised.

"It gives the city commission equal power and dignity with the state commission," argued Attorney Sexton. "It is a serious mistake to leave this provision out. If you do, the city will have to go to the state commission with its hat in hand and plead for what it wants."

Ald. McDonough, chairman of the local transportation committee, pleaded for harmony in the city council. He said: "Perhaps these bills are not as good as some of us would like, and possibly they are not what some of us want; but unless we can go to the legislature with the backing of the city council we can't get anywhere. With divided support, they will say: 'You don't know what you want; go back and get together.'"

It was this speech which brought all of the aldermen in line except Mills.

Omit Subway and Merger Bills.

The aldermen prepared no bills for enabling legislation on subway construction by special assessment and the consolidation of the surface and elevated lines.

Attorney Sexton told the local transportation committee yesterday it was "not practicable nor advisable" to prepare bills on these two subjects in the time at the disposal of the lawyers. He cited sundry opinions of city lawyers saying that the city now has the power to build subways by special assessments. Referring to consolidation, Mr. Sexton said that the bill considered by the committee several months ago was a bill to enlarge the powers of railroads. "That is a highly important matter," he added.

The aldermen expressed hope that the lawyers would get these bills prepared in the next week.

WANT THOMPSON VIEWS

BY PARK BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 14.—[Special.]—Probably one of the first things the second special session of the Illinois general assembly will do after it convenes tomorrow will be to ask William Hale Thompson to come down and shoulder the responsibility for his traction legislation program.

There are indications tonight that this will be about the sourest session of the legislature that this state ever has seen. Only half a dozen members were around the statehouse this afternoon, and the others are trickling in slowly. Nearly every one wears an expression of irritation.

It was in this spirit that some one suggested that Thompson should be called on to tell what all the shooting's for and explain the emergency that demands the presence of scores of members paying their own expenses and sacrificing their personal affairs seven months in advance of a regular session.

"I think that Mayor Thompson should be invited to appear before us," said Senator John Dailey of Peoria. "It was at his request that we were called here."

"Unless something of that sort is done," said Representative David E. Shanahan, "it may be several weeks before we get really started and know where we are."

"I hope no time will be lost," said Senator Henry M. Dunlap, "for I don't want to be here all summer."

"The situation is so vague that I hope something will be done to clarify it," said Senator Richard R. Meents.

An Amazing Record

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is one of the largest units of one of the most important industries of the country—an industry that offers a remarkable record.

It is a matter of common knowledge that in the last ten years the price of gasoline has advanced less than that of any other commodity in general use, although the demand for it has increased far more than the demand for any of the others.

The supply of gasoline has been furnished when and where it was needed so faithfully that the fact is taken for granted.

This record of stability has been made by an industry in which costs of production have risen rapidly, in which the investment required and the risks incurred have been extraordinarily great.

Within the past dozen years more than $750,000,000 was expended in the U. S. in drilling dry holes and $500,000,000 more was put into wells that produced so little oil as to turn the investment into a heavy deficit. These statistics emphasize the achievement of the oil industry in furnishing a complete and continuous supply of petroleum products at comparatively stable prices.

The average cost of drilling a well in 1913 was $4,765. The average cost of a well last year was $18,725—or nearly 300 per cent more. Against this background of rapidly rising costs, consider the stability of the price of gasoline which over the first seven months of 1927 was only 12 per cent more than before the war!

This achievement of the oil industry has been made possible by increasing efficiency of operation. Science has been employed to improve methods, reduce waste and eliminate loss.

The cost of exploration has been reduced by means of the torsion balance, the seismograph and the magnetometer. Methods have been devised for increasing the recovery of gasoline from the crude oil and from natural gas.

The oil industry has made such progress in standardizing the equipment used in the production of oil that according to a government bureau it has advanced more in two years than any other industry in twenty years.

Back of the steady stream of gasoline that gives life to millions of motor vehicles is an amazing record of difficulties surmounted, of risks undertaken, of tremendous resources at work.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is proud to be one of the largest units in the oil industry—proud of the part it has played in the great task of supplying the nation with petroleum products.

Through the years it has carried on its work steadily and efficiently with benefit to all concerned—employes, stockholders and motorists of the Middle West. By faithful service, this Company has earned the confidence and friendly esteem which it enjoys today.

CHINESE DISMISS GENERAL; SCALP ASKED BY JAPAN

Caused Tsinan Fight by Disobeying Order.

BY JOHN POWELL.

[Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SHANGHAI, May 14.—The south Chinese nationalist government has called an extraordinary conference for tomorrow of high civilian and military officials, including Gen. Chiang Kai-shek, for the purpose of considering the Sino-Japanese situation in Shantung province. A nationalist policy regarding what the Chinese generally consider the most serious crisis in Sino-Japanese relations since the presentation of the Japanese demands in 1915 will be formulated.

Since the presentation of the Japanese twelve hour ultimatum on May 7, demanding the punishment of high nationalist officials, and disarming of nationalist troops involved in the Sino-Japanese clash, the Japanese have made no further move. Unofficially, Japan has indicated it intends to hold and operate the Shantung railway and keep control of the cities of Tsingtao and Tsinan pending a settlement of the incident satisfactory to Japan.

Chinese Dismiss General.

The Chinese, on the other hand, have withdrawn all the nationalist troops from the so-called neutral zone of seven miles around Tsinan and along the railway, and today announced the dismissal of Gen. Ho Yao-tsu, commander of the third army corps, whose troops entered Tsinan and became involved in the clash with the Japanese.

Nationalist government officials said the dismissal of Gen. Ho was due to his violation of Gen. Chiang's orders against entering the city of Tsinan, when he should have proceeded directly to the front.

The nationalist government has not yet taken any other steps to comply with the Japanese demands.

Meanwhile it awaits replies to its appeals to the league of nations and President Coolidge against the so-called Japanese aggressions in violation of the Washington conference treaties.

Present indications are that the Nationalist government intends to adopt a passive policy toward Japan pending the outcome of the present fighting in north China. It believes if it is able to defeat Marshal Chang Tso-lin, the Peking war lord, it will be in a better position to oppose the Japanese with a united front.

HOPED TO INVOLVE U. S.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, May 14.—Japan is speculating on how the Tsinan incident will be liquidated. Tsingtao advices today said military officials learned the Nationalist troops, which offered the most stubborn resistance to the Japanese, were regular army corps men, under the command of Ku Chu-tung, most of them having been trained in the Canton military school and veterans of three years' fighting. This, with other facts, it is believed, will tend to disprove the charges that communists or enemies of Gen. Chiang Kai-shek incited the Sino-Japanese clash with a view to discrediting Gen. Chiang.

It is reported that records of the last Nationalist military council at Tsinan, with Gen. Chiang participating, have been discovered, revealing that the Nationalist general, Frank Lyn, discussed the possibility of a clash with the Japanese and decided to fight if the circumstances seemed to render it unavoidable. Many Nationalist leaders argued that they could expect the support of the United States in the event of a clash with the Japanese.

Escort Stabbed When He Resents Remark to Girl

Leonard Adams, 24, of 2816 West Van Buren street was stabbed and possibly fatally wounded early today in a fight with two youths who had addressed an insulting remark to Miss Mildred Hetzler, 2826 West Van Buren street, whom he was escorting home. The fight occurred at Kedzie avenue and Congress street.

GIRL STRIPPED AND BRANDED BY JILTED SUITOR

Los Angeles, Cal., May 14.—[Special.]—John A. Nelson, writer and motion picture director, tonight was sought by police, charged with branding Jean Weston, 23, motion picture actress. Nelson is said to have cut the girl's body so that she will wear an unprintable name for life, holding her captive Saturday and Sunday in his quarters. According to Miss Weston, she had been Nelson's sweetheart for some time, but had broken with him a few months ago. Last week Nelson asked her to visit him one last time, she said. She did so, and was stripped and forced to submit to the branding, she said.

THE PACKARD SIX is available in twelve distinguished models, priced at Detroit from $2275 to $2785

MANY people think that the Packard Six is a much higher priced car than it really is. And quite naturally so, for the name Packard has stood for fine car leadership for nearly thirty years.

Yet Packard Six prices are as low as $2275 at the factory and no higher than $2785—with twelve distinguished models to choose from.

You can actually buy a Packard Six and drive it four or five years at no greater cost than you must pay to purchase and trade in a $1500 car every two years or so.

Why not buy a Packard Six? If your present car is of average value it will cover or exceed the down payment. Then your largest cash outlay at any one time will be no more than a single monthly payment.

After the first year, with your car paid for, your motoring expense will be small, and you will have the beauty, comfort and distinction of Packard transportation for several more years to come.

M. E. MEET GIVES DEMON RUM HIS USUAL SCOLDING

Press Boycott Suggested to Help Dry Cause.

Kansas City, Mo., May 14.—(AP)—Members of the Methodist Episcopal church were urged to give their support to newspapers which "deal fairly" with the prohibition movement in a resolution reported to the quadrennial general conference of the church here today by the committee on temperance, prohibition and public morals.

"We advise our members, in subscribing for newspapers and in placing advertising, to give their preference to those papers which deal fairly, both in their news and editorial columns, with the prohibition movement," the resolution said.

The conference probably will take action tomorrow.

Instruction in the public schools as to the "effect of alcohol on the human body and mind" was recommended, and church publications were asked to combat "falsehoods of that part of the daily press which continues to lend comfort to the enemies of prohibition."

Gambling Condemned.

Prohibition and public morals occupied most of the delegates' time today, with resolutions condemning prize fighting, nudity, blasphemy and profanity on the stage, and the "decadence in popular literature," gaining approval.

A church declaration on prohibition was returned to committee for rewording that would emphatically establish the church's position on politics and prohibition this year.

The conference, many of whose members applauded Jack Johnson, former heavyweight boxing champion, in his appearance at a temperance program last week, adopted without discussion the resolution condemning prize fighting as "utterly brutalizing" and an "unrighteous display."

Bast Trial Heard From.

Floor reference again was made today to the trial of Bishop Anton Bast for imprudent conduct. The conference submitted to the judiciary committee the request of Dr. Otto Fabricous of Copenhagen that he be allowed to enter documentary evidence into the current trial.

Dr. Fabricous is an opponent of Bishop Bast, who seeks reinstatement from suspension in the Copenhagen area.

FEDERAL PRISON UNHEALTHY JAM LAID TO DRY LAW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Prohibition was termed one of the leading causes for the overcrowding of federal prisons in a report submitted to the house today by Chairman Graham [Rep., Pa.] of the judiciary committee.

The committee report, which recommended passage of the Porter bill establishing two narcotic farms for drug addicts, described the conditions due to the overcrowding of federal prisons as "inhuman."

According to the report, the number of convictions in federal courts have multiplied four-fold since 1915.

"As a result," Mr. Graham said, "the penitentiaries at Atlanta, Leavenworth, and McNeil island, Washington, are seriously overcrowded. The total capacity at these institutions is 3,738. On April 1, 1928, there were 7,598 men crowded into them."

Edmund Platt Reappointed to Federal Reserve Board

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—Edmund Platt of New York, was reappointed by President Coolidge today to membership on the federal reserve board.

RED McLAUGHLIN GOES ON TRIAL IN THEFT CASE

Eugene (Red) McLaughlin, who in the past has been charged by the police with a 100 or more crimes, but never convicted of any, was placed on trial yesterday in Judge John P. McGoorty's Criminal court on a charge of attempting to rob Walter J. Newman, New York diamond broker, of $85,000 worth of unset diamonds on March 22, 1926. He was caught, so police say, in the act of choking Newman at Thirty-first street and South Park avenue.

McLaughlin's desire to be tried first on a murder charge, that of killing Joseph Wolrak, former president of the Checker Cab company, was denied by Judge McGoorty. Trial of this charge was started last week, but the jury was dismissed when Assistant State's Attorney Charles Daugherty was alleged to have made prejudicial remarks. The state admits having little evidence on the murder charge.

McLaughlin wanted to be tried on the murder first because he is held in jail without bail. With this charge out of the way he could secure his freedom pending trial of the robbery case.

BRITONS DROP EFFORT TO TRY YANK INTRUDER

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—The British government has given up its fight to extradite Boatswain Larry Christiansen, commander of the coast guard vessel implicated in the recent Bahamas liquor conspiracy case which resulted in the trial and conviction at Nassau of Charles "Pop" Nestle, a former American prohibition agent, on charges of receiving stolen goods.

Instead of continuing its efforts to have Christiansen tried on charges of larceny at Nassau, British officials have decided to turn all their evidence to American authorities. It is understood that the treasury department has agreed to take disciplinary steps against Christiansen or submit its findings to the department of justice if the evidence warrants.

The evidence in the Bahamas case, British officials believe, shows conclusively that Christiansen is guilty of stealing and disposing of liquor captured within British territorial waters.

Watchman Dies of Wound After Fight with Robbers

Anthony Polini, 51, of 2500 Thomas street, died last evening at the county hospital of bullet wounds received during a fight between colored robbers and another watchman on Saturday night. Polini was a watchman employed by the Wolff Manufacturing corporation, 2057 Fulton street.

Reduce the Acid

In sick stomachs—instantly

Sick stomachs, sour stomachs, and indigestion usually mean excess acid. The stomach nerves are overstimulated. Too much acid makes the stomach and intestines sour.

Alkali kills acid instantly. The best form is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia, because one harmless, tasteless dose neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Since its invention, 50 years ago, it has remained the standard with physicians everywhere.

Take a spoonful in water and your unhappy condition will probably end in five minutes. Then you will always know what to do. Crude and harmful methods will never appeal to you. Go prove this for your own sake. It may save a great many disagreeable hours.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drugstore.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

Why Is This New Life Insurance Policy (Issued Exclusively to Tribune Readers) The World's Greatest Life Insurance Value?

Simple As A. B. C.

For Example:

Suppose your age is 35.

You pay $11.00 a year until you're 45. That's 10 years or $110.00.

After you're 45 you pay $2.50 a month or $30.00 a year.

Suppose you live to be 67, the average life expectancy at age 35, according to Insurance statistics. You will have paid $30.00 a year for 23 years, or $690.00.

$690.00 PLUS $110.00 = $800.00—total paid in.

Your beneficiary will be paid $1,000.00—$200.00 more than you will have paid in.

You will have had Life Insurance Protection for 33 years!

If you die before age 45 your beneficiary gets more than $1,000.00.

If you become totally and permanently disabled the full amount is payable to you, as stated in the Policy, while living!

FINES SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHER, DOCTOR FOR PLOT

Judge Adds Jail Terms for Dr. Mechelke.

Miss Helen M. Hauer, 23 year old Sunday school teacher, and her sweetheart, Dr. E. E. Mechelke, 231 South Cicero avenue, a chiropractor, both were punished yesterday by Judge Francis Borrelli in the Fillmore street court, for conspiring, they confessed, to ruin the reputation of Miss Charlotte Campbell. Miss Campbell had charged Mechelke with obtaining money by false pretenses.

Miss Hauer, who had attempted to protect her sweetheart on Saturday by giving testimony in his absence—he had failed to appear in court and she was locked up until he did—was fined $200 and costs yesterday on a contempt charge.

Gets More Punishment.

The judge piled up two sentences against Mechelke and on a third charge held him to the grand jury. A 60 day sentence and a $100 fine were imposed on the original charge of obtaining money by false pretenses. An additional 90 days in jail were given for contempt of court. He was held to the grand jury in $2,500 bonds, charged with perjury.

Attorney John L. Fogle, for the Chicago Bar association, promised the judge to take up before the grievance committee of that organization testimony involving Attorney Ray E. Lane, who appeared for Mechelke. Search was started for two other men named in the plot against Miss Campbell.

Lends Him Cash on Car.

Miss Campbell had started action against Mechelke to force collection of $250 which she had lent him on an automobile. His defense to her suit was that the car belonged to a man named Lange. Prior hearings had developed that Lange really was Mechelke. Miss Hauer had corroborated "the Lange defense," but on Saturday she admitted she knew of the deception. The judge ordered her put in jail until her sweetheart should appear. He came back Sunday and yesterday the case was resumed in court.

The testimony yesterday revealed a conspiracy to make a fake raid on Miss Campbell's apartment to force her to drop the suit against Mechelke. Miss Hauer admitted going to Miss Campbell's apartment and threatening her with prosecution if she did not drop that suit.

Delay Trial of Big Game Huntress Who Shot Mate

SALTIS' APPEAL REFUSED BY U. S. SUPREME COURT

CRIMINAL COURT.
William Nielson, rape, sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Otto Kerner.

Gov. Len Small alone can now save Joe Saltis, Chicago beer peddler, from serving a sixty day Bridewell sentence and paying a $50 fine imposed upon him by Municipal Judge George A. Curran on Dec. 10, 1926, for gun toting, in the opinion of legal experts. The United States Supreme court yesterday declined to review the Saltis case.

Considering their chances of winning in the high court to be slim, counsel for Saltis recently filed an application for a pardon for the gangster-beer peddler before the state board of pardons and paroles. A hearing was held last week, though the board, so far as is known, has not yet submitted its findings to the governor.

Attorney Louis Greenburg appealed the Saltis case to the United States Supreme court following upholding of an Appellate court decision by the Illinois Supreme court. In an order denying the appeal, the high court dismissed as "frivolous" Saltis' contention that he had as much right to carry a gun as a policeman, watchman, or bank messenger.

A capias for the arrest of Saltis will be issued by Municipal Court Clerk James A. Kearnes as soon as official word of the high court action reaches Chicago.

No longer . . . toss . . . toss . . . toss, the hot night thru!

For the first time you can sleep in COOL COMFORT . . . . even through summer's hottest nights!

SULTRY, sticky, oppressive—another endless night! Vainly you struggle for sleep—tossing off the blanket, because it is too hot—and then, with only a single sheet over you, shivering in the first chill draft. Too often in summer we miss the restful sleep we need, just because we haven't proper covers.

Now a way has been found to get your covering just right; don't use a blanket. Instead sleep under TWO Pequot sheets!

There are two important reasons for doing this: first, the two sheets are light. Therefore, you have a COOL covering.

Second, between the two sheets is a layer of still air. Scientists have found that this acts as a temperature regulator between you and the sudden temperature changes, which are one of the most frequent causes of summer colds. The two-sheet covering protects you and, therefore, is a HEALTHFUL covering.

When you sleep under two sheets you really rest. In the morning you awake refreshed, keen, buoyant. What a relief!

To carry out this new summer-comfort idea, this is what you will want to know.

How many extra sheets will I need for this 3-sheet bed-making? You will probably need only a half-dozen extra Pequot sheets. Figure your supply for each bed at 6, rather than 4.

What about extra laundry? The top sheet need be laundered only once in two weeks. The body does not touch it, and in the daytime it will be protected by a spread. This summer—know the comfort of sleeping under TWO Pequot sheets.

Pequot—America's most popular sheet

JUST take the firm, smooth Pequot fabric between your fingers. How soft it is—how fine, full-bodied! Immediately you realize why Pequot sheets are so cool and comfortable.

Most women value even more the way Pequot sheets wear and wear. Hundreds and hundreds write us experiences such as these: "My present supply of Pequot sheets has lasted eight years in spite of constant laundering"; "Some of my Pequot sheets were ten years old before worn out."

THE DELINEATOR HOME INSTITUTE of which Mrs. Mildred Maddox Bentley is director, has enthusiastically endorsed this new Pequot three-sheet idea for all seasons. The Institute reports:

"This third sheet serves as a protector for the blanket in winter, and as the necessary added covering on the summer nights when it is too warm for a blanket."

Make up your bed this new way: one sheet below, TWO sheets above—for comfortable, healthful sleep on hot summer nights!

SOVIET INDUSTRY FUND FOUND TO BE IN THEORY ONLY

Costs Figured Too Close to Buy New Machinery.

BY VINCENT M. VOKOVICH.

[Copyright: 1928: By The Chicago Tribune.]

RIGA, Latvia, May 14.—One of the most important elements in soviet industry, which is considered as a lever to the cost of production and to force the accumulation of capital, is the amortization fund. The amortization fund is an abstract account and has no physical appearance in any enterprise in soviet Russia. It is simply a written item carried in the books and transferred from year to year, and from office to office, until it reaches the supreme council of national economy. Since there is no other fund for the replacement of machinery and equipment, the amortization fund is supposed to take the place of all the funds used for the accumulation of new capital.

The prices of basic products are set by the government. Few, if any, of the enterprises produce below that price. The profit, therefore, is not so great as to cover the wear and tear on machinery and purchasing of new equipment.

No Money in the Bank.

I was employed by three trusts. I inquired of the highest authorities and asked accountants if any one knew of the amortization fund to exist physically; that is, if the money was set aside and placed in the bank. All informed me that amortization is an abstract account and no trust in Russia has money in the bank belonging to the amortization fund.

The fact is that no trust has any money. All of them owe to the Gosbank. In the last period of the operating year, August and September, there usually is a financial crisis and many factories have difficulties in meeting their obligations and even in paying their workers.

The Tax System.

The government collects direct taxes on articles sold from the peasants and collects taxes from the industry, which includes them in the cost of production. The articles carrying this tax cost are sold to the peasants and again the peasants pay. The accumulated taxes are divided among the various governmental departments, including industry. With the share given to industry the deficits are paid, and with what is left over new equipment is bought.

BUNDESEN SUED FOR HEALTH BOOK PROFITS BY CITY

Dr. Herman Bundesen, former health commissioner and nominee for coroner, William Wrigley Jr., the Rengensteiner corporation, Felix Mendelson of the Congress hotel, et al., were named defendants in a suit filed yesterday in the United States District court for the cancellation of copyrights and an accounting of profits on health books. The suit was filed by Special Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph R. Roach on behalf of the city.

The bill alleges damages aggregating $200,000. An injunction to restrain the defendants from further distribution of the books is also sought.

Charges are made that the books, five in number, was prepared under the guidance of Dr. Bundensen by a large staff of physicians and others on the city pay roll and that Dr. Bundensen "fraudulently and deceitfully" appropriated title.

LET NO ONE FOOL YOU

There's only one Hires, but many root beers

When you ask for Hires you're entitled to it. Not to an ordinary root beer.

Yet the 50 year success of Hires has lured unscrupulous imitators, who offer cheaply-made root beers.

"Like Hires" or "the same as Hires" they claim, seeking to prey upon the public and our name.

Many people are deceived. Then their disappointment often hurts the good name of Hires.

The color can be imitated but never the Hires flavor. No imitator can afford to command a world market of the choicest ingredients, as we do. We pay a premium.

No imitator owns a sugar plantation, as we do, to insure a supply of pure cane sugar.

Our recipe contains the juices of 16 rare roots, herbs, barks and berries. Most imitations contain but a few synthetic oils.

The taste of Hires is vastly different from ordinary root beers. The genuine Hires possesses a flavor all its own.

So get what you pay for. Ask for Hires by name and insist upon the genuine. Don't ask for "root beer," if you want Hires.

HIRES IS OFFERED IN TWO FORMS:
1—by the glass, at all fine soda fountains.
2—bottled, ready to serve—at groceries and delicatessens.
ALSO
There is Hires Household Extract for making root beer at home—a 30c bottle makes 5 gallons—at grocers and delicatessens.

CUBS IN 2D PLACE; WIN NINTH STRAIGHT

REIGH COUNT WINS EASILY OVER LAWLEY, DODGSON

GALLOPS OUT DERBY ROUTE IN 2:05 2-5

Victory Sends Odds to 8-5.

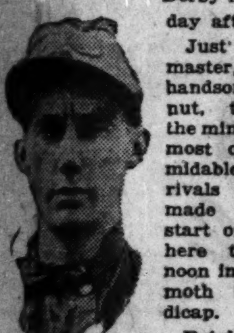
Victorian Out

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Harry Payne Whitney's colt, Victorian, winner of the rich Preakness stakes last Friday at Pimlico, has been shipped back to Belmont park and withdrawn from the Kentucky Derby. No explanation of this change in plans was forthcoming from trainer Rowe but Victorian is expected to start in the classic Withers stakes at Belmont this Saturday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., May 14.—Reigh Count is ready for the Kentucky Derby next Saturday afternoon.



JOCKEY CHICK LANG.

Just like an old master, the big, handsome chestnut, trained to the minute, routed most of his formidable western rivals when he made his first start of the year here this afternoon in the Mammoth Cave handicap.

Reigh Count won by three lengths from Lawley, which beat Col. Shaw a neck. Trailing him home, but far back, were Jack Higgins, the Louisiana Derby winner; Golden Racket and Dodgson.

Reigh Count's fractional time was as follows: Quarter, :24 2-5; half, :48 2-5; three quarters, 1:13; mile, 1:38 4-5; mile and sixteenth, 1:45 2-5; mile and a quarter, 2:05 2-5. The last three-sixteenths was run under a slight pull.

Reigh Count's margin of victory did not half tell the story. It was the ease and the complete confidence both Reigh Count and his jockey, Chick Lang, showed, at all stages, which made him look more like the Derby winner today than at any time since he was made the favorite four months ago.

Reigh Count Wins Easily.

The race was at a mile and a sixteenth and with his head at Dodgson's flank, while the latter made the pace for three-quarters of a mile, Reigh Count was galloping along like a well oiled machine, waiting for Lang to give him the order to go on to the front.

This order came at the start of the turn into the homestretch. In two lengthy plunges Reigh Count was on even terms with Dodgson. In another he had passed him. In a few more strides he had opened up a lead of a length. Two more jumps and he was two lengths away and going faster than ever.

Dodgson couldn't have quit quicker if he had been hit in the head with a hammer. Lawley, on which there had been a plunge, made one bid to catch Reigh Count, but as he picked up a little ground Lang gave Reigh Count one crack with the whip. The son of Sun Reigh-Countessa bounded ahead with new speed. Now he had Lawley whipped and his first battle of the year was ended. He was only galloping at the windup and was worked on out for the mile and a quarter, the route he will be asked to travel on Saturday.

Kentuckians Cheer Victor.

His work for the remaining distance, in which he went it alone, was just as impressive as his race had been. He worked out the Derby course in 2:06 2-5 as the big crowd greeted him with prolonged cheers. These cheers did not come from Reigh Count's great army of Chicago backers alone. They came from Kentuckians as well, and these Kentuckians have no cheers for a bad race horse.

Shortly before Reigh Count demonstrated his thorough fitness and Derby class, ten Derby candidates from the east were unloaded not far from Reigh Count's stall. In this shipment were the English colts, Strolling Player, Typhoon, Petee Wrack, Sun Beau, Toro, Vito, Sortie, Martie, Bobashela and Distraction. The trainers of these horses, including Max Hirsch, James FitzSimmons, H. Guy Bedwell, and other veterans, had just time enough to put their charges away and walk into the infield to see Reigh Count win his race.

Fred Burton of Chicago, who is a part owner of Dodgson, was here to watch his colt run. Dodgson's sad showing will likely eliminate him from the Derby field, for he was beaten off.

The two big western rivals which Reigh Count did not hook up with today were Misstep and Martie Flynn. They were not named for the race. But when it is considered that Misstep had all he could do a few days ago to get a head decision over Lawley at seven furlongs, it is hard to train the imagination to such a pitch that it will show Misstep displaying his heels to Reigh Count in the Derby.

SOX TAKE THEIR DAILY DRUBBING; THIS TIME, 4-2

Tate's Double Clinches Victory for Senators.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—Not only one, but about three things were wrong with the White Sox this afternoon, so they took their customary defeat by 4 to 2 in the third of the series with the Senators.

One of the things that did not pan out as Boss Schalk had expected was some flinging on the part of Ted Blankenship, one of the others was loose fielding, and still another a painfully light attack on the part of the Chicagoans against the pitching of Milton Gaston.

Blankenship's biggest fault was lack of control. It was wildness on his part that let the home talent register against him in the opening round. It was more of the same item that let them do more damage in the third, and the fifth was selected by his mates as the chapter in which the hostiles should be presented with a bargain run.

It might also be added that the Senators were just skillful enough to take advantage of these assorted contributions by puncturing the defense with a hit when the most damage would result.

Ted Forces in Run.

The Senators had no desire to let Blankenship become imbued with thoughts of victory, so discouraged him right in the first inning with a run.

West opened the attack with a double to left and Rice walked. Both were nudged up on Judge's sacrifice and a free ticket to Barnes loaded the bags. Gillis popped out to Cissell, which relieved the situation considerably, but Big Ted turned around and let Tate work him for a pass, forcing West to score. Harris tapped to the pitcher to end the inning.

Mr. Falk, the jesting Texan, came through with one of his long but altogether too infrequent smacks in the second, and this enabled the Sox to get a run and even up the battle. Bib opened the round with a drive to deep center and by hustling on his part, which might be considered unusual, managed to reach third. Kamm then drew a walk, making it look as if a rally was impending. It wasn't. Clancy just missed grounding into a double play. Falk ran home while this was going on. Then Crouse fouled to Judge and Blankenship popped high to Harris.

Tate's Double Scores Two.

Washington broke the tie by collecting two runs in the third on Blankenship's pitching mistakes. Rice was the first man up and Big Ted provided him with free transportation. The next two batters grounded to Cissel for force plays. Gillis used his pants as a target for one of Blankenship's inaccurate heaves and got to first as a reward. Then Tate gave the ball a wicked ride into left center, and Barnes and Gillis scored. Tate made second on the hit, but Harris grounded out the side.

It was no fault of Blankenship that the Senators were able to pick up another run in the fifth. Judge singled to right after one was defunct. Barnes grounded to Hunnefield, but Clancy messed up the proceedings by dropping the throw. Gilles bounced straight to Blankenship, who turned, and whipped the ball to Hunnefield, but the latter neglected to hold the ball and it bounded away so far that Judge ran all the way home from second and Barnes moved to third. Barnes was nipped trying to score on Tate's grounder to Clancy and Crouse threw Harris out.

The Sox tried to get rough in the sixth when Falk and Kamm singled in order, but there happened to be two down at the time and Clancy was not equal to the occasion.

Better luck attended the Sox in the seventh and they scored once, although one run was of no consequence except as a balm. This thing was started on a single by Crouse and Mostil shoved him home with a triple. Neither Cissell nor Hunnefield could do anything about bringing Mostil home from third.

Glenna Collett Wins Two Matches in British Tourney

HUNSTANTON, England, May 14.—(AP)—Miss Glenna Collett, former women's golf champion of the United States, swept through two rounds of the British women's title event today. The American girl, one of the game's longest hitters, used her ability to drive the ball through the wind to good advantage in defeating Mlle. Simone Thion de la Chaume, the French girl who holds the British title, and Miss Shirley Lamplough, 18 year old English player.

MLLE. DE LA CHAUME.
[K. & H. Photo.]

The first round match, which brought the star American and French entries together, was a see-saw affair, finally won at the seventeenth, 3 up and one to play. In the afternoon, a very timid Glenna played excellent golf to win from her younger and less experienced opponent with little effort, 7 up and six to play. The English girl won only one hole.

Glenna Comes from Behind.

The American had to come from behind to win in the morning, the champion being off in front with a birdie 3 at the first hole, gained through a forty foot chip from the edge of the green. Through rain and a biting wind, the star women players plodded through the first nine holes, nip and tuck. Glenna squared the match at the seventh, but on the eighth went down again when she took nine strokes. Three shots sailed out of bounds on this hole. She was not dismayed, however, and again made the affair all even at the ninth.

Starting home, over a series of crisscross holes with several "blind spots," the players, followed by a wet but enthusiastic gallery, found the wind growing steadily stronger. Miss Collett's almost uncanny ability to use the wind when it was with her and thwart its designs when it was against her stood her in good stead on the finishing holes.

Two Americans Lose.

Miss Collett was glad to find the rosy cheeked English lass easy in the afternoon play. "I needed some one to ride over this afternoon after the hard fight Simone gave me," the former American champion said tonight. "She played like a genius at the start and I had a real struggle to win."

While the hard hitting Glenna was killing off the titleholder, three other Americans advanced with her and two met defeat. Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, Philadelphia; Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, and Miss Elizabeth Curtis, Clinton, Ia., won their way into the third round. Miss Madge Miller, Detroit, and Miss Maude Hunnewell, formerly of Boston but now living in England, were eliminated.

Miss Collett faces another hard golfing problem tomorrow, when she plays Mrs. Temple Dobell. Mrs. Dobell, as Gladys Ravenscroft, won the women's championship of the United States in 1913. She has been runner up in both the British and French championships.

Today was a bad day for champions. Mrs. E. F. A. Guedalla, the former Edith Leitch, present English native champion, was beaten by Miss Doris Fowler at the 19th hole.

Miss Collett and Mlle. Thion were followed by an overcoated, weather-proofed gallery of nearly 2,000, while few other pairs had a dozen spectators.

STUDENTS, AIM TO HEAL PRINCETON, HARVARD BREACH

Princeton, N. J., May 14.—[Special.]—Princeton and Harvard will resume athletic relations if the undergraduate writers of the Harvard Crimson and the Daily Princetonian have anything to do with it.

Editorial comment in the columns of these two campus dailies has been excited to manifestations of friendliness for the last few days, the occasion being the baseball game between the boards of the newspapers in Princeton last Saturday.

Judge Orders St. Louis Dog Track Closed as Nuisance

St. Louis, May 14.—(AP)—Ramona Kenna club was restrained from operating its dog racing track on the ground it is a public nuisance, in an order issued today by Circuit Judge Kiskaddon of St. Louis county in an injunction suit filed last week by the state's attorney general.

The order was issued after a hearing in which three witnesses testified for the state they had witnessed betting at the track.

NEW YORK COOL TO LIGHTWEIGHT TITLE BATTLE

No Rush for Tickets to Mandell Bout.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 14.—For some reason the lightweight championship prize fight between Samuel Mandell and James McLarnin, which is to be celebrated on Thursday evening at the Polo grounds, is arousing very little excitement in uplift circles. The reason seems to be that the public does not regard Samuel as a genuine lightweight champion nor the contest as a genuine championship transaction.

This is a strange whim on the part of the public, because the last lightweight championship prize fight held in New York, five years ago, between Benjamin Leiner, alias Bennie Leonard, and Louie (Dot Dope) Tendler drew $472,000 cash money and it was not really a lightweight championship prize fight at all. That is, the boys were Philadelphia lightweights or 145 pounders, and the customers suspected as much.

Yet, they stormed the windows where high priced tickets were on sale and contributed all that money to see a lightweight championship contest in which neither fighter was a lightweight.

Weigh in Secretly.

The weighing in ceremonies which preceded the fight constituted a touching testimonial of the faith of the customer in the sportsmanship and integrity of highly placed members of the uplift profession. The exercises took place in the offices of the Cromwell A. C., now defunct, in a large office building downtown in New York. The scale at first was placed in a semi-public room and members of the press and representatives of the prize fight commission were on hand to scrutinize the weighing in.

After an unexplained delay, some gentlemen opened the door of a small private room and pushed the scale through the door. Benjamin Leiner, looking rather portly for a lightweight, and Louie Tendler and their respective managers and the representatives of the prize fight commission hurriedly crowded into the small private room and the door was then closed.

In the present instance there is no doubt that Samuel and James are genuine lightweights, but Samuel certainly has not established himself as a champion.

James McLarnin qualified for this match with Samuel by hitting Sidney Terris of Delancey street on the chin and knocking him temporarily insensible. He is the only one who has done this to Sidney, and his feat naturally caused a stir.

In fact, many members of the public were so carried away by the spectacle that they decided James would be just the boy to tap Samuel on his chin and knock him insensible, too. They lost sight of the fact that tapping Sidney Terris on the chin and tapping Samuel on the chin are not identical assignments. In his last six or seven fights preceding the one with McLarnin, Sidney Terris was hit on the chin and fell down.

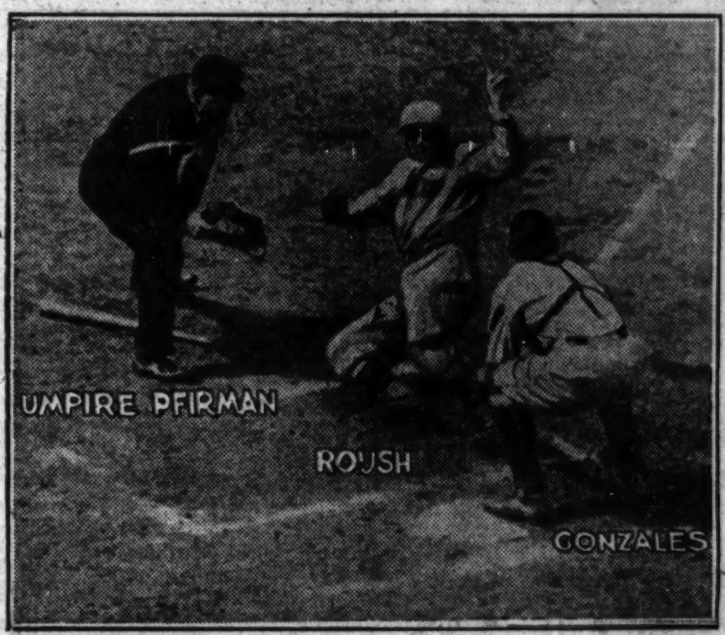
Runs Backward for Reason.

Earlier in his career Sidney was the most skittish prize fighter in the ring and a master of the Tunney style of attack. That is, he advanced backward at breakneck speed, and the customers used to chide him for it, little realizing that Sidney advanced backward for the very good reason that if he advanced forward he was certain to be hit on the chin and fall down.

Sidney finally changed his style against his better judgment, merely to please the customers. In doing so he proved that he was full of courage, because he got up about a dozen times in the series of fights preceding the McLarnin bout.

Samuel does not seem likely to knock James down, nor is it probable that he will permit James to knock him down. So the prize fight would seem to promise fifteen rounds of spirited boxing but negligible damage.

NOT A CHANCE



Ed Roush, Giant center fielder, is out at the plate in the third inning of yesterday's Cub-Giant game. Beck's throw from short on Reese's ground ball gave Mike Gonzales plenty of time to get Roush as he hit the dirt.

WOOD MEMORIAL TROPHY DRAWS U. S. GOLF STARS

First Meet Carded at Flossmoor Aug. 28.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

In memory of Warren K. Wood, one of the nation's finest golfers fifteen to twenty years ago, Chicago's first annual memorial golf tournament will be held at Flossmoor, Aug. 28. The trophy will be the famous Glen View open cup, which became Wood's possession when he won it three times.

WARREN K. WOOD.

A brilliant field is assured, as Bobby Jones, Francis Ouimet, Jess Sweetser, and Chick Evans have accepted invitations to play, while all the other members of the American and British Walker cup teams are expected to compete.

Was Real Sportsman.

Warren Wood, who died at Pelham Manor, N. Y., in 1926, was western amateur champion in 1910 and runnerup in the national amateur championship of 1913, but he is remembered more by thousands of Chicago golfers for his sportsmanship and kindnesses to poorer players. Wood, incidently, was the first amateur to be a real threat in a major open championship when he finished fifth in the western open about 1908. Before that professionals had had everything their own way in open competition.

Wood, son of John H. Wood, and then a member of the Homewood club, which is now Flossmoor, won the Glen View cup after a memorable match with Mason Phelps of Shore Acres. Each had two legs on the cup and Wood won the last hole.

On Olympic Team Twice.

Among his earlier victories were the interscholastic championship of 1902, and he was twice a member of the Olympic golf team. In 1904 he won the first flight cup at the Olympic championship at St. Louis. Twice Wood was runnerup in the western amateur, once in the national amateur, twice a semi-finalist in the national, and once in the western, in addition to winning many minor championships.

The Western Advertising Golfers' association will open its season at Midlothian today, with 27 holes of golf. Nine holes in the morning will be a qualifying round and 18 in the afternoon will be played on a chip system. Dinner will be served in the evening with President Charles B. Goes Jr. presiding as toastmaster.

ROOT'S CURVES SPIKE GIANTS' BIG GUNS, 8 TO 2

M'Graw Hit by Auto; Slightly Hurt.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The ninth win in the Cubs' string of consecutive victories over eastern clubs and their third over the New York Giants was just too easy. The score was, Chicago, 8; New York, 2, and marked the triumph of Charley Root over that good Hoosier boy, Freddie Fitzsimmons.

EARL WEBB.

The Cubs moved into second place and the Giants dropped from second to fourth in the National League standings. Cincinnati, by easily overcoming a four run handicap the Phillies had in the first inning, retained their league leadership, an even game ahead of the Cubs.

And just to think! On the second day of this extremely merry month of May, these same Cubs were wallowing in seventh place, an awesome span of 263 points behind the then leading Giants.

McGraw Hit by Auto.

As a climax to the deep grief of the Giants, Manager McGraw was knocked down by an automobile as he was leaving Wrigley field. He was able to walk to first aid, where he received treatment for a wrenched right knee and a bruised right calf. George Patzorz, 7510 North Robey street, was the owner of the car. McGraw said it was his own fault and declined to make a charge against Patzorz.

Everybody who played for the Cubs yesterday contributed something to the success program. If there must be special laurel wreaths, however, let Earl Webb, Mike Gonzales, and Root wear 'em, at least till this afternoon.

Webb's 100 proof triple in the first inning scored the first run of the game and his double with two down in the fourth, though perhaps a bit tainted, cleared loaded bases. Mike drove in a pair of runs with a double and Root's accomplishment was the pitching of a six hit game. Three of these hits were scattered and three grouped in the third inning, when the Giants made their runs and gained a lead which lasted all of ten minutes.

Cubs Score in First.

This afternoon Percy Lee Jones will endeavor to vanquish Virgil Barnes in the final with the Giants. Virgil was scheduled to pitch yesterday, but Fitzsimmons' father, the leading sleuth of Mishawaka, Ind., came in and wanted to see his son pitch. So McGraw changed his plans.

The Cubs' run in the first was made possible by Andy Cohen. After Beck had been retired, Andy booted Maguire's grounder and Freddie scored on Webb's triple to the wall in left center. Wilson walked, but Stephenson fouled out and Grimm popped to Jackson.

As on Sunday, the Giants did all their business in the third inning, as follows: Fitzsimmons struck out. Roush got his first hit in ten times at bat and went to third when Ott singled to right. Beck grabbed Reese's grounder and threw out Roush at the plate. Terry doubled off the right field screen, scoring Ott and Reese.

Fitzsimmons Fades Out.

The Cubs regained the lead in their half of the third. Beck struck out, but Maguire singled to center. Webb walked. Wilson singled to right, scoring Maguire and putting Webb on third. Stephenson singled to left, scoring Webb, but Wilson was out at third, Roush to Reese. Grimm popped to Jackson to end the inning.

The fourth marked the demise of Fitzsimmons. Gonzales singled to left and he and Butler were safe when Cohen muffed the throw after Johnny's grounder. Root fanned, but Beck walked to fill the bases. Maguire also fanned. Webb sent a hard drive to Old Les Mann and it appeared it would be pulled down. But it got away and was scored a double, Gonzales, Butler and Beck counting.

The final Cub slap at the proud easterners came in the seventh. Wilson walked, but was forced by Stephenson. Walker also passed Grimm. Then Gonzales lined one into left for two bases and Stephenson and Grimm ran home.

SERIES DRAWS RECORD CROWD

There were 20,000 folks on hand yesterday, bringing the total for three Giant days to 88,000. The most overworked man in the park has been Al Campion, the ruddy and thick skinned boss of the pass gate.

Numerous times in the last few days Al has been obliged to inquire, "You and who else?" to gents who attempted to intimidate him by offering to bust him on the nose in lieu of credentials.

Freddie Lindstrom, Chicago's contribution to the Giants' roster, who has been suffering from a cold for a week, finally gave up yesterday and was relieved at third by Reese.

Les Mann, who teaches Young America various points about the game of baseball via the movies, still keeps his service up to the minute. Every so often big leaguers have to get out and slide on their ears while Les grinds out "the wrong way" and "the right way."

But Les didn't have a camera man handy to take "the wrong way" when he was going after Webb's havoc producing double in the fourth.

Bill Walker, the lefthander who relieved Fitzsimmons, has been variously characterized as the best southpaw rookie that has come up in years. Bill struck out 196 for Denver last year.

Aurora, Ill., May 13.—This was long shot day at Exposition park. In the first five races none of the favorites found the going to its liking and not one finished in the place money. The rewards went to those courageous souls who like to bet $2 that lightning will strike.

The featured fourth race, designed for the better class of claiming horses at the track, went to Voshell, an inconsistent one from the stable of R. Z. Jenkins. The chestnut filly, Blushing Maiden, seemingly much the best, was second and would have won had the five and a half furlongs been stretched just a little.

Voshell Jumps Into Lead.

At the start Voshell took the lead, with the fast but faint hearted Conquistador close behind. For a second or two at the turn Conquistador's nose was in front. But Voshell was not to be denied and in the drive down the stretch gained a commanding lead.

Meanwhile Blushing Maiden, all but left at the post, was just beginning to run. She went wide on the turn and charged down the stretch, overtaking horse after horse, but the lead that Voshell had taken was too much for her and she had to be content with passing the weakening Conquistador near the wire.

A. Pendergrass, riding Voshell, made no mistakes, and the credit for the gelding's victory rightly belongs to him. And it's not unfair to Bush, the filly's rider, to charge him with her defeat. The winner paid $34.82 to win. Senator Seth, the strongly played favorite, was never prominent.

Arragosa Pays $28.78.

In the fifth, a limited band of those $600 animals went to the post, and the winner was Arragosa, a 7 year old bay gelding that comes in first at infrequent intervals. There was a driving finish between him and Jim Dahlman for the purse, after Bolton, My Valet, and Viclaris had dominated the early running and faded away in the final stages. Arragosa's price was $28.78 in the $2 market.

STROLLING PLAYER

Owner, Cary T. Grayson. Breeder, F. Curzon. Trainer, R. A. Smith.

A full brother to the English Derby winner Call Boy, which was purchased in England last fall for $70,000 by Admiral Grayson and B. B. Jones. He won two races in three starts in England. On last June 30 he picked up 132 pounds and won from a field of the crack 2 year olds on the English turf.

Strolling Player is by Grand Parade-Comedienne, the latter by Bachelor's Double. As a result of Call Boy's greatness and the general good breeding lines on both sides of the house, this is one of the most fashionable thoroughbred families in England right now.

Strolling Player arrived in the United States last fall. He wintered well and is training soundly at last reports. Whether our hard dirt tracks will be to the liking to a colt that was taught to run over the turf in England remains to be discovered. Many invaders from the other side have found it the sort of a handicap they could not overcome.

The mile and a quarter of the Derby won't stop a colt of Strolling Player's breeding. He also showed a fine turn of speed in the few races he ran in England. He is in the hands of a skillful trainer. If he is a sound colt, he may cause some trouble in the Derby.

Pickerel Best Early Fish in Illinois Lakes

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicago—[To the Editor.]—I am an amateur fisherman, having only fished for trout in California, but I want to do some fishing in northern Illinois or Wisconsin. Can you help me out with information on where to go? I would like to know when the season opens, what fish are to be caught and what places are within driving distance which I could visit between Saturday afternoon and Sunday night.

HEITLER RUSSELL.

Answer.—In Illinois your best bet for fishing right now would be the pickerel. The bass season in this state does not open until the middle of June. Beginning May 25, it will be lawful to fish for pickerel and wall-eye pike in Wisconsin. The rock bass season also opens May 25. There are no restrictions on calico bass, strawberry bass, crappies or silver bass, so you can fish for them right now.

If you are going to drive to nearby lakes we suggest you purchase one of the new Chicagoland maps published by THE TRIBUNE and on sale at THE TRIBUNE public service office at 1 South Dearborn street. It is a large scale map showing all the lakes near Chicago. Look for the following fishing holes which we suggest for week-end trips. Pistakee lake [you might get a pickerel here], also Petite, Marie, Bangs, Grass, and Loon lakes. Across the line in Wisconsin you might take a whirl at Camp lake and Lake Geneva. A little later you should be able to get some nice small mouth bass from Lake Geneva if you will hire a guide who knows the fishing spots. It goes without saying that practically all of the lakes within driving distance of Chicago will be well populated with fishermen over a week-end.

TRIBUNE'S MODEL AIRPLANE MEET OPENS SATURDAY

More than 150 boys will compete in the scale model commercial duration event, the opening competition of the All Chicago Model Airplane tournament which is being sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, at Soldiers' field Saturday afternoon. The flights will be started at 2 o'clock.

The second and third events will be held May 26 and 27.

Yankees Trim Tigers, 7-5, as Ruth Hits No. 9

New York, May 14.—(AP)—Babe Ruth's ninth home run of the season was a purely decorative adjunct as the Yankees trimmed the Tigers for the third consecutive afternoon. The score was 7 to 5, Ruth's homer representing the seventh run.

As in yesterday's victory, the Yankees started off with a rush. Sullivan was knocked out in the first inning after he walked three men and permitted Meusel to double and Lazzeri to triple. Vangilder did well through the rest of the game. George Pipgras won his sixth straight game of the season. Score:

DIAMOND T

HANDSOMEST TRUCK IN AMERICA

It will last you longer ...and cost you less

Your Diamond T SIX will last you longer because vibration, the wrecker of older type trucks, has been practically "ironed out" of these smooth, powerful Sixes.

No load or speed within reason will ever push them to the point where easy ability stops and abuse begins. There's always extra power in reserve—plenty of it.

Your Diamond T Six will cost you less to run, because you'll get more miles per day—more miles between routine service attentions—more miles in the full life of the truck.

One-ton at $1095 and 2-ton at $1650, each is a TRUCK, without compromise—built by truck builders.

Each has the 4-wheel hydraulic brakes that today's fast, crowded traffic requires. Thus heavy loads are controlled safely at high speeds, and costly brake maintenance cut to the vanishing point.

They're swifter in traffic, surer in service, easier on the driver. There'll be fewer of your delivery promises broken—fewer trains missed—less overtime wages to pay.

Let us give you the full story about these good-looking, good-performing trucks, as well as the famous Diamond T line of heavy duty haulage units. Let us explain a system of servive facilities that assures Diamond T owners in most localities continuous operation at nominal service cost.

Whether you operate one truck or a fleet, there's big enough sure saving to make it mighty well worth while.

DORVAL EXPECTS QUICK TRIUMPH OVER VON PORAT

Heavyweights Meet at Coliseum Tonight.

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Otto Von Porat of Norway and Jack Dorval of Emporia, Pa., heavyweights with a punch, will top the card of Promoter James Mullen's fights at the Coliseum tonight. The first bout will go on at 8:15 o'clock.

OTTO VON PORAT.

Jack Kearns, who developed Dorval, arrived in Chicago yesterday. Kearns started to shout the praises of Dorval, asserting Jack will win if he gets past the first round.

He believes Dorval will be a difficult target to hit. Kearns claims that Jack can box better than any heavyweight in the game, not excepting Gene Tunney, the champion. Old timers who have seen Dorval in the gymnasium say Jack resembles James J. Corbett in many respects.

Dorval is a stiff right hand puncher. He can lead and counter. He is a clever defensive fighter, and Von Porat may experience trouble reaching his jaw with a right hand blow. Jack has all the natural advantages. He is heavier, taller, and has the longer reach.

Von Porat and his admirers are confident Dorval will go the way of Otto's other opponents. The Norwegian, however, has more respect for the Pennsylvanian than any fighter he has faced. Otto's plan of battle will be to force the issue from the first tap of the bell.

Both fighters engaged in light gymnasium workouts yesterday, but neither did any boxing. Dorval will weigh about 205 pounds and Von Porat around 190 pounds.

Tony Stabenau, the Buffalo heavyweight who stopped Jeff Carroll of Biloxi, Miss., at the last Coliseum show, and Frankie Simms of Cleveland, will be the principals in the six round semi-windup.

Mike Mandell of St. Paul and Paul Swiderski of New York will be the principals in one of the opening six rounders. This fight rates to be one of the best on the card. Oscar Battiste of Chicago and Raymond Morris of Champaign, Ill., heavyweights, will clash in another six round affair. Morgan Gardner and Jack Raymond, products of the local amateur ranks, will meet in the four round opener at 175 pounds. The six rounder between Johnny Kreiger of New York and Jimmy Mahoney of Chicago will follow the windup which will be staged as close to 10 o'clock as possible.

Better Golf

by JOCK HUTCHISON.

ARTICLE XX.

PLAYING a chip shot with a spade, mashie niblick, or midiron is merely a matter of conditions. If you're some yards from the edge of the green and the hole has been cut near the edge, more pitch and less run is needed. Or if you're playing a ball rather deeply buried in the grass, you need to get it up quickly without danger of overrunning.

For either of these shots you should use a club with more loft than a mashie, either the spade or mashie niblick. Of course, the spade will give you more pitch and less run than a mashie and a mashie niblick still more "carry" and less run. There are times when a trap lies between you and the green when even a niblick can be used for a very short shot.

Both the spade and mashie niblick are played like the mashie, with the weight on the left foot, little breaking of the wrist, no footwork and very little knee and hip action. In using little wrist, be careful to keep the swing crisp and not make of it a sort of pushing the ball.

Using the midiron for a chip shot is rather different from any of the other clubs. It is more of a runup shot and keeps the ball low. It is valuable when the way to the green is open and smooth and more especially when there is a wind which might blow the shot off line. Usually it is a longer shot than those with a more lofted club, for near the green it is often advisable to use a putter to run the ball up rather than a midiron.

The length of the swing for a chip shot, of course, depends on how far the ball must travel. Naturally, the greater distance it must go the longer the back swing and the additional follow through. But even on the longest of shots that can properly be called chips, the rule of little wrist and little body turn holds good.

Wallace Loses Bout; Girl Ties Up His Purse

Cleveland, O., May 14.—(AP)—Tommy Jones, Atlanta lightweight, beat Billy Wallace of Cleveland to a referee's decision in a 12 round bout tonight.

Members of the boxing commission were served at the hall with papers in an attachmen suit filed by Miss May Payton, 19, of Cleveland to enjoin Wallace's share of the receipts. Miss Payton is the girl who demanded $50,000 of Billy in a breach of promise action last fall.

Entries Close Tomorrow for Big Ten Meet

Entries for the Western conference track and field championships to be held at Dyche stadium, Northwestern university, May 25 and 26, close tomorrow. A record number of athletes is anticipated, judging from the entry blanks already received by Director K. L. Wilson. Coach Harry Gill is sending 38 of his Illini athletes to participate. More than 300, representing ten schools, will take part in the games.

Plans are being made to make the meet one of the most successful in the history of the games. The meet has not been held at Northwestern since 1916, and the last time in this vicinity was at Stagg field in 1924. Considerable prestige is added to the games this year since first and second place winners qualify for the Olympic tryouts at Harvard in July.

Director Wilson pointed out yesterday that a large turnout of track fans for the coming meet will go far toward boosting the sport in this vicinity and will guarantee the return of the Big Ten and national intercollegiate meets in the future.

New York, May 14.—The stock market advanced spiritedly today, the only setback being profit taking in some of the favorites. Airplane stocks again furnished the excitement and copper and specialty stocks were singled out for special attention. There was a long list of gains of from one to 12 points.

For a time the oils showed moderate improvement, particularly in the Standard Oil issues. There was no important news from trade centers, but the feeling was better. Stock exchange money rates continued at 5½ per cent, which is less than last Tuesday's rate, but still the highest reached in this week since 1921. Trading was on a large scale, the sales nearing the 4,500,000 mark. At times the ticker was 45 minutes behind.

High Priced Shares Hit.

Such stocks as General Motors, which gained fractionally; United States Steel, which lost more than a point; Radio corporation and American Can bore the brunt of the selling. Heavy accumulation was under way in a group of issues that included American Smelting, up 7 points; Anaconda, 2⅝; Kennecott Copper, 3½; Greene Cananea, 8¼; Chrysler, 3½, and American International, up 7 points.

Curtiss Aero had a net advance of 12½ points and Wright Aero closed up 7 points. The stocks most conspicuous in the last hour were Corn Products, which gained 1½ points; Chrysler, Hupp Motors, and Texas corporation. The other motor stocks were strong. Graham Paige was up almost one point, Hudson Motors was up 2 points. Mack Trucks finished behind a plus sign and Studebaker was well bought. The special buying that came into Chandler Cleveland issues again was in evidence.

Some Weak Spots Noted.

There were one or two weak spots, Collins and Aikman opening down 7 points, reflecting the passing of the dividend. It later recovered part of its loss, but closed down 6⅛ points. The preferred shares also were off more than one point. United States Cast Iron Pipe had a net loss of 1⅛ points. Rubber stocks were heavy, but United States Rubber succeeded in proving the exception and closed the day up one point.

In the railroad list the buying was not so active, but the shares of the northwestern roads did well. Great Northern preferred sold higher than at any time since the $7 dividend was reduced to the present $5 rate. Buying was notable in Western Maryland and a few other merger stocks. Southern Pacific was well supported all day and closed with a net advance of ½ point. Union Pacific declined a point.

BENDIX A ASSUMES LEAD OF ADVANCES IN CHICAGO MARKET

Chicago stock trading slowed up a bit yesterday although total sales continued above the 100,000 share mark. Most of the active issues were higher with net gains ranging as high as 5 points. This, however, was attributed to the squeezing of shorts who last week conducted a raid on certain of the more recently popular shares.

Bendix "A" achieved the 5 point advance, closing at 120. Noblitt-Sparks was 4½ higher to 41½, and Galesburg-Coulter Disc climbed 4 points to 75 in further reflection of good earnings expectations. Gains of from one to 3½ points were registered by Gossard Standard Dredging, Decker & Cohn, Lion Oil, Swift, Morgan Lithograph Monighan, Northwest Engineering, Borg & Beck, McQuay-Norris, Zenith Radio, Grigsby-Grunow, and Marvel Carburetor.

Warner Gearg Chickasha Oil, Swift International and Bastian-Blessing sold fractionally higher.

To simplify merger deals the Bastian-Blessing company is considering converting the outstanding preferred stock into common stock on a basis of about 2½ shares of common for each share of preferred. This could be done without increasing the authorized common capitalization. The company has 107,500 shares of authorized common stock, of which 82,500 shares are outstanding. The preferred stock outstanding amounted to 10,000 shares of $7 cumulative convertible shares.

All-American Radio lost a point and Pennsylvania Gas & Electric and Club Aluminum were down fractionally while on small sales Great Lakes Dredge lost 6 points, Keystone Steel eased 2¼ and Oil-O-Matic was off a point. Gains of 1 to 2 points were made by Kalamazoo Stove, Beatrice Creamery, Central and Southwest Utilities, Yates Machine, Public Service no par, and Auburn Automobile.

Rights issued to all Middle West Utilities company stockholders as of March 2 to subscribe to common stock at $110 per share expire at the close of business today.

Detroit & Canada Tunnel Company
First Mortgage (Closed Issue) 6% Sinking Fund Gold Bonds
Due May 1, 1953
Price 100 and Interest, Yielding 6%

The Company will agree to pay interest without deduction for Federal Income Tax up to 2% and to refund the California personal property tax up to 4 mills and the Minnesota personal property tax up to 5 mills upon application made as prescribed in the Indenture. Bonds will be free from present personal property taxes in Michigan.

The following information is taken from official sources:

The Company (a Michigan Corporation) will build a vehicular tunnel, about one mile long, under the Detroit River which will provide a direct highway connecting the heart of Detroit's business and shopping district with that of Windsor, Ontario.

The Company, directly or through a wholly owned Canadian subsidiary, will own and operate the entire tunnel development including the down-town real estate in both cities to be used for terminal facilities. A substantial portion of the real estate will be available for office, hotel and other commercial buildings. The Company or a subsidiary will operate a bus service through the tunnel for the large number of foot passengers now being carried largely by ferry between Detroit and Canada daily.

These $8,500,000 Bonds (closed issue) will, in opinion of counsel, be a direct obligation of the Company and will be secured by closed first mortgages on all of the real estate, terminal buildings, tunnel sections and franchises of the Company and its Canadian subsidiary. Excluding all costs of financing and the cash provided for working capital the Detroit and Canada Tunnel upon completion will represent cash expenditures, including interest during construction, in an amount more than twice this bond issue. Engineers have estimated the value of the tunnel completed and in operation at $23,000,000. These Bonds will be followed by $8,500,000 20-Year 6½% Convertible Sinking Fund Debentures, and by 3,100,000 shares of no par Common Stock, all to be presently issued with the exception of 850,000 shares of Common Stock reserved for conversion of Debentures.

Engineers' lowest estimate of earnings for the first year of operation of the tunnel indicates total net income (after allowance for all local taxes and including estimated miscellaneous earnings of $185,000) of $1,666,000, or more than 3¼ times the maximum annual interest requirements of $510,000 on this issue of Bonds. Corresponding earnings for the fifth year of operation are estimated at $2,402,000, or nearly 4¾ times the maximum annual interest requirements on these Bonds and for the tenth year at $3,078,000, or more than 6 times such requirements.

The Indenture will provide for semi-annual sinking fund payments of increasing amounts commencing September 1, 1932 and estimated as sufficient to retire the entire issue at or prior to maturity.

We recommend these bonds for investment and shall be pleased to send a circular describing the issue in detail.

RAIL FINANCING TURNING WEST, LEECH IS TOLD

BY HARPER LEECH.

Every student of Chicago and its commercial and industrial evolution is sooner or later struck by the anomaly or anachronism of eastern railway control. Here is the greatest railway city in the world—a city which in past and present is more closely geared to railway transport than any other—the central city of the greatest railway country in the world, a country the economic evolution of which must largely be interpreted in terms of railroad history.

But the city itself has a minor voice in the direction of most of these great agencies of transport.

However, it's nothing to get excited about. It is a condition which has arisen from the play of natural laws, just as surely as the sand dunes to the south and the terraced terrain upon which the town is built derive from the operation of geophysical laws operating with ice, water, earth, rock, wind, and sunshine. And like our geological heritage it is nothing permanent, and the rate of its possible change may be swift as the rate of physical change has been slow.

I asked Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National, the other day for facts on railway finance. He has the continental viewpoint, and speaks the language of the Mississippi valley. He says:

"Railway financing was the first branch of investment banking to reach great development in America, and railway financing is today the citadel of eastern finance. As the railroads were financed first in or through New York, by eastern or foreign capital, their control was lodged there and remains there to a far greater extent than that of industrials, although there are many midwestern industrial plants, which were originally financed in New York and continue to go to Wall street for money because of habit, old associations and the various conveniences which arise from a long established financial connection.

"But there will be more and more midwestern railway financing — especially if competitive bidding for railway issues continues to displace the older relations of great eastern houses and their railroad clients. Western bankers now bid actively for equipment issues, where bidding is competitive."

But how fast and how far the interstate commerce commission will proceed in altering the older relations of the railways and investment bankers remains to be seen. There are two sides to the question, he points out, and as to issues other than equipment securities there are many reasons for the continuance of the older and more complicated relations of banker and client.

Bringing to our customers
INVESTMENT TRUST opportunities

Realizing the opportunities for investors in the right type of well managed investment trusts, Mitchell, Hutchins has recently completed an investigation of the available forms of such investment.

SOUND DIVERSIFICATION FOR LARGE and SMALL INVESTORS

As a result, this firm will in the near future announce the offerings of a conservative investment trust of the general management type, organized along the lines of the oldest and most successful English investment trusts.

The sole business of the company whose offerings we will announce is to invest and reinvest its capital in sound, widely diversified securities. Each share of the company's stock represents to the shareholder the investment in not one, but in a large number of securities—with the resultant safety which wide diversification provides.

It is our belief that investment trusts of the management rather than the fixed type afford the greater security to the investor. In the company whose shares we will offer the shareholder benefits by the constant and authoritative supervision maintained over the securities in the company's portfolio by the Investment Committee and the Board of Directors, men of long and wide experience in affairs of business and finance. Acting upon their combined judgment and the data furnished by continuous analysis and research, the Investment Committee makes changes in the list of holdings whenever such changes are to the advantage of the shareholders.

Those wishing more detailed information are invited to consult with our officers and representatives.

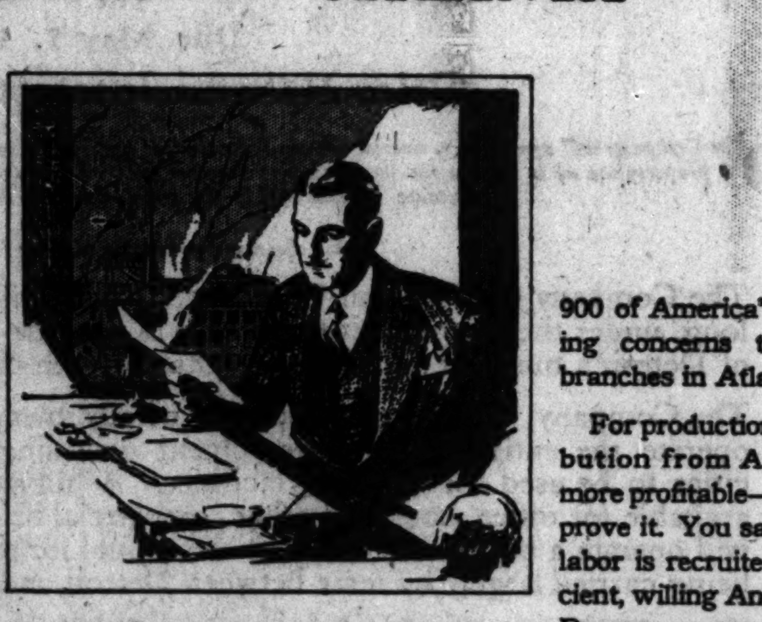
LET YOUR FIGURES BE THE PROOF
-you will make money with a branch in - - - ATLANTA



America's Fastest Growing Market

In the past decade the purchasing power of the Southern people doubled, then trebled. Agriculture progressed, diversified. Industry came from behind, passed agriculture—two to one. And the people of the South, with money to spend, have learned new wants and are gratifying them.

YOU have a list of the cost-factors in your business. Management . . . Production . . . Distribution. You break each down into its component items.

Send us the list of items—without your figures. Tell us what you make, what grades you make it in, and approximately what quantities. Give us enough facts about your distribution plan for an intelligent survey.

Without charge or obligation, we will send you a report itemizing production costs; labor, power, raw material, building construction and so on, in the Atlanta Industrial Area. We will report on the market for your type of goods in the area to which Atlanta is Distribution City.

Alongside our figures will be blank spaces, where you can insert your own figures. When you have done that, subtract our total from yours—and see how much you'll save per unit by establishing a branch factory in Atlanta.

Do the same with the distribution figures. And the management figures. And you'll come to the same conclusions that have brought more than 900 of America's outstanding concerns to establish branches in Atlanta.

For production and distribution from Atlanta are more profitable—and we can prove it. You save because labor is recruited from efficient, willing Anglo-Saxons. Because raw materials are close by, plentiful and cheap. Because taxes are low. Because power rates compare with the lowest in the country. Because your buildings cost 20% to 35% less than in other sections. Because these and other factors reduce overhead, permit better profit margins, improve your competitive situation tremendously.

The Atlanta Industrial Bureau will make a thorough, confidential survey especially for you at your request. Under no circumstances will any hint of your plans or your interest be permitted to "leak." In the past two years more than three hundred concerns have chosen Atlanta because their independent investigations showed that Industrial Bureau facts are sound, conservative and unbiased,—that Atlanta does offer greater profit to business.

GRAINS DECLINE TO RECENT LOWS ON LIQUIDATION

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Lowest prices on grains on the present downturn were made as the result of further liquidation, and while there was a fair rally from the inside figures, due to short covering, the finish was at net losses of ⅛@1⅝c on wheat, 2⅝@2⅞c on corn, 1⅝@3½c on oats, and 2¼@2⅞c on rye.

Favorable weather conditions over the winter and spring wheat regions, with rains over the greater part of the area, with the forecast for showers over the entire belt, had considerable influence on sentiment and led to selling and the decline. Under $1.50 for July there was aggressive short covering, and also some change in sentiment, as prices have declined 21¼c from the recent high on the July and 23½c on the May, and a rally was regarded as somewhat overdue.

Wheat Visible Decreases.

Houses with northwestern and southwestern connections were good sellers of wheat at times. Liverpool wheat closed 1⅞@2⅝d lower, with July there around 8⅝c over Chicago at the time it closed, compared with a discount of over 2c recently. May showed the most decline during the day, although it is expected that liberal shipments will be made from local stocks this week.

Domestic visible supply decreased 2,207,000 bu for the week, and is 57,269,000 bu, against 31,751,000 bu last year. Export demand at the seaboard was slow, with sales of 400,000 bu in all positions. Winnipeg was ½@3⅝c lower, with July leading the decline.

Long July corn came out freely, and while short covering and buying against bids was in evidence, the undertone was heavy from the start and at the inside July showed 13¼c under the recent high. Planting continues to make rapid progress, and is expected to be completed much earlier than last year. Kansas City sold 100,000 bu or more cash corn to come here. Visible supply decreased 188,000 bu for the week, and is 21,127,000 bu, against 33,357,000 bu last year.

Oats Have Sharp Decline.

Stop loss orders were uncovered in oats, and while cash interests took the May early, but later scattered longs became good sellers and found support lacking, and the decline was easily attained. Crop reports attracted little attention. Visible supply decreased 1,292,000 bu for the week, and is 8,627,000 bu, against 24,040,000 bu last year. Liquidation was on in rye in sympathy with other grains, and with a lack of foreign demand prices broke sharply, closing at the bottom.

HOGS AND LARD LOWER

A decline of 10@20c in hog values, with 130,700 at western points, combined with the weakness and break in corn, led to fair selling of lard by commission houses and, despite buying by packing interests, prices declined and closed at net losses of 12½@15c. Liverpool was weak and 6@9d lower. Bellies were 10@12½ lower and ribs unchanged to 12½c lower.

Exports of lard for the week were 11,400,000 lbs, and bacon, 3,450,000 lbs. Last year lard exports were 7,599,000 lbs, and bacon, 4,849,000 lbs. Prices follow:

DETROIT, city of motors and world famed industries, is America's fourth market — a stupendous field of 1,500,000 people accustomed to high wages and liberal expenditure. It is a market large enough to challenge the imagination of every sales manager; productive enough to yield its cultivators a rich reward. Yet this market may be covered by one medium—The Detroit News, for 55 years the home newspaper—so adequately as to obviate the need for another medium. In terms of cost per unit of sales or homes reached, the Detroit field and The Detroit News offers the exceptional combination to advertisers.

That is why The Detroit News has for more than a decade been among the first three newspapers in America in advertising lineage.

In 1926 it published the greatest volume of advertising carried before or since by any newspaper. And in 1927 The Detroit News was second only to one other newspaper, a medium published in a city of more than three million with a circulation in the morning and Sunday field widely distributed over a large area.

Today Detroit is experiencing a revival of its phenomenal industrial growth. The value of its building operations is third in America; its employment is higher for this season of the year than it has been for six years. It is a market teeming with possibilities and one accessible to advertisers through The Detroit News with remarkable ease and economy, for this newspaper by actual survey reaches four out of every five Detroit homes taking any English newspaper.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, May 14.—(AP)—Cotton goods are being sold in moderate quantities by road salesmen. Prices here were somewhat unsettled in the gray goods division by lower cotton markets. Burlaps opened quiet, with prices barely steady. There was good demand for fine silk velvets for fall in light weights. More inquiry was reported for specialties in men's and women's wear fabrics for fall. Silk waste was advanced sharply in Japanese markets.

LEASES SOUTH WABASH AVENUE LOT 99 YEARS

BY AL CHASE.

The 316-318 South Wabash Avenue Building corporation, of which Max A. Goldberg is president and George F. Sivore is secretary, yesterday leased the property at 316-18 South Wabash for ninety-nine years from May 1, 1928, from Edwin L. Brand Jr. and Ella Belle Brand Atwell. The 25x171 lot is improved with a five story building built about ten years ago.

The lease calls for an annual rental of $8,500 for the first two years, $9,000 the next two, $9,500 the next two, then $12,500 for ten, $13,000 for five, $13,500 for five, $14,000 for five, $14,500 for five, and $15,000 yearly for the balance of the term, sixty-three years. West & Eckhart and Mills & Howe were attorneys. The property is just forty feet south of the Kimball building.

Michigan Avenue Lease.

Nasib Bahout, dealer in linens, laces, and novelties, now at 120 South Michigan avenue, has leased the store at 12 North Michigan, in the Woolworth building, now being remodeled, for a term of years at a guaranteed annual rental of $16,000, which is equivalent to $21 per square foot, with an additional 10 per cent on all gross sales in excess of $110,000. The lessor is the F. W. Woolworth company. The Farnham-Kuhn company represented all parties.

In reporting the details of the proposed Ampico building at 234 South Wabash avenue, recently, it was incorrectly stated that Francis B. Keene assigned the leasehold to the 234 South Wabash Building corporation. George Simons of Detroit leased the property from Mr. Keene and then assigned the leasehold to the corporation. Frederick Brammer, who has represented the owner of this property for forty years, negotiated the lease.

Banker Buys Loop Fee.

John F. Hagey, vice president of the First National bank, has acquired from Sara Louis Herrick and Anna Herrick de Teresa the property at 183-85 West Madison street, just east of Wells, for an indicated $180,000. The land fronts 25 feet, with a depth of 100 feet, and is improved with an old three story building. Mr. Hagey declined to make any comment regarding his purchase, but it is understood he acquired it for investment.

Title to sixty acres in Oak Lawn, Worth township, has been transferred by the Reliance Bank and Trust company, trustee, to Denis F. McDonald. The property is bounded by 100th street on the north, 103d street on the south, 42d avenue on the east, and 44th avenue on the west. It is stated the property will be put on the market immediately as a subdivision. M. A. Barancik was attorney. Wolfe & Lavin were brokers.

LESS COTTON USED

Consumption of cotton in the United States in April was 526,158 bales, compared with 581,318 bales in March and 618,279 bales in April last year. For the season to April 30, the aggregate was 5,305,871 bales, against 5,440,031 for the same time last year.

Stocks of cotton, exclusive of linters, on April 30 in consumers' hands were 1,507,992 bales, compared with 1,593,486 March 1 and 1,891,137 last year.

Consumption figures were less than expected and with rains over Texas and Oklahoma and lower cables there was selling pressure a good part of yesterday and at the close American markets were 24 to 43 points net lower on the active futures. Spots lost 30 points, with New York 20.55c, New Orleans 20.60c, and Houston 20.70c. Liverpool closed was weak and sharply lower. Prices follow:

Here is a Way to Find Out the Best Form of Investment for You

Constant trading in and out of the market on tips, rumors and gossip, is risky and piles up charges against you; increases the possibility of loss. But the right policy once formed and adhered to steadily can build up profits with almost amazing speed.

We believe that the best results from investment, the better than average returns that will increase your capital with such amazing speed, can be secured only through getting sound, general advices and adapting them to your own individual needs. A man earning $5000 a year with a total capital of $10,000 obviously should buy different stocks, place different percentages of his money in "Business Men's" Investments, and in Bonds than should his neighbor who has a $15,000 salary and $100,000 capital.

To the right of this column is a description of the subjects covered in our latest investment bulletins, which we will send you free. Remember while you are reading these bulletins that the statements made in them are based on a method worked out nearly a quarter century ago, with a record ever since of being profitably accurate. For example, some 138 stocks were recommended during the year 1927. The total net gain thus far is 3,088¾ points. Similarly, official and published figures of recommendations for the year 1926 showed substantial gains. These results are typical of Brookmire Service. The complete list will be sent on request.

Such a Service with such a record of accuracy certainly should enable you to increase substantially your income from investments. You can secure now without charge current bulletins that tell what to do in securities. The coupon is for your convenience. Mail it today.

What should your policy be now

Do you think stocks will go up to new high levels or is belief in a bear market influencing you to sell now? Motors—utilities—bank stocks—rails? Which offer the best possibilities—or should you leave them all alone now? What do you plan to do?

The position of the stock market now and its probable trend; the situation in bonds and whether long or short maturities are best are all discussed in our latest bulletins. These bulletins are specific, concrete and detailed. They give definite advice on what policy is best now. Copies free. Mail the coupon.

Business American Gas and Power Company will own all of the common stock, except Directors' qualifying shares, of Minneapolis Gas Light Company, Jacksonville Gas Company, St. Augustine Gas and Electric Light Company, Savannah Gas Company, and Bangor Gas-Light Company. These subsidiary companies supply the respective cities with manufactured gas and serve in all an aggregate population estimated to exceed 740,000. The properties have been long established and the cities are old and important centres. Situated in separate sections of the country the localities served provide a wide diversity as to character of population and type of industry and are believed to possess excellent possibilities for growth and development.

Purpose of Issue The proceeds from the sale of these Secured Gold Debentures and of 40,000 shares of First Preferred Stock, $6 Series, already underwritten, will reimburse the Company in part for the cost of its holdings.

The Blood and Bone

and sinew of industry is property. Man, its exploiter, is the mind. But a mind is futile when it does not know the strength and the life of the body. American Appraisal Service enables the mind to have ever before it the truth as to the "body" of industry.

A service
that is not for sale

Interstate Metallurgical Service is not for sale—But it is freely at the call of any manufacturer who is in trouble with steel.

Or, for that matter, any manufacturer who sees possible improvements in his product which may seem impossible at the moment because those parts would become too bulky, or too strained and stressed, if he changed their size or design.

To such manufacturers, Interstate Metallurgical Service is freely offered.

And because these Interstate experts have lived their work and have had so much experience in solving problems in steel, their services are extremely worth while to any manufacturer who cares to have them work with him.

Interstate Metallurgical Service is absolutely free—Write us today if you are interested.

DAY FILLED WITH CHEERING NEWS FOR OIL INDUSTRY

BY O. A. MATHER.

Leaders in the oil industry took heart yesterday as the result of several bits of cheerful news. There was a prediction of better time ahead by Henry M. Dawes, president of the Pure Oil company. In addition, gasoline prices were firmer in several districts, a reduction in surplus stocks was reported and there were rumors that the weekly report on crude oil production for last week, which will be issued today, will show a sharp decrease.

"Notwithstanding the last year has been the most difficult in the history of the industry and that physical conditions have not materially changed for the better," Mr. Dawes says in his annual report, "it seems to be the general feeling that the outlook is more favorable than it has been for some months.

Rigid Control Undesirable.

"It is not possible and probably is not desirable, both for economic and legal reasons, that such a great industry should be rigidly controlled. Without running counter, however, to traditional policy, much has been accomplished in the year in intelligent coöperative planning and the helpful assistance of both state and national governments has been secured to the end of assuring more stable conditions.

"This applies to the marketing of petroleum products, as well as to the production, and the conditions of overbuilding and destructive competition, have been greatly mitigated. Along with the overproduction has developed an increased demand, so that the indications seem to be that the industry will be able to operate on a more stable and reasonable basis in the next year than was possible in 1927."

Earns 96c a Share.

Gross earnings were $104,072,294, compared with $141,298,985 in the preceding year. The net income totaled $4,836,529 after all charges, including depreciation, depletion, and federal taxes, equal after preferred dividends to 96c a share on the 3,083,370 shares of $25 par common stock outstanding. This compares with $10,892,844, or $3 a share, earned on the common stock after preferred dividends in the preceding year. Surplus on March 31, 1928, was $59,407,747, compared with $62,000,453.

The copper mining industry also produced cheerful news. The price of the red metal was advanced from 14¼ to 14⅝c a pound and predictions were made of still higher prices. Both the domestic and foreign demand continued heavy. The American Brass company advanced prices of copper wire and cables an eighth of a cent a pound.

Record Motor Sales.

The General Motors corporation reported last night that retail sales by dealers to consumers last month set a new monthly record at 209,367 cars, which also is an increase of 16.2 per cent over April last year. The previous high record was 183,706 cars sold in March, this year. Sales to dealers last month were 197,597 cars, a gain of 16.9 per cent over a year ago.

The Congress Cigar company declared the usual extra dividend of 25 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of $1 on the common stock. The L. A. Young Spring and Wire corporation declared an extra dividend of 25 cents in addition to the regular quarterly payment of 50 cents on its common stock.

Wrigley Co. Loses Suit for Refund of U. S. Taxes

Washington, D. C., May 14.—(AP)—The William Wrigley Jr. company, under a decision today by the Supreme court, in paying the L. P. Larson Jr company profits it made on its "Doublemint" chewing gum from 1914 to 1918 will be prohibited from deducting income and excess profits taxes it paid the federal government.

Elmer Crosses Rio Grande by Radio's Bridge

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The city Mexican-Spanish music program given on the New York family party hour through W-G-N on March 26 made a hit with its radio audience. So another program devoted exclusively to that type of music was given last evening, 8:30 to 9:30. In addition to a symphonic orchestra, a novelty orchestra and a symphony band, there were, as soloists, Dolores Cassinelli, dramatic soprano, and George Cehanovsky, a Metropolitan baritone.

It was an important radio concert, full of action. It would have made a fine concert hall program.

The orchestral selections abounded in dances instantly recognizable as of Spanish origin, with rhythms and time signatures too intricate for my ear to catch and designate, and with the peculiarly Spanish tonal color that seemingly defies description.

Even the song material of that national origin seems to have a mysterious root. From theater attendance we recognize the dramatic content, but it is an exotic note, not at all a part of American life, thought or feeling. I must mention one song sung by Dolores Cassinelli, "The Daughter of the Jailor" [composer not given], for it was a brilliant, captivating song that any talented soprano could sing with telling effect.

There were a few syncopated dance selections familiar to dance devotees. These were the agitated, restless, blood stirring. Music has its psychological effect and this music was of high emotional voltage, something to ponder over and to talk about.

Henry Selinger's violin recital from W-G-N, 9:30 to 10, was made up of several familiar short works, and played with the finesse that characterizes all of this artist's per solo performances. It is well to remember that a great artist may play an entire program of the most familiar compositions, yet diffuse a touch of artistry about them that refreshens them, making them sound like new.

INVENTORY SHOWS MRS. E. M. GENIUS' $3,000,000 ESTATE

FARM BILL LACKS 10 VOTES NEEDED TO OFFSET VETO

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—The McNary-Haugen farm relief bill moved a step nearer the White House today when the house by a vote of 205 to 117 approved the conference report.

The senate will take similar action within the next day or two and the bill will then be sent to President Coolidge, who is understood already to be preparing a veto message.

The vote in the house again demonstrated the unlikelihood that the bill could be passed over the President's veto. Sponsors of the bill insisted upon the roll call in order to ascertain whether any greater strength could be developed than was apparent at the time of the roll call on its passage.

On the basis of those voting today ten more affirmative votes would have been necessary in order to obtain the two-thirds required to pass a bill over the President's veto.

SINCLAIR LEWIS WED WITH SIMPLE RITES IN LONDON

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 14.—In a simple fifteen minute ceremony, at which only about thirty intimate friends were present, Sinclair Lewis, the novelist, and Dorothy Thompson, newspaper woman and daughter of a minister, were married today in the quiet little Savoy chapel, away from the roaring traffic of the Strand. Jonathan Cape, Mr. Sinclair's English publisher, acted as best man and Mrs. Cape officiated as bridesmaid.

Before leaving on a three months' motor trip in northern England, Mr. Lewis said that reports of his projected book on English Babbitts was premature. He will write articles for a newspaper syndicate during his trip, he said, but the book depends on the material.

CLERGY PRESENT $33,105 PURSE TO BISHOP HOBAN

The Rt. Rev. Edward Francis Hoban, who today becomes bishop of Rockford, was fêted last night by his fellow clergy of the archdiocese of Chicago, in which he has been chancellor for twenty years and auxiliary bishop for five years. The priests presented him with a purse of $33,105.

"I have lost my auxiliary; they have taken away my right arm," Cardinal Mundelein said, repeating his message to the Pope when word came that Bishop Hoban was appointed to the see of Rockford.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. F. A. Purcell, rector of Quigley Preparatory seminary, was toastmaster, and in his opening remarks he said Cardinal Mundelein and Bishop Hoban would live in religious history for their work in education for the laity and ecclesiastical training for the clergy.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Thomas P. Bona told of Bishop Hoban's work as spiritual director of the Holy Name society, an organization of 150,000 Catholic men who are monthly communicants. Also, through the Big Brother movement, 40,000 boys who had been arrested during the last ten years were reclaimed and thereby perhaps 40,000 souls were saved through the Holy Name society. He told of Bishop Hoban's efforts in endeavoring to build a home for boys who need care, and he said that work would be carried on.

Bishop Hoban gave thanks to all those who had coöperated with him during his years in the chancellery office and during his episcopacy. The money given him would be used for charity, he said.

A special train over the I. C. railroad will take him to Rockford today, escorted by 200 priests and members of the Knights of Columbus, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, Holy Name society, and the Catholic Order of Forresters.

MUNICIPAL COURT WILL CLOSE FOR NEWCOMER RITES

All branches of the Municipal court will be closed at noon today in memory of Judge John Rush Newcomer, for whom funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. at the Olivet M. E. church, Adams and Keeler avenue. Burial will be at Oak Ridge cemetery.

Fellow judges will attend the services in a body, as well as representatives from the Chicago Bar association, the city council and various other civic organizations. Judge Newcomer's service of twenty-two years on the Municipal court bench is surpassed only by Chief Justice Harry Olson.

STARVING TO DEATH

Many Persons Get No Nourishment From Food

Thousands of people who are pale, thin, weak and run down are literally starving to death because their system in its weakened condition is unable to take up the nourishment which the food they eat contains. To such people Father John's Medicine is of great value because it has vast food value and the pure wholesome nourishment which it contains is easily taken up by the weakened system and turned into tissue, muscle and flesh.

Street Cars Are Safe

THIS EMBLEM has been awarded to 5,441 trainmen on the Chicago Surface Lines.

It is in recognition of the fact that these men, constituting approximately half of the entire operating force on the system, did not have a single accident during the past fiscal year.

More than 35,000,000 car miles were operated through the busy streets of Chicago by the no-accident motormen without mishap. Although there has been an increase of 50 per cent in the number of automobiles in Chicago since 1923, there were fewer collisions between street cars and motor vehicles last year than five years ago.

In spite of the greater use of the streets, the number of accidents involving street cars last year was 12½ per cent less than in 1926.

Chicago Surface Lines trainmen are the safest operators of vehicles in the city and the safest place in the streets is in street cars.

Three Generations

By WARWICK DEEPING

SYNOPSIS.

Old John Pybus, formerly a bookseller in London and later in Winterbourn, is serving as a porter in an inn at Castle Craven, when his son, Conrad, sees him there. He's been estranged from both his sons since the beginning of the war and they have lost track of him. Conrad hastens to tell his brother, Probyn, that he has seen his father. Probyn's son, Lance Pybus, had believed his grandfather dead, but he looks him up at the Saracen's Head without telling his parents of the meeting. When Lance returns to Cambridge for the last term he invites his grandfather to visit him there.

On leaving Cambridge, Lance takes a small room in London and devotes himself to writing. His father gives him a modest allowance. He still continues to visit his grandfather secretly.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.
DARKNESS.

After dinner they danced in the hall. One of the young Prues had arrived from the local parsonage and Conrad took possession of her and tried to teach her to Charleston. Lance was running the gramophone and watching his uncle's fat legs wobbling. Conrad danced like a jelly. Lady Pybus, too, was trying to Charleston with young Rowbottom.

Pamella Fish had come to sit on the oak settle beside the gramophone cabinet, and she was watching Lance's face. They had got on very well together during dinner. Her rather acid cleverness had appealed to Lance. He would have liked her to have spilled some of her accumulated cleverness over his uncle.

Observing the ditherings of Conrad's fat legs, and observed in turn by Miss Fish, he turned suddenly and met her eyes and the unpleasant wiseness of them.

"Don't you dance this?"

"Sometimes."

Her cold glance fastened upon Conrad Pybus and then passed to Lance's father.

"When a man looks wrong, he is wrong."

"Always?"

"Infallibly. Whereas, when a woman looks wrong, it may only be the fashion."

"I'll remember that," said Lance, "unless you want to copyright it."

"You can use it—with pleasure."

. . . .

Probyn had not been so near to winning his son's confidence as when they found themselves on the terrace on that Sunday morning, after Conrad had driven them from the breakfast table. The Fish woman, dangling a bait, had caught Conrad at the first cast.

He sat there perched on the fence.

"I'm going to look at the new plantation. Care to come?"

"Yes, I'd like to."

"It won't take us half an hour. Conrad talks too much. Always did."

They went down through the gardens and across the park and past the big fish pond, where yellow water flags were in bloom. Probyn had had red, rose, and yellow lilies planted in the pool and he stopped to look for the growth of the young leaves that should be appearing up to spread and float on the still water.

"Ought to be rather good when they are all in full bloom."

The son gave the father's figure one of those quick and considering glances that betray a reaching out towards some unexpected impression. Was it possible that he did not know the real Probyn, and that his father was as much a stranger to him as he was to his father? They walked on up the slope to the beechwoods, and under all that young greenness lay the sheeted blueness of wild hyacinths touched here and there with fingers of light. The elder Pybus paused, his cigar forgotten for the moment.

"By jove," he said. "By jove! Fine, that, isn't it?"

And Lance was moved. He felt more near to his father as to a man walking out on a May morning with all the green of the young year dewy, and fresh, and innocent. If the father could feel this innocence and the beauty of all that sheeted blueness, had they not something in common?

They followed a little winding path ascending through the beechwood, and the greenish light under the trees made the blueness of the flowers more mystical. The air was scented and very still. There was a silence between them as of mutual questionings, and had the elder Pybus renewed himself in that silence and forgotten the ulterior purpose behind the morning's ramble, he would have come very near to knowing the man who was his son.

"How are you getting on, Lance?"

"Not so badly."

"What are you making? Are you making anything?"

There was a kind of closing up of Lance's face. It was as though all those blue flowers withered and the unseen presences withdrew.

"Yes—I am getting stuff placed. Richmond of 'Blair's' is interested. They're big people."

"Good. I've been thinking. Those two years. Nearly up. What about——?"

"I'm going on, pater."

"I see. Nothing like responsibility, your own legs. Supposing you try a year—on your own."

"That's my plan——"

He glanced quickly at his father, who was looking straight ahead and smiling faintly to himself.

"Of course—you've got me to come to, my lad."

"You have given me these two years."

"O, that's all right. If you find—that you can't do——"

"I shall manage——"

The illusion of that nearness had gone. His father's voice—turned to authority through all the years—had that fatal tinge of patronage. Its inflections condescended to youth. It talked down even in its attempted and shrewd kindness; it betrayed that something behind the man. And Lance's head was up. He was seeing the sky through the young green of the foliage, his father's foliage. He was wondering whether there was not something inherent in the reaction of most parents upon most children that rendered real intimacy between them impossible. It was one of those fatal and pathetic disillusionments shared by both fathers and sons, mothers and daughters, the illusion of a beautiful friendship that is rarely realized, because one assumes the possession—and the other refuses to be possessed.

Yet Probyn was blind. He thought that he had that kindly, world-wise [illegible] dangling over his son's head.

"Well—try a year on your own, old lad. You can always come to me."

And the son—in silence—was saying:

"I shall never come to you."

. . . .

Within three miles of Castle Craven there were other beechwoods and other blackbirds that sang in the spring of the year, but to Mary Merris the voice of her brother was the voice of every day.

"Mary, I'm bored."

He could put such varying expression into those few words. Sometimes the cry would be whimsical, sometimes peevish, sometimes the whimpering of a little boy, and always she would answer it with patience, and mostly with compassion, though she was not patient by nature, and when one is overtired compassion may falter.

On that May morning she saw him coming up out of the green glooms to the rail fence that ran east and west under the beech trees. The path was safe and he knew every foot of it, but he did not know that she was up above there looking down at him. He paused by the stile, testing it with his foot as he tested everything, and, throwing a leg over the upper rail, he felt in his pocket for his pipe.

She stood watching her brother. He had not gone on with the filling of his pipe; he smoked too much, and tobacco at a shilling an ounce added to her problems. He sat there perched on the fence and looking as much part of the wood as a man could, and had he been stripped of his clothes he would have resembled nothing so much as a lean, brown faun. Always he had an air of listening intently and a habit of turning his head from side to side. He turned his face towards her at this moment, and she felt the strangeness of being looked at and not seen. His closed, sightless eyes had that effect upon her, and never had she grown quite hardened to their emptiness.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I thought "Glorious Betsy" was going to be Betsy Ross—and was all sot for a drama built around the creation of the American flag. To discover, when I entered the Orpheum theater, the "glorious" one to be none other than Miss Elizabeth Patterson of Baltimore and her romance with Jerome, brother of Napoleon, the sinews of the picture.

It is a perfectly charming romance as screened, and ends much more happily than did the actual love affair. In 1804 Jerome Bonaparte did marry Miss Patterson to his celebrated brother's deep disgust. He did take her to France—where she was forbidden to land. She did bear his son. But the picture turns the relentless Napoleon into a relenting one—which is not the way the real story runs—and sends you away with a smile.

"Glorious Betsy" is full of color, swing, and the suggested fragrance of magnolia blossoms. And just like one is the lissome Dolores, as sweet southern Betsy, who loves her French tutor, little wotting that he is the brother of the great Napoleon. The lady does some mighty good acting, too.

Conrad Nagel is a gay and ardent Jerome. (There's nothing like a bit of lace at the throat to lend enchantment to a male.) Contributory characters are all excellently cast and acted. Sets, scenery and costumes are authentic and fascinating. The tale is an engrossing one.

Again, as in "Tenderloin," the vitaphone is utilized and to better effect. I shuddered when the loud and careful voices of the players shattered the quiet, but I did find the singing of the darkies on the ol' plantation tremendously effective.

Mr. Jannings Is Better Than Story He Tells

Produced by Paramount.
Directed by Mauritz Stiller.
Presented at McVicker's theater.

THE CAST.

Basher Bill	Emil Jannings
Elizabeth	Fay Wray
Annie	Olga Baklanova
Mr. Smith	Ernest W. Johnson
Iron Mike	George Kotsonaros
Crony of Basher Bill	John Gough
Proprietor of Pub	Jack Burdette
Another Crony	Johnnie Morris

This time the picture is of Basher Bill groping in bull-like bewilderment outside the doors of salvation.

This new picture featuring the great Jannings is a good one, but inferior to others you have seen him in. It is just a program movie of average length, but its little story of the big bum who falls for the Salvation Army "moll" and what she's peddling, and who, trusting her blindly, pays for peace with his life, is told simply and with sincerity.

The star, at one as always with his rôle, portrays a big, sinister, jovial, hard-boiled Limehouse gang leader, ready for a fight or a robbery, or whatever else the gang or the loving, vicious blonde he lives with has to offer.

Thus he is till the Salvation Army lassie enters the scene with her tambourine. [Poetry.] As nobody in his right mind ever misses a Jannings picture, there's no need to tell you any more of the story here.

It's a sordid, unpretty thing, with only two or three laughs. Mr. Jannings cracking hard-boiled eggs on his head and eating them by the dozen for breakfast furnishes one. Mr. Jannings acting as nursemaid to the babies in the Salvation Army shelter causes another. That IS a sight!

Fay Wray is rather wooden as the Army maid. Olga Baklanova as the blonde is anything but that. She puts over a whirlwind performance and is in every respect the most impressive of the supporting characters.

"The Street of Sin" boasts an unusual situation or two, and reeks "atmosphere."

Way to Better Food at Less Cost Shown in Chicago Exposition

Bewildered little brides, seasoned housekeepers, and critical husbands elbowed each other last night at the 131st infantry armory, where Chicago's first national food show was opened under the combined auspices of the National Association of Retail Grocers and the Chicago-Cook County Retail Grocers' association.

Hundreds of men and women crowded the wide aisles of the show, tasted the free samples that were eatable, and pocketed those that were not; cast a critical eye over the displays in the rainbow hued booths, and carried off the informative booklets dispensed with a lavish hand by the attendants.

"Buy better food and pay less for it," was one of the enticing slogans that greeted the crowds. It is a simple matter, the merchants propose to demonstrate during the week the show is open, to get better food value for your money if you know what and where to buy. Purchasing staples in larger lots is one of the surest methods. Buying reliable brands that can be kept for indeterminate periods is another.

Foods that are desirable for children, and those that are taboo are demonstrated at the Infant Welfare booth, where mothers by the dozens gathered last night to observe the model meals set forth for their advice, and harmful meals for their warning.

Suggested menus for breakfast, dinner and supper for children of varying ages also are shown, and the desirability of tomato juice for breakfast, as a substitute for orange juice, is especially stressed.

Lectures by authorities on various types of food will be given in a special lecture hall each day during the week. Moving pictures will also be shown, illustrating the lectures.

One of the most attractive exhibits indicates the interest taken by woman in feature articles by TRIBUNE writers, devoted to cooking and serving food, and to other feminine activities.

$100,000 Mark Passed in Tag Day Collections

The happy combination of bright, fair weather and the proximity of Mother's day swelled receipts for the Chicago Federation of Aged and Adult Charities' tag day yesterday, it was reported last night by Mrs. A. H. Brumback, president of the federation. Reports will not be complete until later in the week, but on the basis of early returns, Mrs. Brumback was confident the total would be well over the $100,000 mark.

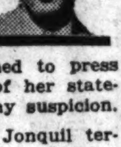
Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Thomas M. Perra, 1353 Argyle road, La Salle, Ill., was awarded $5.

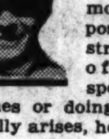
The Question.

Does your wife object when you stay out late at night?

The Answers.

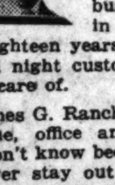


J. D. Porter, 620 Nevin avenue, Sewickley, Pa., salesman—My wife maintains that it is perfectly all right for me to stay out late, and her actions are consistent with her statement. But I have a man's intuition that she does object. I am not inclined to press any occasion for proof of her statement or verification of my suspicion.



Paul T. Klemos, 1716 Jonquil terrace, printer — She doesn't object provided I come home at a reasonable hour. The modern woman is supposed to practice restraint in the matter of questioning her spouse regarding his pastimes or doings; but the question naturally arises, how modern are they?

Burton Leslie, 931 Lafayette parkway, insurance — I haven't a wife but I have a sweetheart who objects to my being out late at night. She doesn't mind it if I am with her, or if it is on business. It is only natural that a woman should expect her intended to mind his leisure hours or spend them with her.



Ernest H. Schippnick, 1225 Carmen avenue, insurance—She doesn't like it and I know it, and for that reason I might say that I am never out a night, or in the day for that matter, except for business reasons. I was in business for myself for eighteen years, during which time I had night customers that I had to take care of.

James G. Ranch, 4224 North Keeler avenue, office analyst—I don't know because I never stay out late. I spend most of my time studying. When I go out we go out together. We have been married eight years, and never had an argument. My wife even helps me with my studies.

Union of Protestant Churches Predicted from Two Pulpits

From two separate pulpits in Chicago yesterday, and from two prominent clergymen, came predictions of the death of denominationalism in this country and the amalgamation of Protestant churches. Dr. Wardle Stafford, one of the leading Wesleyan ministers of England, uttered the sentiment in an address at the Chicago temple. The Rev. W. B. Riley, D. D., of Minneapolis, echoed it in his address to the tenth annual convention of the World Christian Fundamentals association at the North Shore Congregational church.

Dr. Stafford, who for the last three years has been minister to the Metropolitan Union church at Toronto, called attention to the successful union of Protestant churches in Canada, the unifying of the Methodist, Presbyterian, and Congregational congregations.

Thousands of church members who hold that the Bible should be accepted in its entirety as the basis of Christian faith are attending meetings of the fundamentalist group at ten centers throughout the city.

"We fundamentalists believe in the Bible literally," Dr. Riley said. "We take the Scriptures as the final authority in faith and life. We believe man is born in sin, and that because of the original sin of Adam human beings can be redeemed only through baptism.

"We believe in a literal hell and heaven, in the bodily resurrection of the just and the unjust, in the everlasting felicity of the saved and the everlasting conscious suffering of the lost."

THEATER

"A MAN'S MAN":

Comedy, in three acts, by Patrick Kearney; made known in Chicago May 13, 1928, in the Adelphi Theater, with this cast:

Melville Tuttle	Dwight Frye
Edie, his wife	Charlotte Wynters
His mother	Edée Von Bülow
Margery, his sister	Dorothy M. Smith
Charley Groff, his pal	Pat O'Brien
Hazel, Edie's chum	Dorothy Randall
A book-agent	James La Curto
Joe Plant	Kenneth Dana
Mabel Plant	Eleanor Andrus
Herb Brown	Jerry Lynch
Eddie Elkins	Eddie Casey

MR. KEARNEY in this comedy is a good reporter, and a good editor, as well: he has written what he saw, and, having seen more than he needs, has cut, condensed, rearranged, and made over his "story" to meet the requirements of publication in the theater. "A Man's Man," as has been averred here more than once since the Autumn of 1925, is a good play; it is as "American" as anything yet put on the stage by a native writer; the tale is not merely credible: it is actually persuasive; and the writing possesses the quality of veracity—the veracity that makes for a complete illusion. I don't know why it didn't succeed with the New-York populace; for, although it was put on by a non-professional "group," the Stagers, it was put on with professional skill and understanding, and everything, as they say in the business, was done for it—meaning that all or nearly all the proved devices of showmanship were utilized to make the public buy tickets. But, then, there is no good explanation when a good play, made known in right conditions, fails to draw. For example, what explanation is there for the failure in Chicago of "Saturday's Children"? For the comparative failure of "Craig's Wife"? For the disappointing visit of "The Show-Off"? . . .

'Twas Oscar Hammerstein who said that the public cannot be scolded into buying a good play: that is, he said good opera; but the apothegm had (and has) to do with buying tickets. At any rate, there's nothing that I, who thinks the play to be one of the season's three or four best, may do to sell tickets save to say again that it is uncommonly good, and to urge you to see it.

The comedy has to do with three home-comings of Mel Tuttle, a mattoid mite of a fellow who fights off his inborn sense of inferiority by reading fifteen minutes a day in a subscription set of books on how to succeed so that you will be able to dominate other men. He works at bookkeeping for one of those big firms that pay off with slogans, a house-organ, talks on the holy beauty of Service, and pats on the back instead of with money; and he hopes, in intervals of high optimism, soon to be raised to thirty-five dollars a week. Also, he feels that the first step toward his goal would be initiation as an Elk; and he fixes things with Groff, a great fellow, to put him in for a hundred dollars, which he borrows.

Now, Mel is all right in the sight of Edie: being married to him is better than working in the same office, although not so lively; but she, too, is a mattoid, a pin-head, and a goof, and reads nothing but the bilge in the weekly and monthly periodicals devoted to films and their fauna. She kids herself into believing that she looks like Mary Pickford; so, when Groff, Mel's pal, tells her that she does and that he will introduce her to Lasky, Zukor, De Mille, Fairbanks, and Will Hays and thus make starhood certain for her, she hopes so hard it is true that she thinks she believes it, and is unable to refuse anything he asks, including herself, which is what he asks. And Groff laughs at her and Mel, tells them where to detrain, and goes off. Mel and Edie have a hard time of it for an hour or so, and then make it up, saying they'll start fresh and have kids. If a boy, he'll be an Elk; if a girl, she'll be a film-player.

The homecomings are when Mel enters for his wedding-anniversary; when he enters to find out what Groff has done to him; and when he enters after Groff has beaten him wellnigh into insensibility.

And this bitter, cruel, truthful little comedy of life and love and lust "under the L," as the author says, is acted for all or nearly all it is worth by the performers listed above; and it is worth a deal of good acting. It may be that Ernest Truex would be as good as Mr. Frye; and I think of nobody else who might be.

Chicago Is Host to Club Women of State Today

Federation Convention Opens at Stevens.

BY KATE WEBBER.

Gavels polished, vases filled with spring flowers, flags and bunting draped, and dress closets filled with new spring clothes, Chicago club women are all set this morning for the fanfare of speeches which will open the thirty-third annual convention of the Illinois Federation of Women's clubs. All sessions from today until the adjournment on Friday will be held at the Stevens hotel with the exception of two evening meeting tonight and tomorrow night at the Eighth Street theater.

Mrs. Walter W. Seymour, retiring state president, will open the convention this morning, after which the Rev. John Timothy Stone will give the invocation. William R. Dawes and Mrs. William F. Farrell will give addresses of welcome and there will be reports of state officers. This evening Dr. Max Mason of the University of Chicago will speak on "Formalisms in Education."

An added feature of the convention is the home exposition which opened yesterday at the Stevens and will continue through the convention sessions. The exposition follows a home survey which has been conducted in the state after the manner of a nation wide campaign inaugurated at the beginning of Mrs. Sherman's administration as president of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

The survey, of which Mrs. J. Marc Fowler is state chairman, has been carried into the smallest communities, the club women acting as census takers to secure information as to the amount of labor saving devices in each and every home.

Less drudgery at home, hence more time for club work outside has been the aim of the women interested in pushing this survey. For several months they have had the assistance of the public utilities companies in Chicago in compiling their statistics to show in what homes appliances for lessening labor and increasing efficiency are to be found.

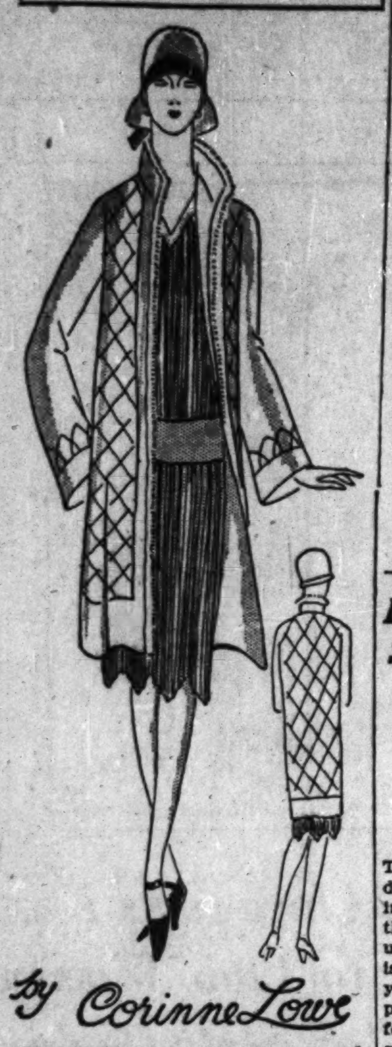
A Quilted Taffeta Evening Coat Is Chic



by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The slip of a lass—ah, that is often a very simple slip. For her dancing frock the young lady of from 13 to 16 wears those guileless crêpe, and chiffon, and tulle creations without any touch of trimming save their own plaits, and ruffles, and girdles.

In her evening wrap la jeune fille is equally abstemious. Simplest of capes and coats are designed for the moment when the subdeb is convoyed to and from her evening party. The tailored coat is perhaps more in favor for her just now than the cape. Certainly it is among the Parisian designers for the very young. These have sent us any number of models that adhere more or less to the ideal of conduct suggested today.

Taffeta is one of the materials most strongly emphasized in these evening wraps and it composes both capes and coats. In the latter the quilting effect is a detail frequently utilized to compensate for the lack of fur which is usually noticed in these youthful creations.

Today we show one of these quilted taffeta evening coats for the girl of 13 to 17. It is in rose color and the allover quilting of the garment brings into relief border, standing collar, and sleeves that are left plain. Only a touch of quilting is allowed upon the sleeves.

Let Them Blow Off Steam When Possible; It Helps Their Souls

by Mrs. Gladys Huntington Bevans

It's seven o'clock in the morning. The children get up, as well children do, instantly wide awake and bursting with energy. The first one leaps through the house and—as what goes up is bound to come down—each leap is punctuated by a thud. "Ouch," say your nerves as you think of the people below you, and, "Too much noise for so early in the morning, Janet," say your reluctant lips.

"This is a peachy size for a ball, Mom—see how it chunks right into the mitt," says your son, and he tosses the ball against the wall and catches it in his new glove. "Slick," he says, "and she's lively, too," and bounce goes the ball. "Look, Mother, look, look, look! Aw, you missed it!"

"O," you groan to yourself, and "I'm afraid you'll have to cut it out, son. It's too much racket for the Martins," you say aloud.

And so it goes. Sometimes it's other people you have to consider, or inadequate space, or the likelihood of breakage, though the act itself is innocent and natural. Don't you hate to have to put these restraints on your children?

For that matter, we don't like restrictions any too well ourselves. But of course we're broken to the harness of civilization—most of us. Even so, it's a strain for us to live with people, or visit in homes where we are either told or feel that we mustn't do this or we mustn't do that very free and ordinary thing. And, in general, don't you want terrifically hard sometimes to do the thing you want to do, just at the time you want to do it?

But the restrictions that irk us are nothing compared to those children must be conscious of. We are, as I say, mostly broken to the harness. Or to put it another way, we have adapted ourselves to life as it must be lived. But it has taken time and has not always been easy for us.

So, when he have to put restraints on our children, at least let us realize how hard it is for them and try to give them other opportunities for complete freedom to compensate—chances to run and romp and shout and scream, and bang and roll around, or whatever it is that sets them free. Let them open the throttle wide sometimes—it's good for them, body and soul.

Saturday evening, my small son accompanied me on a shopping tour down one of our busy thoroughfares. As we passed a "red hot" stand on a corner, Junior begged for one and cried all through the next block because I [being particular about his diet] refused to buy.

I wished, however, that I had, when, shortly after, I turned from a store window just in time to see him snatch a big mouthful from a sandwich a large man was holding [between bites] low enough for him to reach.

This gentleman, deaf to apologies, accepted pay. The onlookers, with highly developed senses of humor (entirely lacking in the owner of the sandwich) seemed to enjoy my embarrassment, as they listened to his voluminous sermon on "bringing up children."

I tell you, I lost no time in getting out of the picture. I grabbed Junior by the arm and sprinted, and what happened to that young man later is easily imagined. C. J. M.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., May 14.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Frank O. Lowden, who came to Washington last night, departed this afternoon for New York where they will spend several days before returning to their Illinois home. Mrs. Lowden had visits with several old friends and was the luncheon guest today of Mrs. James B. Mann.

Mrs. John G. Slade of Evanston is making a visit here this week at the Mayflower hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Defrees of Chicago, who have been in Washington for ten days accompanied by their daughter-in-law, Mrs. Donald Defrees, will be joined tomorrow by Donald Defrees who will be with them the remainder of the week.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Frost nipped back some of the tender vegetables exposed in open gardens last week. Most of the crops injured were those set out by gardeners who were willing to take a chance.

There are at least a dozen and a half vegetables so tender and susceptible to frost that it is not usually safe to put them in the open garden in this region much before the middle of May. And some of these crops are not even safe in the garden that early. One of the best home gardeners in the Chicago territory has made it a rule for many years not to put any of the following crops in the open garden before May 15: Bush beans, bush lima beans, pole lima beans, celeriac, chicory, mushmelons, okra, sweet potatoes and watermelons.

Frequently this veteran does not plant asparagus, beets and parsnips before May 15. If weather is favorable he sometimes plants these three crops after the first of May, but not before.

Another one of the rules written in this Chicago grower's book is never to plant tomatoes and cucumbers before May 20. The first day of June is his earliest planting date for pepper, celery and eggplant.

Many gardeners who had their tomatoes set out last week found them bitten by the frost and left wilted and limp on the ground Sunday morning. Frost is usually so light this late in the season that newspapers spread over the plants at night will protect the tenderest crops.

Tomatoes, sweet potatoes, peppers and eggplants are the four most important warm season crops that must be planted comparatively late to avoid losses from late spring frosts.

REMOVE MAKE-UP with PALM and OLIVE OILS

The surest way to combat coarse skin, blemishes, blackheads. These beauty oils embodied in a true complexion soap

HERE is a way to make washing your face an actual beauty treatment. Women are amazed at the softness of their skin, by the fine texture of their pores, as a result of this complexion habit.

If the skin is regularly cleansed each day—if make-up and grime are thoroughly removed—natural charm results. The most effective means to do this, in gentle safety to the skin, is by daily use of Palmolive Soap.

Its rich, luxurious lather embodies two famed beauty oils—the oil of olive and the oil of palm. They gently penetrate and cleanse the pores when applied in the following way and keep your skin radiantly clear, gloriously soft and charming:

Each night wash your face gently with soothing Palmolive. With your two hands massage the magic lather of its oils into your pores, cleansing them thoroughly. Then rinse, first with warm, then cold, water. Dry by gently patting with a soft towel. Add a little cold cream for dryness, perhaps, but that is all.

Remember—always remove make-up before you sleep. If left on it dries skin, fills pores and brings unsightly blemishes and blackheads. Always use Palmolive. 10c a cake, everywhere. The Palmolive-Peet Company, Chicago, Ill.

SOCIETY HEARS ROSE QUARTET AT ARTS CLUB

BY THALIA

Chicago's music, art, culture, and society were well represented yesterday afternoon at the chamber music program given by the distinguished Rose string quartet of Vienna at the Arts club. The most interesting number of the program was, of course, John Alden Carpenter's "Quartet in Three Movements," characteristically and modernistically Carpenterian and a vivid contrast to the Mozart and Schubert, also played. Mr. Carpenter was there to witness the triumph of his piece in his own home town and to have his hand shaken by those who understand his work and the many who don't, I'm afraid.

Receiving almost as many greetings as the artists, whom Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, gowned in beige crepe introduced, was Mrs. George T. Langhorne, the former Mary Waller, who is seen in Chicago for the first time since her marriage in England last month. She was looking fit and Englishy in a dark brown tweed suit with a brown bangkok hat trimmed in beige grosgrain to match her tan satin crepe blouse. She was with Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, who looked like a Paris fashion plate herself in a stunning crepe outfit of some fascinating new tan shade and a uniquely shaped hat of the same tone.

Tea in the drawing room after the program was a great crush. Mrs. Francis J. Johnson in a black satin ensemble with a white crepe long blouse appliqued with black tulips was pouring at one end of the long table, which was decorated with bunches of lavender stock, yellow tulips, and lemon colored snapdragons, and Mrs. Chauncey Blair in navy blue trimmed with polka-dotted crepe was at the other.

Others there included Frederick Stock, who was accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Alfred Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Bolm, Mrs. Ogden T. McClurg and her mother, Mrs. Theodore Schwarz; Mrs. John Crerar, Mrs. Americus F. Callahan, Mrs. William Prescott Hunt, Miss Marie Rozet, Miss Louis Herrick, Miss Mary Newberry, Mrs. William E. Clarke, Mrs. John F. Moffett, Mrs. James Waller Rogers, the Arthur Bissells, father and son; Mrs. Russell Matthias, back after a lengthy absence; Mr. and Mrs. Augustus S. Peabody, Mrs. Charles W. Pope, Miss Harriet Monroe, and many others too numerous to mention.

Miss Narcissa Swift, daughter of the Alden B. Swifts of 209 Lake Shore drive, has been announced the winner of the preliminary essay contest at Miss Porter's school at Farmington in connection with the national interscholastic Brooks-Bright Foundation essay contest. This means that she is now eligible for one of the three individual prizes awarded by the foundation, the first of which is a return trip to England with a letter of credit for 100 pounds sterling. The result will be known after the essay is judged with the entries of other schools. Miss Swift is a senior, at Miss Porter's, participates in basketball and has been on the honor roll for scholastic excellence. She wrote on "As the White Population of the United States of America and the British Commonwealth of Nations Has Increased in the Past Century from 20,000,000 to 170,000,000, in How Far Will the Continued Growth of Population and the Diminishing Food Supply Affect the Relations Between These Two Peoples and to What Extent Will It Affect Their Relations to Other Nations?" Miss Swift is to make her debut next winter.

Mrs. Edward A. Leight writes from Paris that she is to be presented to her majesty Queen Mary at the June 13th court, and that later she will attend the Ascot races in the royal enclosure, and the royal garden party at Buckingham palace. Before she goes to London, Mrs. Leight goes to Monte Carlo for a fortnight to visit friends there and enjoy the sunshine, and then back to Paris for a little. It is at the June 13th court that Miss Betty Sturgis is to be presented under the auspices of Mrs. Francis Leggett.

Mrs. Chauncey Blair Borland and her daughter, Martha, are due to arrive in New York this morning on the Ile de France. Mr. Borland has gone east to meet them and the trio will spend a fortnight in New York and Washington before returning to Chicago.

Mrs. Fred Booth of Ottawa, Canada, is in town visiting her father, Lloyd B. Taylor of 70 East Walton place. She attended the wedding last Friday afternoon of Phelps Duncan and Miss Dorothy Parsons, in company with her sister, Mrs. Robert J. Dunham Jr. [Virginia Taylor] of Lake Forest. She is to depart on Thursday.

Mrs. Charles T. Adams of New York City is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Louis H. Northrop of Winnetka.

Mrs. William Gerrish Beale, who has been in her new place at Aiken, S. C., for the winter, is in Chicago for a few days before going to New York City to sail on Saturday.

Mrs. Charles Wesley Folds sailed last Friday for Europe.

Mrs. William McFerran of Hoopeston, will give a dinner tonight at her home for Rufus C. Dawes, Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, Dr. and Mrs. Allen D. Albert, Mr. and Mrs. William George of Aurora, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Norris of St. Charles, Mr. and Mrs. Deering Steward of Plano, Mr. and Mrs. James E. Rend, Mr. and Mrs. Donald G. Hamilton, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Jay Ingraham, Mrs. Samuel B. Shirk, Mrs. Albion Hedberg, and Col. and Mrs. J. Ten Broeck Jones. The party will motor from Chicago to Hoopeston to participate in a mass-meeting which is to be preceded by an old fashioned parade, in the interest of the Chicago World's Fair enrollment campaign.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis S. Taylor of 1244 Stone street went to New York City to greet their daughter, Miss Helen Campbell Taylor, when she docked after 8 months of art study in Paris. They will arrive in Chicago tomorrow. Miss Taylor went abroad last September and has been studying painting, specializing in portraiture.

MRS. RICHARD C. VALENTINE.

[Perry-Atlas Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Ward S. Daniels of 7622 South Shore drive announce the marriage of their daughter, Edith, to Richard C. Valentine, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Valentine of Rockford, Ill. Mr. Valentine is a graduate of the University of Illinois.

Henry Wales, Tribune Correspondent, Is Wed

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 14.—Henry Wales, Paris correspondent of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, and Mlle. Lucie Boyer of Paris were married today in the historic Savoy chapel, just off the Strand. The wedding took place an hour after that of Sinclair Lewis, an American novelist, and Dorothy Thompson, well known newspaper woman, in the same chapel.

Operetta Star Says:

"In my work on the stage I have found MELLO-GLO Face Powder a rare blessing." Desiree Tabor, famous beauty, pays this compliment to this new, wonderful French process powder which keeps ugly shine away without drying the skin, or clogging the pores. "MELLO-GLO spreads so smoothly that not a single pore is visible, and it bestows that youthful bloom which all women covet."

Try Those Pleasant Manners on the Family, Says Doris

BY DORIS BLAKE.

A youngster was being upbraided by his mother for his rudeness when he asked her to "give me an apple" She reminded him that a "please" attached to the request would meet a more gracious response.

"Daddy never says please when he asks you for things," the boy replied.

The really good reason why homes should be run without rudeness, why good manners should be demonstrated is to set the children an example.

Why are people so often rude to their families—people who wouldn't think of showing discourtesy to the humblest acquaintance outside? If there is one place where good manners might be applied with distinct advantage it is in the ordinary, daily relationships which exist within the comparative privacy of the home circle. But it is in the close atmosphere of home and family that the cheering light of geniality, courtesy and forbearance burns low.

In dealing with our kith and kin we do fail to observe the little gallant gestures of charm and courtesy which we are at great pains to display in our treatment of other people—even total strangers. It is curious that it is easy to be patient, polite and solicitous of outsiders and brusque, blunt and casual to those who matter most in our lives.

A well known author offered the following piece of advice to mothers of young families:

"Make yourselves as attractive to them as you do to other people."

The significance of the advice is not obscure.

Generally speaking, we do not make ourselves as attractive to our own family as we do to other people. Whether the strain to be consistently polite is too great and home is believed to be a place where you can relax and be natural are the reasons, or not, I don't know.

Anyway, the fact remains that the temptation to let the cherished standard of good manners lapse in the treatment of members of one's family is a common characteristic.

It's for the good example due the youngsters we plead courtesy and more of it in the home.

Town and Gown Play Shop Wins Tournament Prize

The Town and Gown Play Shop of Evanston won the Edith Rockefeller McCormick prize cup in the finals of the Drama League play tournament at the Goodman theater on Sunday night, after a heated judging session which did not end until after 1 o'clock in the morning. They played "The Under Current," by Mrs. Fay Ehlert. The Bell Telephone Players, in "The Valiant," won second prize, and the prize for the best diction went to Harold Simonds of the Cloister Mummers, who entered "The Pipes of Pan."

PATTERNS BY CLOTILDE

[Registered U. S. Patent Office.]

WOMAN'S OR MISS' DRESS.

This pretty frock is designed to accentuate the slender silhouette and is a perfectly straight one piece dress with a shirred drapery attached at the left side front. A stay underneath, just below the waistline, holds the dress close to the figure. The swathed girdle gives the uneven hemline and the plain, close fitting sleeves finish perfectly. One of the sheer crêpes with printed coin dots, wool crêpe, crêpe satin, faille silk crêpe, lustrous flat silk crêpe, and Celanese printed voile are chic.

The pattern, 3219, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 40 inch material.

'Masque of Red Death' Presented at Goodman

As a preliminary to "A Midsummer Night's Dream," they are doing "The Masque of the Red Death" at the Goodman this week. This is a pantomime by Neal Caldwell, based on the Poe story of the same name, with music by Hamilton Forrest. It describes itself as a grotesque in rhythmical dissonance, and the description is accurate. About all that can be added is that the music, while seldom startling, is agreeable; that three singers sit in the orchestra to add their voices—without words—to the tone of strings and pianos; that there is a succession of groans, wails, and grunts, also without words, from the stage folk; that a less human collection of costumes and masks has seldom been devised; and that the greatest amount of action falls to the Red Death, who walks across the stage twice and then appears at the back under a clock while the others collapse in the counterfeit of death.

Pauline Manchester, the winner of the recent pianists' contest sponsored by the Society of American Musicians, appeared under its auspices in a recital at Fine Arts recital hall last night before an audience larger than could be comfortably accommodated therein. She is distinctly talented, not always letter perfect in accuracy, but showing the signs of a musical personality of her own. MacDowell's "Sonata Tragica" was the chief item of a program that ranged over considerable territory, from Bach and Scarlatti to Debussy, Ravel, and Chasins.

A joint recital by Dorothy Malkin, soprano, and Hannah Wald, pianist, at Lyon & Healy hall disclosed the singer with a voice of much promise and considerable knowledge of how to project a song, and the pianist with good taste and a pair of well trained hands, also a belief in a not entirely mature talent as a composer.—E. TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Fried Hominy or Fritters.

When I cook big hominy I want leftovers of it. In the first place I think it so like the old fashioned hulled corn that I like to eat it in milk, as that is eaten, or as a vegetable plain buttered. And a long time ago when we had a prize contest an artist of note sent us a recipe for hominy bread which he had got in the Central Americas somewhere and he got a prize for it. It was made of big or pearl hominy cooked till tender and rather dry, put through the food grinder—peanut butter disk—which gave a dough not world's different from that used for the Mexican or really Spanish tortilla. It had no addition save salt.

To one cup of cooked and mashed hominy add one-fourth cup of flour, one egg, one teaspoon of salt if needed, one-half teaspoon of sugar or sugar to taste when you are not going to use fritters with gravy. It helps in the browning. Mix these ingredients, dip up portions with a tablespoon, form into a shape that can be rolled in bread crumbs, and fry in deep fat at about 370, but lower rather than higher. But because bread crumbs brown so deeply as to be objectionably dark it is perhaps best to cook these at 360 and for a bit longer. We say cook, but all that is really needed is to heat the hominy piping hot. The egg cooks instanter.

Needs a Mimeograph.

"Will you kindly inquire if, among your readers, there is someone who has a mimeograph machine. This organization is self supporting and as we send out from two to three hundred letters every month, we really need a machine and cannot afford to buy it. W. R."

This request comes from the commander of one of the American Legion posts. If you have a mimeograph machine and have no use for it, I know you'll be happy to donate it to the cause.

No one is safe!

Waiter, nurse, clubwoman—it doesn't matter who we are, every one of us may offend unknowingly.

Perspiration odor . . . quickly kills popularity

How millions keep perspiration odorless

HOWEVER attractive or charming we may otherwise be, we can never hope to amount to anything socially—if we're guilty of perspiration odor. The faintest suggestion of odor brands us as careless, makes us unacceptable.

Thus, it's well for everybody to be on guard—always. Even if we don't seem to perspire at all, our millions of pores are constantly giving off invisible perspiration—often as much as a quart of odor-causing waste a day.

The offender never knows

And very often, we may be guilty—without knowing it. For our own sense of smell becomes deadened to familiar odors

Yet there is no excuse for risking this unpardonable offense now. Millions already know this delightful way to keep safe—Lifebuoy. Just wash and bathe regularly with this purifying toilet soap—it deodorizes—keeps perspiration odorless.

Lifebuoy's bland and abundant antiseptic lather also guards health by removing germs. Benefits complexions, too—keeps them clear, fresh, glowingly healthy.

Note its clean scent

You will learn to love Lifebuoy's pleasant clean scent, which tells you Lifebuoy purifies. It quickly evaporates after rinsing. Use Lifebuoy a week and you'll use it for life. Get some today.

And Now They Ask "How Can We Get Up in the Morning?"

by Antoinette Donnelly

In conducting this department I have been asked a number of questions that have sent me scuttling into odd corners for help in their solution. But this morning a unique question is propounded, unique in that it is the first occasion I've been asked to tell how you can get up in the morning.

Hitherto my advisory duties began the moment my victim hopped out of bed and was ready for her setting up exercises. But it is fair enough to be reproached for overlooking the important item of how to separate an unwilling frame from the bed to which it clings like a needle to a magnet.

Reviewing the methods learned by hearsay, thank God not by experience, the first one occurring is a pail of cold water thrown over the prostrate form. It's known to have made folk rise with a leap. What happened after the leap we shan't go into here.

Then of course, there is the alarm clock, whose power may be doubled, whose effect made more penetrating by the simple procedure of mounting it on an upturned tin at the side of the bed. One report on this device and its effectiveness was issued from the police court where the neighbors had dragged the unfortunate owner. So that we can't endorse.

The Englishman says one way out of the difficulty is the morning cup of tea. But where will you find the dotingly unselfish one to bring it? Then there is the contingency, effective on cold mornings, anyway, of hiring some callous soul to pull sheets and blankets away from the self-indulgent form.

Beyond the above suggestions we can only offer a decently early retiring hour and some reasoned thinking before falling to sleep at night. Late rising, you can tell yourself, means a hurried toilet, a hasty breakfast, bad indigestion, irritability, missed trains and all the other demons that dance attendance upon its victim.

Sunshine and fresh air in one's bedroom help. But habit, developed by an appreciation of the advantages of early rising, is perhaps the best we can offer.

SECOND MORTGAGE LOANS

With the general increase of taxes the property owner must more and more concern himself with cutting the corners of cost.

We know an instance where taxes have risen from $70 to $300 or an increase of $230. We happen to have dealt with a home owner the other day who was obliged to renew a second mortgage in the face of his increased taxes. His loan amounted to $3,000. He had originally paid a commission of $600. The renewal was made at our usual rate of $270.

So far as expenses loaded on this property are concerned, this home owner had saved $330 or more than enough to pay his increased taxes.

We invite home owners [and we construe up to a three flat building to be a home] to consider the possibility of saving charges against their property by making or renewing a second mortgage through the agency of The Chicago Morris Plan Bank.

We have already reduced our rate three times and it is now pretty low: 6% interest plus a commission, which works out as follows:

$65.00 per $1,000 for 2 years.
$90.00 per $1,000 for 3 years.
